

To the Free & Independent Electors of the Lower-
Town of Quebec.

GENTLEMEN,

THERE are three Gentlemen who offer themselves as Candidates to become your Representatives, two of whom have families and property among you, which, consequently, cements and makes them a part of that society whose votes and interest they solicit on the present occasion. The third is a person altogether unconnected with the people whose confidence he craves, and upon whom he seems eagerly determined to thrust himself. An ambitious scambler for consequence, power or place, cloathed with impudence instead of talents, with assurance instead of sound & substantial abilities. A man who possesses no real property, no family, a bird of passage, here to day and away to-morrow; a man not qualified to vote in any County in the Province, according to the requirements of the Constitution. Now judge for yourselves.

I am,

GENTLEMEN ELECTORS,

with much esteem,

AN INDEPENDANT ELECTOR.
