

HOUSE IN WHICH TERRY MADE HER DEBUT IS TO GO

Old Princess' Theatre in London Where Irving's Partner First Acted

WILL MAKE PLACE FOR HOTEL

Was Built by Man Named Hamlet 72 Years Ago—B. F. Keith Bought it for Continuous Entertainment But Never Used It

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Oct. 12.—Ellen Terry probably felt a bit "weepy" the other day when it was announced that the famous old Princess Theatre in Oxford street, after standing empty and neglected for ten years or more, is to be torn down and replaced by a modern hotel. Henry Arthur Jones may have felt a little pang of regret when, on hearing the news, for it was at the Princess' Theatre that the curtain first rose on his famous melodrama, "The Silver King," and this playhouse was the scene, too, of the original production of George R. Sims' play, "The Lights of London," of Charles Warner's success in "Drink," as well as of Wilson Barrett's greatest triumph.

The last real "hit" at the Princess, which was built seventy-two years ago as a "panorama theatre," was "The Fatal Wedding." That was a full decade back, and soon afterward it was announced that B. F. Keith, of American vaudeville fame, had bought the old house and would turn it into a continuous entertainment on the lines then popular across the Atlantic. A notice to this effect remained on the front of the theatre until the rains of years washed it off, and at last Londoners almost forgot that the historical old playhouse ever had existed. Why Mr. Keith abandoned his original scheme has never been satisfactorily explained.

Ellen Terry made her first appearance on the stage of the Princess—it was as the child Mamilus in "A Winter's Tale"—under the management of Charles Kean, in 1858, or sixteen years after the opening of the playhouse, and there also she played Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." At the Princess, too, London play-goers made the acquaintance of her brilliant sister, Kate, who was under the Kean management at the Princess as long as it lasted, making one success after another in those earliest of Shakespeare revivals.

Wills' Napoleonic melodrama, "A Royal Divorce," still played here in the Princess, was first done at the Princess, whose "code" also went into ecstasies over "The Silver King" and fairly "faded" what was then considered the tremendous line therein, "O God, put back the Universe, and give me yesterday!" "Gladstone," too, was seen at the Princess, and Mrs. Langtry appeared there in "Anatomy and Clostridia."

Curiously enough the builder of the Princess was named "Hamlet." He was a West End jeweler, who invested a lot of money in the "panorama" boom and finished in the bankruptcy court.

The first gray hair sign of age. Easy Way to Preserve Natural Color of the Hair and Make it Grow

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as the care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and make-up to improve the complexion, and neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles on the forehead? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes farther than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give you money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance.—Agent—Weyth's—100 King street and 578 Main street.

EVERY DAY CLUB PLANS FOR WINTER

At a meeting of the Every Day Club in its rooms last evening, the president, A. M. Belding, reviewed the history of the club and advocated the broadening out of the club's activities. It was decided to reorganize the work of the club on broader lines than during the last two years. Addresses were delivered by J. W. McCosh, C. S. Humbert, Harry Scott, W. Little, W. Frank Hasbany, Mr. Bent and A. W. Robb of the Y. M. C. A. A committee composed of Messrs. McCosh, Humbert, Scott and A. W. Covey was selected to draw up rules and regulations to govern the club's activities and submit them at a meeting to take place next Monday evening.

NOT CIGARETTES. Binks—I hope this Balkan war will cut out those Turkish atrocities. Hinks—Ditto here. I never could smoke the blamed things.

Snubbing the Old Folks By RUTH CAMERON

ONCE upon a time I happened to have partial charge of the renting of an apartment. As in almost every experience that brings me into contact with my fellow men and women, I found much to interest, amuse and instruct me. But the individual who left the greatest impression on my mind was neither interesting nor amusing, nor instructive, except in the capacity of a bad example. She was a girl of eighteen. She came with her mother to inspect the apartment. Perhaps I should say that her mother came with her. From the moment they began to make comments it was evident that the mother was not used to even the modest degree of luxury which the apartment represented, and it was simultaneously evident that the daughter would stop at no length of rudeness or discourtesy to her mother to hide this fact. Twice she flatly contradicted her mother again and again she caught her up sharply, and continually she interrupted her.

"How about hard wood floors?" said the mother. "Are they as easy to keep clean as carpets?" "How ridiculous," said the mother, "the daughter sharply, 'one would think you never saw a hard wood floor. Of course they are much easier to take care of.'" "Electricity is pretty expensive," said the mother. "I was rather hoping we would find an apartment that was piped for gas." At this her daughter cast a perfectly withering glance at her mother. She evidently belonged to that class of people who think it is the one deadly sin to admit that anything costs too much. "I wish you wouldn't talk such nonsense, mother," she said rudely. "Electricity is just as cheap, if you use it properly, and anyhow I should not be at all contented with just gas."

