

This photo shows a regiment of Australian volunteers drilling on the Agricultural Ground, Sydney, Australia, preparatory to departing for the front.

The first appearance of the Tanks in the field against the Turks who, like their German allies, were seized with terror. Apparently they can accommodate themselves as well to the sand and rocks of the east as to the muddy swamps of No Man's Land.

A German airman surrendering, after his gun jammed and became useless, 12,000 feet in the air.

Toronto is fast becoming a city of roses. Rose Specialist James Lendrum shows what can be accomplished with the climbing varieties. Pink Dorothy Perkins, White Dorothy Perkins and the Crimson Rambler. This trellis, located at 531 Gladstone avenue, is twenty feet high, seventy feet long and is practically covered by six bushes.

Pte. Fred Willson, 122nd Battalion, now overseas.

Theodore F. May, officially reported missing, probably killed.

Lance-Corp. T. J. Shea, overseas with the 125th Battalion.

Earls Court boys of the 198th Battalion, demonstrating what they'll do to the kaiser.

The crack recruiting staff of the 70th Battery. Sergt. A. A. Burrige, Gnr. C. C. Grisby, Bomb. Young and Gnr. Doozee.
