FOXES GALORE.—John W. McKenzie and Geo. Anderson one day last week discovered the entrance to a fox den which was burrowed in a sand bank near Kings Head, Little Harbor, Pictou Co. Thinking it would be good fun to capture the fox alive, they went to work to dig into his lair. After a short while's work they came upon quite a lively household consisting of two females, one having a family of seven and the other three. The young men succeeded in capturing alive the mothers, with the several members of the family. The whole family, twelve in all, may now be seen at J. W. McKenzie's, Roy's Island.

The Neptune Club Concert.

Quite as expected a very large audience attended in the Institute last night to hear the musical feast provided by the Neptune Rowing club. The new solos of Mrs. Carter and Rev. Fr. Davenport, "My heart at thy sweet voice" and "The Lighthouse Keeper," respectively, were delightful pieces and beautifully sung as these vocalists are admittedly capable of rendering any selection they may make. They were greeted with hearty applause as their performances individually and in the duett "A Night in Venice," so well merited. Miss Bowden's playing has always been appreciated and the subject of unlimited compliment, but her playing of Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2, by Lizt, was a revelation to those even who know the lady best. It was a wonderful, clever work, and so delighted the audience that the recall which the lady acknowledged would not satisfy them, and she was obliged to play again. Miss Clara Quinton's song was also well rendered, and it was received with unlimited applause. Mr. W. A. Ewing played the accompaniment.

The choruses were fairly well given and the Philharmonic club did some excellent work in their various selections, the overture to "Zampa" and the war march from Athalie being probably the best. Prof. White's violin solo, his own composition,—an Andante and Scherzo,—delighted everyone. The piano accompaniment for it was played by Mr. Ford who played the accompaniments for the choruses. Mrs. W. A. Ewing presided most successfully at the piano during the playing by the Philharmonic club, while Miss Bowden accompanied Rev. Mr. Davenport in his solo as well as playing the accompaniement for the duet. The identity of the well-known amateur who sang a doleful and sentimental ditty was not made quite manifest to his many friends until he had been on the platform some little time. His make up was immense, and the sentimentality of the song, together with its sentimental rendition, evoked very liberal applause. The concert was a success, and the club has much reason for congratulation.

From the Capital.

Sir John Macdonald laid before the commons today the report of Collingwood Schreiber, government engineer, upon the completed survey of the Harvey-Moncton section of the Short Line railway. The route chosen is between Harvey station on the New Brunswick railway and a point on the Intercolonial, near Moncton, via Fredericton, and Mr. Schreiber expressed the opinion that the shortest, best and cheapest line the country could afford has been secured. Owing to the physical features of the country, it has been found necessary to leave a choice of two lines. One leaves Harvey station and passes through the city of Fredericton running generally in an eastern direction to Wilson's Brook and connecting with the Intercolonial at Berry's Mills station. The other follows the same route until it reaches Wilson's Brook, where it branches off to Salisbury Station on the I. C. R. west of Moncton. From Gordon Creek for about six miles in approaching Fredericton from the west, there are two locations from which to choose, one crossing the Fredericton branch railway by a high level bridge, the other at rail level from Wilson's creek, eastward. Two locations have also been made, one to Berry's Mills, the other to Salisbury. The route from Harvey to Moncton via Berry's Mills is the shortest of the two by two miles, but it has the disadvantage of needing three and three-quarters miles more to be constructed. The proposed route is described at some length and the following tables of distances are given: From Montreal to Halifax, via Mattawamkeag, Harvey, Fredericton and Berry's Mills, 723 miles; via Mattawamkeag, Harvey, Fredericton and Salisbury, 725 miles; via Mattawamkeag, and St. John, 755 miles; via Chaudiere Junction, Campbellton and Moncton, 848 miles.

The cost of the construction of the line via the Harvey-Berry's Mills route is placed at $2,297,000, or about $20,000 per mile.

It is officially announced this evening that N. H. Meagher, Q. C., of Halifax, has been appointed to the vacancy on the Nova Scotia bench caused by the death of Judge Smith.

The deputy to the governor general, in the senate chamber, this afternoon gave his assent to a large number of bills, among which were the Orange incorporation bill, and the bill incorporating the nation improvement company.

A. W. Murdock, of Toronto, one of the promoters of the West India and South America line of steamers is here and had a lengthy interview with Hon. Mr. Foster, minister of finance, this morning with a view to have a display of all Canadian manufacturing industries in the different ports at which the steamers of the line are to call, with a view of promoting better trade relations. He also wants a display of West India and South American products to be exhibited at Toronto exhibition from the 8th to the 20th of September and at St. John, N. B., October 24th to September 4th of this year. He asked that the government assume the expenses of placing the exhibits before the public. Several Toronto leading manufacturers have already furnished samples of their products to be forwarded to the West Indies and South America. The minister of finance informed him that he would consider the matter.

