THE BOMBARDMENT OF SEBASTOPOL. Fron the London Times, April 25.

The accounts of the bombardment of Sebastopol, which have now reached us by the French mail packet, by way of St. Petersburg and by Vienna, are all of extreme interest, and we are enabled, though still very imperfectly, to record from the 9th to the 17th instant, the progress of this gigantic operation of war. The fire to the town. opened at 5 a.m. on the morning of the 9th of April in a storm of wind and rain, which appears to have driven the smoke of the cannonde towards the Russian lines, so as to prevent the enemy from taking the range of our batteries. la the course of the first day it is stated that the superiority of the fire of the Allies was essplished and maintained, that the Russian batteries on the Maimone and Round tower were almost silenced. The Redan continued to fire only six guns and the French had silenced the Flag-staff bat-tery. General Canrobert reported on 14th that in the preceding night our troops had driven the Russians from their strong positions on the left, and remained masters of those important points. These strong positions are doubtless situated in and behind what is termed the Garden battery. in front of the left attack of the French army. We believe that the principal object of the opera tion in which the allied armies are now engaged is to effect a lodgment on this work. Prince Gortschakoff, however, in a telegraphic message of the 16th to St. Petersburg, affirms that, not withstanding the continuous cannonade to which the place had then been exposed for six days. chastopol was in almost the same state of 9th, and that the losses of the garrison had been comparatively small. These statements must be received with suspicion, as it is the interest of the Russian Commander-in-Chief to make the best of his case, but our own accounts, which extend to the 17th, admit that the Russians had shown extraordinary energy and endurance in resisting the fire, and it is not yet stated that ive impression has been made on the main works of the town. The magnitude and duration of this attack, far exceeding both in the number and calibre of the guns the menorable bombardment of Gibraltar by the French and Spaniards in 1782, and without a parallel in military history, and the whole of this extraordinary siege forms an era in the art of war.

to subdue and occupy some of the outer works mately, there is no want of pashas in the army, which the Russian engineers, under the command of General Toileben, have constructed with so much skill, hardihood and efficiency. Accordingly, while the principal efforts of the French are directed against the triple battery, shall be well satisfied if this attack leaves the formidable obstacle to the success of the siege. A decided advance of this nature would be the surest pledge of our ultimate success. It has been well observed by a French contemporary writer of great judgment on military affairs, that the natural irregularity of the ground about Sebastopol, and the difficulties of the position of the besieging armies represent on a large scale these defences which the art of fortification invents and constructs for the protection of places less favored by nature. Thus the ravines and hills outside the town, sloping down to the vailey of the Tchernaya and the harbor, form to many covered ways, counter-approaches, and detached forts, which the Russian engineers have used with as much skill as if they had been artificial outworks in the town, while on the contrary, the scientific officers of the allied armies have evidently been perplexed by the novelty and irregularity of the ground, although these circumstances, judiciously employed, might have been turned to our advantage. Thus the Russians have so placed their new batteries on Mount Sapoune as to enfilled our position, should we advance to the attack of the Malakoff Tower. Yet in the earlier period of the siege the choice of all these external positions was in our own hands. Several occurrences which were announce by the last mail clearly indicated that important events were shortly to be expected. We received at first with some uncertainty the statement that 15,000 Turks, under Omar Pacha, had landed as Kamiesch Bay; but it is now ascertained that sent back to Eupatoria to organize this expedition. Five French steamers arrived to convey the troops, and, although the weather in the first week of April prevented their immediate embarkation, it is certain that some of the finest regiments in the Turkish service have been conveyed to Sebastopol to take part in the ensuing operations. At the same time we learn that the Exprian division, which is composed of excellent troops, organized by French officers, has been despatched in all haste from Constantinople to the Crimea: and before long the first detachments of the Sardianian corps will have proceeded to the seat of war. Before the month of May is armies in the Crimes will amount to a far larger erce than anticipated. The medical officers further preparations for the contingencies of active war. Dr. Hall reports that 1,400 patients in the Crimes, including the new huts applied to this service, and that 620 can, if necessary be embarked in steamers fitted up as hospital

While these preparations and the continued fire of the whole line of batteries against the town and its outworks indicate the near approach of a more decisive period in this difficult and protracted siege, it is probable that the enemy is not idle behind that range of hills, which altogether masks his position and his movements from the observation of the allied commanders. Lord Ragian reports on the 7th that fresh troops and considerable convoys have entered the town and that other bodies of troops have quitted it. There can be no doubt that a powerful Russian army occupies the strategical position of Sim-pheropol, with a view either to relieve the place we are besieging or to fall at a suitable moment on the works near Balaclava. Hence the importance of increasing the strength of the troops who have to guard our extended lines of countervallation, and to cover the whole of our own intrenchments, while we are working steadily onwards towards Sebastopol. We find, however, nothing in this recent intelligence to divert us from the conviction we have repeatedly expressed, that, although the attack upon the southern side of the place may be carried on as far as possible with the means we have for its reduction, no decisive success can be obtained until we are in a condition to invest the north side also, by the operation of some part of the allied armies on the Belbek or in the interior of the Crimes.

