

Our regular current affairs programs are now reflecting the increased tempo of the discussions within Quebec.

Such programs as Présent and L'Econothèque on French Radio; Télémag, Ce Soir and Hebdo Dimanche, on French Television will provide increased coverage within the general balance of other important issues. The same is true of the English networks in such programs as Sunday Morning and Sunday Magazine on Radio and fifth estate and Watson Report on television.

And on both networks there will be increasing coverage in our radio and television news programs.

Some special programs, reflecting the important issues being debated, have already been broadcast and these will increase in frequency as the formal debate and referendum campaign approach.

On French language radio and television, special one-hour programs are providing in-depth examination of referendum issues. On radio A Suivre is now weekly. On television L'Enjeu is now bi-weekly but will be scheduled on a weekly basis as the debate intensifies.