A report has appeared in some of the grit press stating that prorogation will take place on the 10th of May next on account of the governor general leaving two days later on a trip to England. This report is entirely erroneous, as no date has yet been fixed for prorogation, for the simple reason that the government themselves, do not know with any degree of certainty how long the session will last; that the governor general has no idea of visiting England this year, and if he did he could not leave until he had received the Duke of Connaught at Quebec on or about June 1st as has been arranged some time ago.

The bill which Secretary of State Chapleau has introduced, amending the Dominion franchise act, provides that the occasional absence from home for less than six months of a farmer or property owner's son, shall not disqualify him. The Indians in Manitoba, the Northwest or British Columbia shall not be entitled to be registered as voters unless they are occupants of district tracts of improved land, and no person found guilty of corrupt practices at a Dominion election shall be entitled to be registered for seven years after the time he has been so declared guilty. It also extends the time of receiving the revised lists of voters of 1889 from December 31st until May 1st 1890.

A deputation from the Montreal society for the protection of women and children waited upon the minister of justice today, asking for some amendments to the ministerial bill now before the senate, which would make the law more effective than it is at present for protective purposes. In particular they asked that procuration and brothel keeping be more severely punished than at present, and that the age of consent for young girls be raised from thirteen, where the bill places it, to sixteen, which is the age in England and in the United States.

LESS HOURS FOR WORK.

This state of things worked against the grain with the latter and this spring they have set the nine hour ball a rolling again with a vengeance. By organization and united action they have succeeded in getting all the builders and wood working factories with one exception to accede to their request to adopt the nine hour system, and in rapid succession all the other trades employed in building as well as several in the manufacturing industries have followed suit, and now labor one hour less than they did a year ago. Since April 1st the nine hour system has been adopted in St. John by the house carpenters and wood workers, ship carpenters, painters, plumbers, tinsmiths, boiler makers, blacksmiths of the city and also the car builders and machinists of Harris & Co's establishment.

The street laborers to the number of about 100 have applied to the city to have the nine hour day granted to them, and it is understood that the Board of Works will recommend to the council that the request be acceded to.

The brass finishers and machinists are working for it. The machinist of Fleming's foundry adopt it on Monday next. The rock cutters and excavators have decided to put it into operation on May 1st, and in the course of another month it looks as if the nine hour day would be the standard in nearly all classes of labor in both the building and manufacturing trades. At the present time there must be about 1,500 of the working men of St. John who work under this system.

Messrs. Haley Bros. & Co., was the only wood making firm that did not adopt the nine hour system. Their men accepted a raise in wages instead of shorter hours and the firm has continued to run their factory 10 hours a day. The carpenters and workmen employed with the other woodmaking firms who granted the men's requests for a shorter day, have boycotted Messrs. Haley Bros. & Co., having decided to refuse to work with or use any material from the factory of the firm in question. Although the other firms running nine hours would find it hard to compete with this one running 10 hours, some of them do not approve of the men's action. At Messrs. Harris & Co's car building establishment, however, was the only place where a regular strike took place this spring over the introduction of the new time system. The men asked for their usual summer raise of 10 per cent and that their working day's length be nine hours instead of ten. This was too much of a good thing all at once, however, and after stopping out a short time, a compromise was affected between the men and the firm that the nine hour system should be adopted and that the men accept a discount of 5 per cent on the usual summer wage.

The feeling among many firms is that the adoption of the nine hour system by building and manufacturing trades of St. John will have the effect of injuring business and lessening work here. For instance, they argue that vessels can be built cheaper in out-lying districts, up the rivers and bay where they work ten hours than here with the men working only nine. It is also held that the small towns are placed in a position to compete strongly with St. John in manufacturing. But the general feeling is that things will regulate themselves all right, that the nine hour system will soon become general all over the Dominion and that no one will be much worse off for it, while if the men make good use of the hour they have gained in improving their minds and bettering their condition generally, the result of the adoption of the nine hour system will be in the same line with that of the adoption of the 10 hour system, which has been to bring about wonderful improvement in the condition of the working classes.

Although the feeling is general that our clerks and employes in business establishments have too long hours no movement has been made to better their case. The wholesale groceries and the law offices close at one o'clock on Saturday and give the employes a half holiday. That, of course, would not work in retail establishments, but it seems as though all the retail grocery stores in the city could close at 8 o'clock every evening and at 9 and 10 Saturday, and serve the public quite as well as at present. In fact there are few retail businesses in the city which could not be run just as successfully on a shorter time basis, as they are at present working from 12 to 15 hours per day. Mutual agreement between the business men themselves and their employes would soon bring about a change which would be of benefit to both. When the working classes quit at 5 o'clock the retail business men should not encourage them to be out so late by keeping their tempting displays of goods arrayed under the glare of the electric light, and the stores open for business till ten or eleven o'clock. Give the clerks a chance.
