

To see the red squirrel frisk hither and thither,
 And the water-rat plunging about in his mirth;
 And the thousand small lives that the warm summer weather
 Calls forth to rejoice on the bountiful earth!
 Then the mountains, how fair! to the blue vault of heaven
 Towering up in the sunshine, and drinking the light,
 While adown their deep chasms, all splintered and riven,
 Fall the far-gleaming cataracts silvery white!
 And where are the flowers that in beauty are glowing,
 In the gardens and fields of the young, merry spring,
 Like the mountain side wilds of the yellow broom blowing
 And the old forest-pride, the red wastes of the ling?
