TRIFLING THEFT LED TO DEATH IN ASYLUM AS RAVING MANIAC

Shot at, Fear-Tortured, Cogliati Went From One Stage to Another Until Death Ended His Fearful Sufferings

Milan, Sept. 13.—Strange indeed are the links which make up the fatal chain of circumstances in the story of Giuseppe Cogliati who died recently a raving maniac in the lunatic asylum of Mombelli. Probably the most penetrating psychologist would find it impossible, unless he were provided with the guiding thread, to establish a causal link between an inordinate taste for asparagus and death in a padded cell; but it was undoubtedly Cogliati's penchant for the succulent vegetable which in the first place induced him to steal a few heads from a neighbor's plantation, and his anxiety to conceal this comparatively trifling misdemeanor caused him to endure the untold suffering which eventually upset his mental equilibrium and drove reason from his throne in his fear-tortured brain.

The theft, which was the first act in this pathetic tragedy, was committed two years ago. Cogliati, an inhabitant of Montegrino, was enjoying a stroll in the country when he perceived a fine bed of asparagus belonging to one of his fellow citizens. His mouth began to water and which he proposed making an enjoyable feast. Suddenly a gun was fired, and the gluttonous thief was struck in the right shoulder by a number of pellets from a sporting cartridge. With a cry of terror he took to his heels, but had barely gone half a dozen steps before another discharge took him full in the back, and he stumbled to the ground.

Struggling to his feet again he perceived the owner of the asparagus bed preparing to reload his gun. The wretched man made a supreme effort to escape and managed to reach the house of a friend whom he swore to secrecy. He was unwilling to denounce the person who had wounded him as he did not want his attempted robbery to become known. For the same reason he would not consult a doctor, who would have been obliged to make a report of the matter to the local authorities. So, after his friend had done the best for him, he accompanied Cogliati to his home and left him in the care of his wife.

Cogliati bore his sufferings in silence for four or five months. His condition grew worse and worse, and at last he was taken to a hospital in Milan. Still he would say nothing about the cause of his serious condition.

His sufferings and the separation from his family, added to the constant fear of the proprietor of the asparagus, whom he supposed to be lying in wait ready to shoot at him again, finally turned his brain and at last he was sent to a lunatic asylum, when his condition degenerated from melancholia into homicidal mania, until at last death put a merciful end to his sufferings.

This occurred last month. Until a few days ago his widow jealously guarded the secret of her unfortunate husband. Then she went to the authorities and told them all the facts. The matter is now the subject of a judicial inquiry.

Give the farmers, the lumbermen and fishermen their turn. Their prosperity means prosperity for the province.

PARIS POLICE CATCH SWINDLER OF WOMEN

His Specialty Was Offer of Marriage if He Saw Chance of Getting Money

Paris, Sept. 13.—The Paris police have made a smart capture of a Russian named Schilman, alias Lacour, whose specialty has been the swindling of gullible women possessed of a little money.

Lacour inserted an advertisement in a newspaper stating that he was a widower desiring of remarrying and, for this purpose, of meeting a young girl or widow with a fortune of from $2,000 to $3,000.

It attracted the attention of a middle-aged servant, who, after many years of hard work, had saved $3,000. An appointment was made for Strasbourg with Lacour and his daughter. The Paris woman was captivated by the widower's manners, and agreed to become his wife. She made the mistake, however, of entrusting him with $2,000 after which he disappeared.

The Paris police, at a cunning trap, inserted an advertisement in a morning newspaper to the effect that a good-looking widow with a small fortune was anxious to meet a middle-aged widower with a view to matrimony. The bait took Lacour changed his name but not his handwriting, an appointment was made between him and the "victim," and the detective took him easily.

Lacour has a string of false names, and has been several times convicted of frauds of this kind. A woman who is suspected of being his accomplice has also been arrested.

Younger Than He Looks

This man looks older than he is. Few women on earth absolutely abhor such a condition. You may be thirty in years, but if you are bald-headed or grey, people will surely take you for many years older than you are.

A bald head and thinning hair are the most destructive enemies of a woman's beauty. There could be no baldness in America's greatest hair restorer.