THE TERRISH EXPEDITION TO THE CRIMBA. From the London Correspondent of the London Times.

Eupatoria, April 2 There is no change in our position, except that since the affair with the Bashi-Bazouks, which you know from my last letter, the Russian videttes have retired to the ridge on the other side of the creek, and the valley which forms the continuation of it. They left only a few men in the village of Manni, the scene of the fight with the Bashi-Bazouks. They have even abandoned the bridge. The day before vester-day the Bashi-Bazouks went out again towards the village of Mamai. The Russians were however, on the alert; the few men in the village fell back towards their reserves, and three squadrons of regular Russian cavalry, with a host of Cossacks before them, appeared on the ridge. Some of the Bashi-Bazouks entered the village, but nothing whatever was found. As Omas Pasha had given the order not to venture an engagement, the Bashi-Bazouks skirting the valley leading to the creek drew slowly to the right, followed by the skirmishers of the enemy. who were parallel to them on the other side, Several of the Bashi-Basouks passed the bridge without being molested; and the whole returned

In the meantime the works are continued with the same activity as before. Since I wrote nother redoubt has been begun. The new works have now the appearance of an intrenched camp. The space included is large enough for the whole army. There is plenty of room for lrilling, which is going on every day.

Several wells have been dug, which afford no small convenience to an army so greedy of the pure element. Every company in the Turkish army has its sakkus—that is, leather bags filled with water, which are put on the bat horses like ommon saddle-lags. Several of the companies have barrels transported on the carts of the country. The sakkas not only form an essential part of every march or battle, but they are even taken whenever the soldiers go out for drill, and whenever there is a moment of rest the soldiers flock to them.

On the piers the busy activity prevailing since the last month has somewhat subsided. For several days no steamer had come in, so that only a number of Turkish brigs, laden mostly with wood and barley, remained to be cleared. Yesterday, however, the Ripon arrived with several hundred horses, which were got out to-day. The St. Jean d'Acre, 101 (Captain Koppel) defence on the 15th as it had been before the came in likewise the day before yesterday. The crew are suffering from scurvy, I heard, and a change of air was thought necessary. She is leaving again to-night. Beiram Pacha General Cannon) arrived here a few days ago. It is supposed that he will take the command of the ecoud Division, instead of Ismail Pacha, who is spoken of as Mushir, commander of a corps the affair of the 17th of last month. Eupatoria, somehow or other, seems to be fatal to pachas.
Tefik Pasha died of typus; Ghiriti Mchmed
Pasha of a chest complaint; Arab Selim Pasha was killed. Lately Eupatoria lost two more pashas. Mushir Ahmed Pasha left suddenly about ten days ago, and to-night Muhas Pasha (Prince Sturdiz), Chief d'Etat Major of the exlition, is leaving in a Turkish steamer. ali that the allied Generals can hope to effect is | Pasha (Count Koscelsk) takes his place. Fortumore without losing much.

Since last night the whole state of affairs has been altered. It seems to be taking another direction. There was to have been a reconnaisden Battery, our fire is mainly directed against the Great Redan, in front of our own Lancaster battery and Picket's bill; and the Franch chartery and Picket's bill and the Franch chartery and Picket's bill and the Franch chartery and Picket's bill and the Picket's bill and the Picket's bill and the Picket's bill and the Pic on the extreme right is occupied with the works in front of the Malakhoff Tower. Of these three points of attack the first is the most advanced, and that which most threatens the interior of are destined to take them to their destination, which, of course, is kept secret; but there can which of course, is kept secret; but there can be no doubt that something decisive must soon which commenced on the 9th of April will be the take place. An order of the day was issued to immediate reduction of the place itself, and we the troops destined to sail. In it the Marshal expressed his hope that they will do honor to allied armies in possession of some of the ad- the Ottoman army, as the eyes of Europe will vanced works which are the main defences of be fixed upon them, and that the Marshal him-Sebastopol, and have hitherto proved the most self will be among them and share with them went and wee This order of the day was received by the troops with enthusiasm. They seemed to be proud of the confidence placed in them, and egan to make their preparations with as much joy as if they were going to a feast; but in the forenoon the wind became so strong and the sea so high that all idea of embarking was given up.

April 4th.

The expedition which was so suddenly decided upon yesterday seems to be assuming larger proportions. A considerably greater of troops have got orders to sail than was at first thought of.

Colonel Simmonds, who went vesterday night immediately after the arrival of the French steamer, to Kamiesch, has returned this morning. The sea remained high the whole day, so that no embarcation could take place, but num-bers of troops were already on the beach, ready if any change occurred. Two other French men-of-war came in to day, destined likewise to take troops. An English steamer arrived with despatches, and went off again immediately.

