PAS'SING UNDER THE ROD.

[The following lines, from Mrs. M. S. B. Dana, are founded on the following passage of Jewish History is—If was the custom of the Jews to select the tenth of their sheep in this manner—the lambs were separated from their dams and enclosed in a sheep cot, with only one narrow way out; the lambs hastened to join their dams, and a man placed at the entrance, with a rod dipped in other, touched every tenth lands, and so marked it with his rod, saying, 'Let this be holy.' Hence, cass.

God by his Prophet, 'I will cause you to passumder the rod!'']

I saw the young bridge, in her heauty and pide, Bedecked in her snowy array,
And the bridged fluid of the proposal content of the following passages of Jews and Jews grief,

And her bloom for the paleness of woe.
But the Healer was there pouring balm on the heart,
And wiping the tears from her eyes:
And He strengthened the chain He had broken in

And fastened it firm to the skies.

And she kissed the soft lips, as they murmured hermanic,
While the dreamer lay smiling in joy,
Oh! sweet as the rose bud, encircled with dew,
When its fragrance is flung on the air,
So fresh and so bright to the mother he seemed.
As he lay in his innocence there!
But I saw when she gazed on the same lovely form,
Pale as marble, and silent and cold;
But paler and colder her beautiful boy—
And the tale of her sorrow was told.
But the Healer was there, who had smitten her heart,

And taken her treasure away.

To allure her to Heaven, He has placed it on high.
And the mourner will sweetly obey.

There had whispered a voice, 'twas the voice of her God.

"I love thee, I love thee, -pass under the rod."

I saw when a father and mother had lean'd
On the arms of a dear cherished son.
And the star in the future grew bright in her gaze,
As they saw the proud place he had won.
And the fast coming evening of hie promised fair,
And its pathway grew smooth to their feet,
And the starlight of love glimmer'd bright at the end,
And the whispers of Fancy were sweet.
But I saw when they stood bending low o'er the grave

"Hove thee, I love thee,—pass under the rod."

I saw when a father and mother had lean'd
On the arms of a dear cherished son.
And the star in the future grew bright in her gaze,
As they saw the proud place he had won.
And the star in the future grew bright in her gaze,

And the startight of love elimmer'd bright at the end.
And the pathway grew smooth to their feet.
And the startight of love elimmer'd bright at the end.
And the whispers of Fancy were sweet.
But I saw when they stood bending low o'er the

Where their heart's dearest hope had been laid,
And the star had gone down in the darkness of night,
And soy from their bosons had fled.
But the fleader was there, and His arms were around,
And he eshowed them a star, in the bright upper world,

"Twas their star shining brilliantly three!
They had each heard a voice, 'twas the voice of their God

"I love thee, I love thee,—pass under the rod."

Holloway's Ointment.

CURE OF A DESPERATE CASE OF ERVSIPELAS.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Joseph Gildon, Jun., a Farmer, East Kent, near Spilsby, Lincohshive, Sth. April, 1846.

TO PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY.

Sir,—I have the gratification to announce to you a most wonderful cure wrought upon myself, by the use of your Ointment and Pills. I had a severe attack of Erysipelas in my right toot, which extended along my ancle, and was attended with swelling and inflammation to an alarming degree, insomuch that I was unable to move without the use of crutches. I consulted a very eminent Physician, besides other Medical men, but to no purpose. At last I tried your Ointment and Pills, when, strange to say, in less than two weeks the swelling and inflammation subsided to such a degree that I was enabled to pursue my daily avocation, to the utter surprise and amazement of those who were acquainted with my case, seeing that I was cared so quickly. I and my family are well known here, as my father holds his farm under the Rev. J. Spence, Rector of our Parish.