All through the interview it was quite evident that the girl felt she was making a good impression by attempting to efface her mother. Needless to say she was not. Instead, I set her down in my mind as one of the rudest, crudest young girls I had ever met.

For to my mind there is no mistake that stamps a young man or woman as undisciplined more quickly than such an assumption of superiority and such display of rudeness toward those to whom they owe all reverence and kindness. I once knew a young lad from the country whom I thought an exceptionally good product of our American education until, after giving me the pleasure of meeting his fine old father and mother, he made the fatal mistake of spoiling in their presence for their country ways and their grammar.

It is often true that the second generation is superior to its elders in matters of education, of superficial breeding, and in that air of sophistication and accustomedness to luxury which we all like to cultivate. But that does not mean that it is actually superior in things that count. And furthermore, it behooves the second generation to remember that whatever superiority it has gained was probably given it through the efforts of people who would be quite indifferent to the reminder that rudeness to their parents is wrong and cruel, but surely there are none who will not be moved when I assure them that it is also undervalued and lacky.

SPECTACULAR OPERA AND METROPOLITAN VAUDEVILLE BY ABORN OPERA COMPANY TOMORROW NIGHT

Grand Opera, comic opera and musical comedy have been heard in St. John, but nothing to compare with the big production of the Aborn Opera Company, which will be heard tomorrow and Thursday evenings, with bargain matinee Thursday. It might be termed spectacular opera. The scenery and effects which will transform the Opera House stage tomorrow evening in a manner that will not fall to amaze local theatre goers, double cast of solons, mammoth chorus, cavalcade of horses, dancing ballet, Arabian acrobats, dogs, monkeys, geese, and in short the greatest variety entertainment ever heard in the city, supporting a stupendous presentation of The Bohemian Girl. Thousands will be anxious to see an attraction so far and away from anything ever shown here before, so that those who wish good seats particularly for tomorrow evening should be at the office at ten o'clock.

