enough that some of the sharp shooters have mustered valor enough to fire at a likeness of the young Queen of England, and doubtless think that act of gallantry enough to give them everlasting fame. If Sir John Harvey's veteran militiamen had chosen so shoot Mr. Van Buren in effigy, we should have thought the exploit foolish enough and unsoldierly enough, in all conscience; but for men, men calling themselves such, claiming the attributes of manhood—for them to put up an effigy of a young and lovely woman as a target to fire at with their rusty muskets, is to put them in the category of savages. The poltroons who did that, would dodge the flash of a Nova Scotia priming—they would have run from the shake of an apron from a female passenger in a British baggage waggon."

The Editor of the New York Albion has renewed his youth like the Eagle's—he has renovated his spirit with the exigency of the times—and deserves due praise for the judicious and independant stand he has taken since our border difficulties have occurred.—We felt called upon some time ago to notice the improved edition of this truly British Journal printed in the Commercial Capital of the United States, and having this opportunity of yeilding it our sincere applause, we commend to our fellow subjects a careful perusal of its editorial articles.

We would call the attention of our readers to the two articles on first page signed "C." Independently of the admirable style in which they are written, the subjects are highly interesting, the former affecting the welfare not only of individuals but the prosperity of the Country—the latter taking an argumentative view of Sir John Harvey's policy, widely differing from the fashionable deprecatory language pervading most of our prints. That the reflecting people of the States think that Maine has lost ground by her imprudence, we have a wide expression in their papers to prove. One extract from the Kennebec Journal will be found in a preceding column, to which we wish our readers to refer.

On the 10th inst. our Militia were reduced to the peace establishment of 1 officer, 2 sergeants, and 22 rank and file. It is only doing justice to Capt. Boyd to mention his unwearied exertions to improve the company in discipline, to produce regularity and good habits in the soldiers, and to procure them whatever comforts he could command. The cleanly appearance of the men, the propriety of their movements, and proficiency in exercise are the successful result of these exertions. Lieut. Parkinson and 2d Lieut. Wardlaw have been efficient officers, and have acted in perfect harmony and union with the views of Capt. Boyd. We understand Mr. Wardlaw remains in command of the corps.

Mr. Biddle's letter of resignation is the lion of the American papers of the day. The reasons he assigns for leaving the directory of the Bank are scarcely sufficient for this important separation. We should not wonder if his political acumen has enabled him to look towards the presidential chair, through the dissensions daily springing up among the parties for Webster, Clay and lastly General Scott.

The Court of Common Pleas for this County was opened on Tuesday last and closed yesterday. We have not heard of any of its proceedings requiring notice; but we have heard of some omissions which it will be necessary to advert to if our informant be correct.

LOST.—On Tuesday evening last, the Lower Joint of a German Flute. The finder will be suitably rewarded on leaving it at the Standard Office. April 12.

MARRIED,

At St. John, on the 31st ult. by the Rev. William Andrew, Mr. John B. Arbuckell, of Pennfield, to Mrs. Jane Patterson, of the Parish of Portland, County of Saint John.

DIED,

At Tower Hill, Saint David, on Thursday the 4th inst. Sarah Sharman, for 21 years consort of James Brown Esq. M. P. P. On returning from his legislative duties, her sorrowing husband found her wasted with seven weeks severe illness, which she had borne with much patience and resignation to the will of heaven; after she was only permitted to attend her during a few of her last days, and see her take her departure calmly in the humble confidence of a happy exchange. She was the mother of 10 children, seven of whom survive to bewail their bereavement.

ON THE DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY,
Mentioned in the Obituary of last, Standard.

In early life, she scarcely knew
A care that might corrode the mind,
When called, her happy spirit flew
To Him—who made her so resigned,

To be removed from pain and grief
To realms of bliss—where seraphs dwell,
Her spirit found a kind relief,
While yet the tongue lisped Fare thee well.

Friends feel their loss—and do deplore,
That Death, the cords of life should sever
But Death, through Christ does but restore
Loved friends to part, no more—forever
