Conservative votes among old personal and political friends. He was unanimously enconservative votes among old personal and political friends. He was unauimously endorsed by the Liberal convention. In Restigueth Moffatt is straight Conservative but believed to be a Mitchell man, and on close party vote might go into Opposition. Burns in Gloucester, Wood in Westmoreland, Temple in York, Wilmot in Sunbury, Foster in Kings', Costigan in Victoria, Weldon in Albert are straight Conservatives and would follow Sir John into opposition if necessary, Peter Landry of Kent hedges somewhat in his canvasa, condemns some acts of the Government, though a Conservative. He might go into Opposition under certain possible circumstances. King and Gillmore are well-known straight Liberal at first, hoping to get elected by acclamation. He is a straight Liberal and will oppose the Government. Weldon, Skinner and Ellis of St. John are all straight Liberal and will vote with Blake in Opposition. On a want of confidence motion the New Brunswick vote would be nine Conservatives, seven Opposition; Prince Edward Island men all Opposition.

Special Despatch to The World.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 23.—In Prince Edward Island six straight Liberals are elected by large majorities, all of whom will follow Mr. Blake in Opposition. There were straight tickets in every constituency, no mention of Independents. The Conservatives were all defeated.

In New Brunswick Peter Mitchell is straight Opposition, though getting many Conservative votes among old personal and political friends. He was unanimously entropy to the straight votes among old personal and political friends. He was unanimously entropy to the Hamilton Spectator (Conservative). Yesterday's victory was one of no common importance. It assures the integrity of the Dominion and the permanence of the National Policy. With Mr. Blake in power Nova Scotia would certainly be lost to Canada. The Grits of that province made their fight distinctly upon the issue of Secession. And, though Mr. Blake hedged and equivocated respecting protection to home industry, no sane man doubts that a Grit victory would have pressaged the destruction of the National Policy. Now that policy will be so firmly entrenched that at the next election the Grits will not dare to assail it.

Every patriotic Canadian has reason devoutly and humbly to return thanks to Divine Goodness for saving Canada, through yesterday's conservative victory from a great public calamity.

English Newspaper Comment.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—This morning's Standard has a special from Berlin saying that the majority for the Septennate is absolutely assured, the Opposition having lost up to the present about thirty-eight votes, and that Herr Richter's party, the new German Liberals, is almost annihilated. Editorially the Standard says: "It is too soon to express a definite opinion, but it is safe to say that the Government is secure so far as the Septennate opinion, but it is safe to say that the Govern ment is secure so far as the Septennatis concerned; that the Socialists have made great gains and that there will still be a wide difference between Prince Bismarck and the Reichstag, which will be very irritating to the former." This, the Standard thinks, may finally lead to serfour results. "Is there no danger," the Standard goes no say, "that this sentiment of irritation may help at a given moment to urge the country into violent decisions outside the sphere of domestic politics? It would indeed be a melancholy termination to a great career were Prince Bismarck to be forced to head the internal feuds of his countrymen by inflaming them against a foreign foe."

The Daily News thinks that the remarkable feature of the election is the unexpected success of the Alsatian or. French candidates, Their return to the number of fifteen would in any case have been significant, but the menacing speech recently delivered by Prince Hohenlohe, the strong measures taken against Frenchmen in Alsace and Lorraine, and the critical relations of the French republic with the German empire add importance to this really Separatist vote.

Paris newspapers are jubilant over the result in Alsace-Lorraine, as it shows antipath

At 10.30 the serenaders reached the Rossin House. In naders reached the Rossin House. In the King-street corridor the band took up a position and played a few lively airs. Mr. Cockburn appeared on the broad stairway and listened attentively to the music. Several lady guests of the house enjoyed the scene from the balcony. Then Ald. Irwin told Mr. Cockburn that the electors of the Noble Ward had the utmost confidence in him and that they were sure he would do the Noble Ward had the utmost confidence in him and that they were sure he would do honor to himself and his constituents in Parliament. "You are a man of means, Mr. Cockburn," said the alderman, "and will expect nothing from the Government."

Mr. Cockburn thanked the party for the honor done him. When he went to Ottawa his only aim would be to acree the honor.