MORNING LOCALS

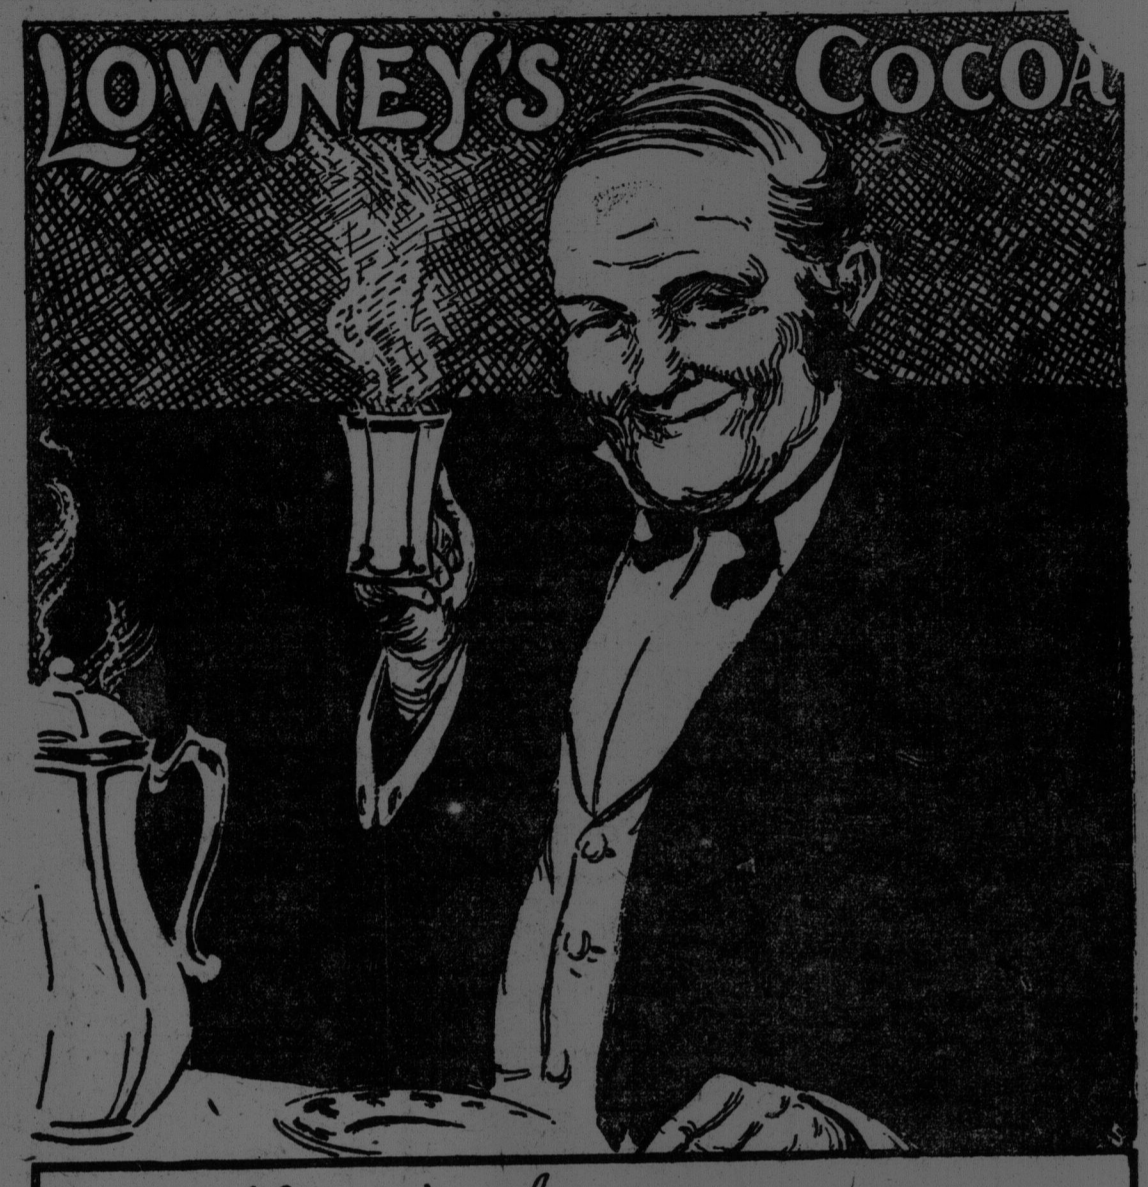

Miss Clara Fritz, of West St. John, has been awarded the prize for the greatest proficiency in biology at McGill College. She is the daughter of Mrs. E. J. Fritz, of West St. John, and is a graduate of the St. John High School. The wedding of Frank L. Eames, of Wilmington, Mass., and Miss Helen A. Slipp, of Lowell, Mass., took place in Lowell last week, Rev. S. W. Cummings officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Eames left on their honeymoon trip to Montreal. The bride is a professional nurse, and had many friends in St. John who will wish her much happiness.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

The schooner Clara M., Captain Osborne, owned by J. D. McMillan, of Sydney, went ashore in the false channel off Canada yesterday. She was loaded with lumber, part of which has been removed. She will be floated today. A family named Thatcher, living in High street, Moncton, had lost seventy-six hens during the last few weeks. Yesterday Edwin Thatcher, aged two years, was taken violently ill and it was found that he was suffering from poison. It was later determined that he had eaten a piece of poisoned dough which had been placed in the yard to kill the hens. The resignation of Mayor Geary of Toronto, was yesterday accepted by the council. He has been appointed corporation counsel. Controller Hocken was chosen as his successor for the balance of the term. The cableship Minna of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at Halifax, yesterday, could not leave port owing to twenty of her crew quitting because they had been asked to load cable. Fourteen were arrested and each was ordered to forfeit $8.20 wages, besides being ordered back to work. The tribunal appointed by the Canadian government under the combined act has declared that the United Shoe Machinery Company as a combine in restraint of trade and the company will therefore be compelled to quit operations in the country. The penalties are severe, a fine of $1,000 a day being imposed if operations are not ceased inside of ten days, and in addition the patents of the company may be cancelled in Canada. Wm. McPherson will remove his foundry and machine shop from St. Mary's to Fredericton and will also conduct there an automobile and garage business.

TURKEY HAS GREAT ARMY

Turkey has at her disposal a vastly larger fighting force than the estimates hitherto published, according to Colonel Brose, who has just returned from the control of the intelligence department of the German general staff and whose figures are therefore authoritative. He gives the following figures: Turkey in Europe..... 600,000 Turkey in Asia..... 100,000 Bulgarians' field army..... 350,000 Serbia's field army..... 150,000 Montenegro's field army..... 50,000 Greece's field army..... 100,000 Roumania's field army..... 250,000 Colonel Brose, again relying on the intimate knowledge of Turkish organization in the possession of the German staff, forecasts that Turkey will place one army in Thrace at Adrianople, consisting of 217,000 infantry, 6,000 cavalry, and 454 guns, while a second army will be assembled in Macedonia, consisting of 200,000 infantry, 6,000 cavalry and 500 guns. On the farm of Fred Hill at Skowhegan, Me., there is a 100-year-old maple tree which at some time in its earlier years picked up two cedar rails and grew around them. The rails are plainly seen projecting out on either side of the trunk at the base. They are believed to have been there for seventy-five years. On one end the rails are partly grown into a big oak tree.
