On the 25th of June last the Canadian lacrosse teams played a match in Birmingham, where they scored perhaps the greatest success of the trip. Fully seven thousand people witnessed the match, which resulted in a tie, both whites and Indians taking two games. The effect of the game on the crowd was almost magical, they became greatly excited, and if the Canadian boys missed the inspiring "hand clapping" that echoes over the grounds in Toronto they were given opportunities of examining into the quality of the notorious British cheer. After the match the Canadians were banquetted.

best on record was the long jump and that is only an English record.

At the recent horse show at Islington, says the London Sportsman, it was reported that in the jumping contest for ponies Taipo and Prince Charlie were so close together in the order of merit that they were made to compete over a five-barred gate. Prince Charlie performed some antics in the ring, and was fearlessly ridden by a lad, who apparently disregarded danger, and he was in the end for his skill and courage, specially rewarded by Lord Aveland. The lad to whom these notes referred is Richard Chaloner, son of the famous jockey Tom Chaloner, who rode Macaroni to victory for the Derby, Feu de Jole for the Oaks, Caller Ou, The Marquis, and Craig Millar for the St. Leger; Macaroni, Meslem and Gang Forward for the Two Thousand Guineas, Caller Ou in her two victories for the Northumberland Plate, besides riding winners of most of the other good things on the turf. On his mother's side "Little Dick," as he is familiarly called, is nephew to John Osborne, the "Bank of England" jockey. Need it be wondered that he showed more than ordinary skill and courage in the saddle?

minutes of pretty warm play W. Donaldson from quarter-field s.nt a be utiful incr straight through the centre of the visitors goal, thus winning the third game of the match for the Torontos.

Everybody hoped that the home twelve would get the fourth game. The face was followed by a vigorous assault on the Toronto goal, which Garvin, who was doing really splendid work, repelled. A quick flight up the field, and Aird got possession and the rubber flew down again. Out of a short scrimmage, Hubb II secured a throw and the fight raged in the vicinity of the Montreal defeace. Here the two Elliots were working like Trojans, well backed up by Patterson and Hemilton, the dude of the tesm, who it is whispered whitens his legs and prides himself on his standplay. Whether the insinuations be true or not, he certainly did good work for his team. Wild throws and consequently facings were fuquent in this game. Fully half of the thirty-two minutes which it cocupied with ever-vary-ing fortune was devoted to stoppages, which, it is needless to say, were v.ry welcome to the tired players sweltering under the burning rays of a July sun. Many a time and oft the Torouto flags were threatened, but the defence played hard and gave the home plenty of opportunities to do their duty. But they were not equal to the occasion. Donaldson became completely fagged out, and some of the others were in little better condition. Heyes, McHenry and Macpherson occasionally made a spurt, but the Montrealers were usually too much for them. In the field Blaiklock, McNaughton and Hamilton of the visitors were ever on the move, and finally after inpeated attempts Blaiklock got his work in, and for the third time the Montrealers were hailed as victors, having in 32 minutes worte followed.

Costello responded in gallant style, and Eole had to drop back again. Just after passing the stand for the second time Donohue again put on the steam, and going wide on the outside it looked as though he would go to the front again, but Monitor was full of running, and as soos as Eole's spure died out Monitor came away again and opened out a big gap again. There was no further effort on the part of Donohue until rounding the last turn but one, when he made another attempt, but he could not get up, and he eased Eole a bit. After the horses passed the second furlong pole he began to use the whip and spur, and came up hand over hand, and 30 yards from the finish he had he head in front, but at this critical moment stopped using his whip and Eole seemed to stop. The hait lost the race, and Monitor won by haif a length.

There was a slight east wind altogether by the time the crafts reached the Queen's wharf At this point, the Daisy and the Jamboree gave up and came back. The rest rounded the buoy off the lighthouse about five o'clock, the Iris taking the lead, and those who were watching the progress began to think they would not manage to make the course before 8 o'clock. The wind, hewever, turned sround to the south and freshened up a little, and the Iris managed to sall in about half-past seven. The Iris was followed by the Kestrel, about three-quarters of a mile behind. The others were out-distanced altogether. A protest has been entered against the Iris, on the ground that she was sailed by Captain Newton and his son, who are professional seamen. The Madcap was the first toget through the western channel, with every stitch of carvas set, followed by the Al'een, Verve and Oriole. On the beat to windward, the Alien soon distanced her rivals, and seemed to bid well for first place, but the wind fell to a calm when she was off Victoria park. The tug which was to be rowarded and which had come to a stand about ten miles off to windward made for the yacht, and by mutual consent the race was declared off. The tug picked up the fleet one after another, and with the four in tow reached the moorings about half past six.