THE present critical state of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the forthcoming year. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily a fitten newsitems, crude speculation, and ships rummers of the daily journals, and the panderous tome of the future historian, written after the living interest and executement of the great political events of the times shall have passed away. It is to these periodicals that the reader must look for the really intelligible and reliable history of current events; and as such, its addition to their well established literary, scientice, and theological character, we urgs them upon the consideration of the feading public.

Arangements are now permanently made for the receipt of EABLY SHEETS from the British publishers, by which we are enabled to place all our re-prints in the hands of subscribers about as soon as they can be furnished with the foreign copies. Although this footlees a very large outlay on our part, we shall continue to furnish the periodicals at the same low rates as heretofore, viz:

REPUBLICATION OF THE ENGLISH REPORTS

(IN FULL.,) Br LITTLE, BROWN & Co., .

THE publishers of this arries of the English Law and Equity lieports, invite the attention of the profession to the following statements, showing the advantages which they possess over all others.

1 They are the only reprints which furnish all the same decided is their respective courts. The lid volume of fille and filarithure, issued from the Philadelphia press, prefesses to give the decisions of the Queen's Heach in Hisay, Easter, and Trinity terms, 1884, but it contains only montreal cases on the of one Huyand hap brupt one, all which will be found in the Law and Equity Reports. Many of the case omitted are assent the meet important decided at that period. The Philadelphia reprint of the 14th Common Bench, purports to contain the cases from Michaelman Terms, 1863; to Kaster Terms, 1884, inclusive, but it gives only arxer canzo only figure the most find the case from Michaelman Terms, 1863; to Kaster Terms, 1884, inclusive, but it gives only arxer canzo only again the cases from Michaelman Terms, 1863; to Kaster Terms, 1884, inclusive, but it gives only arxer canzo only again to constitute the cases from Michaelman VII be found intemplates. And this isocompleteness of the Philadelphia series increases from year to year, for the propertion of cases contited is much greater in the recent volumes than in the previous ones.

11 The character of the Law and Equity Reports will hear the most rigid compar son with the Philadelphia and Jurist are cited 533 times in Shelford on Ballways, while Merson and Welstey, the Queen's Bench, Common Bench, and Exchaquer Reports are cited 546 times. In Hill on Treatess, the Law Journal and Jurist are cited 533 times in Shelford on Ballways, while Merson and Welstey, the Queen's Bench, Common Bench, and Exchaquer Reports are cited 546 times. In these respects the decidence are generally, given several meethed in advence of the Philadelphia reprint Len in the volumes shich are amounced as in adomice of our reports, it will be found that a large proportion of the cases had become familiar to the profession, the sign discover had become familiar to the profession, the suph the Law and Equity Iterata, before the publication at Philadelphia. But by the reduction of matter which the custedion of the chancery cases in the inferior courts will cause, we shall be table hereafter to public the common law cases several mouths earlier than heretofore. The 20th volume containing the cases in Michaelmea Term, 1854, and a part of litlary Term, 1856, will be published in July neat, and thereafter we indeed to publish the cases of each term within four months from the riving of the courts.

IV. In addition to the complete reports of the common law courts, this series will furnish the cases before the House of Lords, the Pring Court of Appeal in Chancery, the Admirally and Ecclerational Courts, making the amount of matter more than double that fermished in the Philadelphia series.

V. The Lew and Equity Reports are sold at $2 per vol, which will amount to $2 per year hereafter. Considering the amount of matter which they contain their cost is less than one half of that of the Philadelphia series.

There i optrie are now regularly digested to our Annual Digest of these Reports which thus embraces an Annual Digest of these Reports up to that thus.

For the greater convenience of the profession, we shall also hereafter publish a table of all the cases in these Reports with reference to the volume and page of every series where the same case may be found.

Volume 10 years of the profession, we shall also hereafter publish a table of all the cases in these Reports with reference to the volume and page of every series where the same case may be found.

(No extres.) Mrs. Pont'er has great pieasure in informing her friends that her first English teacher (Miss her friends that her first English teacher (Miss Brint, ev) has arrived from London. She is highly qualified, having taught in some of the first schools in England, and the testimonials that she has brought with her are of a superior order. Mrs. Poeter hopes that, sparing neither expense nortrouble to establish a thoroughly good school on the English system of education, her efforts may be appreciated and meet with success.

Mrs. Poetter has also sent to England for trachers in other departments of her School, who are expected to arrive soon after Christmas. The FINISHENO CLASS is under Mas. PORT run's charge, assisted by the best Masters. The studies for this class combine a knowledge of our standard works in Poetry and Proce, with Essays on given subjects, and Extracts from different authors, to improve the style in writing. More time is also devoted to complete the educa-tion in foreign languages. Mas. Pourrus feels grateful to the parent of her pupils for their, kind expressions of satis fection at the progress of their children, and begto assure them that no effort shall be wanting on.

to assure them that no enort spain on wanting on her part to insure their improvement.

The School will reform after the Christ mas vacation on the 6th of January, 1855.
