The St. Leon Water Company, 4 victoria Square:

GENTLEMEN,—Being a sufferer from Rheumatism and Dyspepsia for a number of years, I have found that the use of St. Leon Mineral Water has given me greater relief than any other remedy that I have used (and I can safely say that I have tried everything from Dan to Beersheba). I firmly believe that a constant use of the St. Leon Water will cure the worst case. I am yours truly, Harry I. Dean. Harry J. Dean.

PEACH RICE PUDDING.—Good for breakfast or lunch. Pare and stone a quart of peaches, and lay them in a pudding dish; sprinkle lightly with sugar and cover with an equal quantity of cold-boiled rice. Moisten the rice with rich milk of thin, sweet cream, and bake three-quarters of an hour. Serve with cream and sugar, or with a sauce made of one well-beaten egg, a cup of sugar, a tablespoonful of fresh butter and a half pint of boiling milk. Flavour with nutmeg or brandy. Hominy, farina, wheaten grits, or gluten may be substituted for the rice. Farina, cooked thoroughly in a double boiler with milk and a pinch of salt, and set in a mould until cold, is both attractive and excellent, served with peaches for tea or dessert. peaches for tea or dessert.

A RADICAL CHANGE. - Daniel Sullivan, A RADICAL CHANGE.—Daniel Sullivan, of Malcolm, Ont., takes pleasure in recommending Burdock Blood Bitters for dyspepsia. It cured him after years of suffering. From being a sceptic he is now a confirmed believer in that medicine.

Sponge Pudding With Peaches.—
Make a compote of peaches by cooking the halves carefully in a syrup made of two cups of sugar and one of water to a quart of fruit. Made a sponge cake after this recipe: Three eggs, a cup of sugar, a scant cup of flour with half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda in two tablespoonfuls of warm water, and a teaspoonful of extract of bitter almond or vanilla. Bake in an oval pan at least three inches deep. These may be prepared the day before the pudding is wanted. Tear the cake apart in the middle, and place the peaches between the two layers, and pour over all a mock cream made of a pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls of gelatine dissolved; in the usual manner, a well-beaten egg, half a cup of sugar and a little extract of bitter almond. Or the cake may be moistened with sherry, stuck over with blanched almonds and covered with a glaze of boiled icing. In this case, whipped cream should be served with it. This makes an elegant and delicious dessert for a formal lunch or dinner. SPONGE PUDDING WITH PRACHES lunch or dinner.
