Simplicity Marks the Best Designs

that can be made serviceable in a greater number of ways, while at the same time it is essentially simple.

For the 16-year size will be needed 5½ yards of material 36 inches wide, 4¾ yards 54, with ½ yard 36 from the collar and cuffs. The pattern No. 9591 is cut in sizes for 16 and 18 years.

No. 9558. This is a gown that is especially adapted to two materials, although you can, of course, make it of one if you like. Here, satin and serge are combined and the trimming is heavy worsted thread applied in straight lines. The combination is a smart one and the trimming is one of the novelties of the season, and altogether, the dress is exceptional. The tunic appears at the sides only, therefore, clever women will be quick to see that the design offers possibilities for remaking as well as for new costumes. Here the sleeves are sewed to the under-bodice or lining and the over-bodice is finished quite separately. If you like you can make the sleeves to match them in place of matching the tunic, or you can make the tunic and skirt and sleeves of one material and just the over-bodice of another. The under-skirt is in two pieces with only two seams to sew up, and each side of the tunic is in one piece. You can make the lower edge straight or shaped as you prefer.

For the medium size will be needed, 24 yards of material 54 inches wide with 34 yards of satin 36. To make of one material will be needed, 6 yards 44, 4½ yards 54. The pattern No. 9558 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure.

Furs and Fur Cloth

Nos. 9578-9539 This is one of the prettiest of the new bodices, for it is closed in the surplice style that not alone is a fashionable finish, but also a generally becoming one. The new shaped sleeves are exceedingly well liked, too, and you can make it of broadcloth or of velvet, of heavy satin or of silk or velours cloth and trim it with fur just as it is here, or, if you want it for indoor wear, you can make it of serge or of silk or velvet and use trimming of a different sort. The narrow under skirt is made in two pieces with a gathered back and is finished with a belt that forms a point over each hip, so that it is available for other uses as well as for this one. The tunic can be made with open or with closed sides, and there is a little overportion at the back of the bodice which is extremely novel and attractive.

For the medium size the bodice with tunic will require, 534 yards of material 36 inches wide, 4½ yards 44, 3% yards 54, and the skirt, ½½ yards of any width. The pattern of the bodice with tunic, No. 9578, is cut in sizes from 36 to 42 inches bust measure, and the skirt, No. 9539 in sizes from 24 to 36 inches waist measure.

Sweet Revenge

Neuer Again!

As the coach careened toward the edge of the cliff, the timid tourist gazed anxiously down at the brawling stream 300 feet below.
"Do people fall over this precipice often?"

she asked.

The driver clucked to his horses.
"No, madam," he returned placidly, "never but once."
