REV. MR. GOODWIN HEARD BY THE U.N.B. GRADUATES

Preached Baccalaureate Sermon at the Capital Yesterday.

Fredericton, N. B., May 9—Rev. H. A. Goodwin, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, St. John, preached the baccalaureate sermon at the University of New Brunswick at the Fredericton Methodist church this morning. The sermon is a customary feature of the closing of the academic year which will come to a formal end on Thursday night with the annual exercises. In spite of a heavy rain, a large congregation heard Rev. Mr. Goodwin, who delivered an eloquent and powerful discourse. The members of the class of 1920 and the undergraduates as well as members of the faculty, alumni and friends of the university, occupied seats reserved in the centre of the church.

Preliminary to reading the scriptural lesson Rev. Mr. Goodwin announced that he considered himself honored to be asked to deliver the baccalaureate sermon of New Brunswick. He desired to impress upon them the fact that religion must be united with knowledge. Culture must be regarded as a factor of spiritual development if success is to be achieved in the world. He would count it a privilege to speak to the class, and in coming years when opportunity presented itself for him to observe a member of it he would be able to judge concerning the success in life which had been achieved.