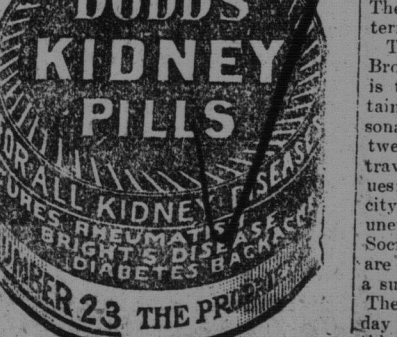

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by A. Chipman Smith to make hair grow and stop falling hair; to cure dandruff in two weeks and to stop itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Parisian Sage is the most invigorating, satisfying and pleasant hair dressing made; it makes the hair soft, lustrous and handsome; it is especially prized by women who have beautiful hair. Parisian Sage is for sale by all druggists, 30 cents a large bottle or postpaid from the Glouster Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the Auburn Hair is on every bottle. Also sold and guaranteed in Fairville by Allen's Fairville Drug Co.

NO DOUBT ABOUT THIS

"Even if England did decide to give us a preference and tax her people's food, what would she ask in return? A preference upon her manufactures. Then indeed would you see the Tories and the manufacturers hold up their hands in holy horror."

—HUGH GUTHRIE.

EMIGRANTS FIND THE CONDITIONS IN AUSTRALIA NOT GOOD

Letters Home to London Tell of Poverty and Hard Living Conditions—Better off at Home, They Declare

London, Sept. 13.—Whatever the truth about the advantages and disadvantages of Australia for the British emigrant, there is no gainsaying that there are thousands of working people who have left this country only to find that the conditions of employment are much worse for them there than at home. Perhaps these failures, if they may be called so, were unsuited for their new environment but the probability seems rather to be that they were hired across the sea by the over-colored reports of emigration agents to find that Australia is no Eldorado, and that whatever be its drawbacks, Great Britain is at least as comfortable a place for the working man as the great continent of the Antipodes.

From time to time newspapers opened their columns to the correspondence of those who have had practical experience of Australian life. Most of these opinions have been unfavorable but both sides of the question have been laid bare. By the latest Australian mail a great batch of letters to the subject have come to hand.

Twenty of them vehemently declaim against the conditions of life one is conciliatory in tone and the rest are in the alternative positions is in itself suggestive.

The first letter comes from J. Betchell, Broken Hill, N. S. W. His chief complaint is that it is practically impossible to obtain steady employment. There is plenty of seasonal employment with good wages but between jobs all the surplus is used up in traveling expenses and food. He continues: "People are talking about the scarcity of labor. In this town there are 700 unemployed on the books of the Mines' Society, and yet the mine owners say they are short of men. All they want is to get a surplus of men to pick and choose from. They tempt men here by offering $2.37 a day for laboring, but they do not say anything about the cost of living here. House rent is $2.02; eggs 62 cents a dozen and water eighteen cents per 100 gallons."

Another Englishman, J. R. Williams, is so tired of the conditions that he is coming home. Degradation and poverty are the keynote of his observations in Australia.

Of Sydney he writes:—"During my stay of two years in Sydney I have seen more poverty than I saw in London in thirty years. Sydney is the most sinful city in the world. In no other city will one see so many young girls parading the streets at night as can be seen in Melbourne and Sydney. The one and only thought of the Australian is pleasure. High wages are no good when everything is so very expensive with the exception of meat. I have heard women say they were better off with $7.50 a week at home than they are now with $14.50."

MUCH TOO TAME. "Well," her friend said, "he seems to be able to make an honest living."

"Yes," she replied, "but heaven! who wants to marry a man of that kind now always?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

BILL TO ABOLISH BULL FIGHTING IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Sept. 13.—Considerable surprise has been caused here by the announcement that a bill is to be presented in parliament for the abolition of bull-fighting. The measure will in all probability meet with keen opposition.

It is not generally known that Portuguese bull-fights are much less cruel than those practised in Spain, but the passing of such a bill might, it is hoped, in humanitarian circles, set in motion a similar movement on the other side of the frontier.

The best way to build up the Empire is to build up Canada. Larger free markets for Canadian products will bring that result.
