With a parting injunction to send forward his own and his friends' applications by return mail, the writer assures the New Brunswick man that if he will look after the matter personally it will bring gladness to him in the future.

Possibly quite a number of people in this province have received this offer of a lot that will be worth $200 when the survey is completed. The generosity of the western firm, which has a long name and an imposing letter head, is quite remarkable. Nevertheless, the advice of the Times would be to look over the possibilities of investment nearer home, be fore tapping this western source of wealth which climinates the fear of old age.

Premier Asquith yesterday asked the members of the house to refrain from comment on the coal strike, and the opposition leader cordially endorsed the plea. The leader cordially endorsed the plea. The situation is a grave one, for not only are the miners idle but hundreds of thousands of factory operatives are also out of work or will be very soon if the strike continues. Transportation interests are also seriously affected. Even in France, the channel ports are beginning to suffer through the idleness of dock workers. There are salmon and trout streams which rent at from $50 to $100 a year. Why Every day the strike continues the situa-tion will grow worse, and therefore the government has the best wishes of the peo-ple of all parties in its efforts to bring the miners and mine owners to the point day.
