

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Fortwo years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed.

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

German scientists find that the application of the electric current to the soil increased the yield of grain and stalks in barley, 12 per cent., and with oats 43 per cent., while potatoes increased 24 per cent. and strawberries 50 per cent. In experiments made at Newcastle, Eng., a surplus of 37 per cent. was obtained with strawberries, a gain of 30.5 per cent. with peas, while the gain of potatoes was from 15 to 30 per cent. In another experiment the yield increased by 123 per cent. with strawberries, with 32.5 per cent. with barley, with 119.5 per cent. with sugar beets and by 30 per cent. with beans. Sugar beets electrically grown yielded 2.2 to 2.7 per cent. more sugar than those grown without it, while tobacco electrically treated during growth is said to have a beautiful color and an excellent flavor.

health, most of the friends and companions who started with them on life's journey are gone and yet we often grudge them the brightness and joy we might so easily put into their lives. We will not stay to hear the recollections of old and happy days which they love to tell us. We let them see so plainly that their day is over and ours has come! That those who have borne the burden and heat of the day, toiled and struggled and worn themselves out for others, should be left to feel lonely and neglected is sorrowful. We can and ought, each and all, in our own place and way, do something to bring the glow of summer and the remembrance of the days of roses and love into their eyes, now fast nearing their winter and their end.

There are indications that the movement away from the land is receding, and that the trend from this time on will be rather in the direction of bringing more people into Western Ontario. This part of the province has been drained for years of its best young men and women to populate the western provinces. This is in accord with the example of all ages, for a new country always attracts many of the best from the old districts. However, is it not time that Ontario saw to it that her own interests are not hampered by too-extensive emigration and her natural progress halted by a population too scanty to properly look after the development of agriculture. All this may be said without expressing the slightest antagonism to the west, and with a full appreciation of national prosperity.

Her Only Hope.

The Superintendent of Annuities has received the following enquiry from an anxious correspondent who, probably, had read the announcement that the agency staff of the Branch had been discontinued.

"I wish to ask, is it a fact that the Annuities System has been abolished? If so, I am terribly disappointed, as I have intended for some time to buy an Annuity next summer, paying the full price. I never thought that the Act could be abolished, and have been using the money in other ways until I was of age to receive the first payment. I and many others have thought that the Annuities was a fine provision for poor people. Can I still buy a Government Annuity? and if not, is there anything that will take its place that can be bought? I do hope that it is not true that the Annuities has been abolished, as it gave me the ONLY HOPE for my 'old age.'"

We are glad to say that the Annuities System has not been abolished. In transferring the Branch to the Post Office Department under the administration of the Postmaster General it is believed that a wider publicity will be given to the System, and that both old and young will more readily learn of the opportunity Parliament has afforded them for making provision for old age, the Postmasters now becoming active, while formerly they were only passive, agents of the Branch. The benefits will, of course, be more apparent when payments are begun at an early age, the accumulation period being longer, and the marvellous earning power of compound interest at 4 per cent. being more strikingly demonstrated; and there is always the danger if payment is deferred to a late age that unfortunate investments or expenditures may be made, and the necessary amount be not then available. There is no time like the present.

Full information in regard to the various plans on which Annuities may be purchased may be obtained at the Post Office or on application to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters on Annuities business go free of postage.

Nothing looks more ugly than to see a person whose hands are covered over with warts. They have these disfigurements on your person when a sure remover of all warts, corns, etc., can be found in Holloway's Corn Cure. m

If your children moan and are restless during sleep, coupled, when awake, with a loss of appetite, pale countenance, picking of the nose, etc., you may depend upon it that the primary cause of the trouble is worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator effectually removes these pests, at once relieving the little sufferers. m

Attention to Reading.

It would be well-nigh impossible to over-estimate the importance in anyone's life of the use that is made of the printed page, says the Guardian. It is at once the bane and the blessing of our modern life. The book, at its best, is so good and so helpful; at its worst it is so viciating, destructive and hurtful.

To start a young man or a young woman out into life with two things—a full liking for reading of the better sort, and a taste to discern and appreciate what is best—is to start them out, in a measure at least, well-equipped for enjoyment and usefulness in living. Horizons will be broader, perspectives will be seen in a truer light, burdens will not rest down so heavily, youthfulness and courage and hopefulness will be more likely to endure, the brain will be clearer, and the heart sounder, because of that taste and liking for the good and the best in literature.

There is no matter to which parents and teachers should give more careful and painstaking attention than that one of developing in the boys and girls a good taste in books, not only in the matter of literary art but as well in what is often of vastly greater importance, good taste in manners and in morals. The instinct to know and to like a good, true book, and to hate a bad and dangerous one, is a possession of incalculable value, and one infinitely worth trying to develop in a growing boy or girl.

We often wish that the schools of our land attempted more along that one line of cultivating a true and wholesome literary taste in the minds and hearts of scholars. Teachers could greatly help parents who feel their responsibilities in this matter, and yet know their serious limitations; while at the same time they could safeguard that large class of boys and girls whose parents apparently feel no responsibility, and put forth no effort. To give any boy or girl a taste for the noblest and best in literature is, in the truest and fullest sense, to educate them. And if the teacher is himself or herself really educated in this way, that should be one of the most noted and positive results of the teaching given.

It was a faithful Swede girl who, when the winter was coldest and the furnace was not working right, was admonished by her mistress to take an iron to bed with her to warm it. In the morning the kindly woman asked Lena how it worked. "Pretty good," she said, "Ay had it almost warm by morning."
