AGRICULTURE

Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND BARN.

Cleanliness of Interest for Our Country Readers.

The feed effects the breed. Evengens are best for a windbreak. One horse is only half a team. Let the other fellow throw dirt. An your animals comfortable! Economy always means enough. From a scrub only a scrub can come. Try to get stock to suit your farm. It won't do to depend on blood alone. The good scholar never ceases to learn. Use only mature animals for breeding. The better the mare the better the colt. Steady thrift makes even five of wool. Young trees are best for transplanting. The narrow man narrows the highway. To feed economically, balance the ration. A good farmer keeps everything in order. The good scholar never ceases to learn. Sow plenty of salt under your fruit trees. Plant trees around but not in the garden. Good seed is the first requisite of a good crop. Always feed young calves milk at blood heat. Match around trees is liable to harbor mice. Racks for hay and straw; troughs for grain. We need draft horses as well as roadsters. Don't build your barn in front of your house. The best farmer is never behind with his work. Sparking water may be loaded with death. The best feeder is apt to have the best breed. Individuality is often as marked as the breed. Farmers need a better knowledge of foods. The most potent of cattle is the Devon. Everything grows on the soil reduces its fertility. Scrape off only the loose, rough bark of the tree. All improved breeds have their excellences. Get the soil in proper condition before planting. Machinery is helpful to solve the road problem. Blood tells, but nourishing food is a great aid. All domestic animals are naturally improvable. The progressive man keeps a good lookout ahead. Success in breeding depends on proper crossing. A breeding ewe should be kept thriving and strong. Don't expect good results from wrong conditions. When a blooded animal can be starved and starved, it will be a good sign. Be careful how you lay down pointed sharp tools. Bean and corn mixed are better than either alone. Breeds combine the characteristics of its parents. Use only for self the next thing that amputation. Roughness alone is not sufficient feed for any animal. The crop at a time brings us to the end of the journey. Aim always to grow trees with a shapely fruit. A slow but healthy growth is desirable in a fruit tree. Have your plans well laid for your spring work. If you have trees to trim, do it before the start. A nasty barnyard is not a guarantee of a neat farmer. Old, dry corn stalks, finely cut, make good absorbent. The best composted manure produces the quickest results. Complete success in dairying depends on right conditions. It takes the world long to learn the simplest lessons. A sharp kink in a pig's tail is said to indicate good health. The larger the animal the greater the maintenance ration. The colder the quarters, the more food is consumed as fuel. It doesn't toughen an animal to let it shiver in the cold. Variety comes from the different combinations of simples. It is a grand fallow that fences in a portion of the highway. Much of college knowledge is more ornamental than useful. A cooling of hot tar or petroleum helps preserve fence posts. Follow principally that line of farming which you can do best. Intensive agriculture is the coming various of agriculture. Don't pile all the manure close around the stem of the plant. The same food that makes beef would make butter and cheese. There is more to be learned on a farm than in any other place.

Many an impacted stomach has been caused by use of water. Animals fed on dry fodder should have access to plenty of water. If you want acclimated plants, start a little nursery of your own. All a man can call his own are his mental and moral acquisitions. After cold weather sets in, pork is better in the barrel than in the pen. A dry, dead air space is preferable to a filling of sawdust, and costs less. A wound in the bark of the tree is like a wound in the skin of an animal. The education you get for yourself belongs to you; the rest is borrowed. The farmer who is on time with his work is generally the successful farmer. It doesn't pay to put more value in feed into a pig than the pig will sell for. Even the four tons of a cow vary in the quantity and quality of their yield. A hot cup of milk both stimulates and nourishes without causing reaction. Every cow needs a chance to move around until she is fat. What a revolution would follow if all should adopt a strictly vegetable diet. Coal tar applied to trees has been known to leave the bark in shreds. When a cow shrinks her milk; it is a sure sign something is wrong with her. There is risk in everything. "Nothing ventured, nothing gained"; but all ventures should be reasonable. Food is burned in the animal system to keep the body warm, and the consumption records with the demand. If you are making only a living and your farm is running down in fertility, do you mean to be told you are failing?

THE BARBER.

A very important factor in cheese making is rennet. This must be pure, strong and sweet, or perfect cheese cannot be made with it. If not pure and free from animal tissue, this rennet will soon decompose, throw the cheese of flavor and cause premature decay. The most potent of cattle is the Devon. Everything grows on the soil reduces its fertility. Scrape off only the loose, rough bark of the tree. All improved breeds have their excellences. Get the soil in proper condition before planting. Machinery is helpful to solve the road problem. Blood tells, but nourishing food is a great aid. All domestic animals are naturally improvable. The progressive man keeps a good lookout ahead. Success in breeding depends on proper crossing. A breeding ewe should be kept thriving and strong. Don't expect good results from wrong conditions. ANECDOTES, HAPPENINGS AND GENERAL COMMENTS

Clipped and Condensed for the Readers of The Globe.

Cover a nail with soap, and it will then be easy to drive it into hardwood. There are twenty-one properly qualified women doctors in the English provinces, and twenty-three in India. Australia holds some two hundred millions of British money, most of it repaid within the next thirty years. Her solvency is beyond attack. The moral quality of things is entirely a personal matter. He who laughs at the miseries of other people is a brute; if he laughs at his own he's a larc. There was a price fight between lady pugilists in Brooklyn. The brutal exhibition took place in a theatre in the presence of a great crowd, including some gentlemen who kept order. A wife left her husband at Ranganamti. The latter complained to the Dewan, who gave him fifty rupees as compensation for his loss, and the wife was to be sold by auction to recover the amount. "One minute luncheons" for business men are being provided in New York. Customers stand before a revolving counter and help themselves to the viands as they pass, the circuit occupying one minute. Canada lacks only 237,000 square miles to be as large as the whole continent of Europe; it is nearly thirty times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and is 500,000 square miles larger than the United States. Recently, on a certain night, says the "National Mail," a group of girls and boys were seen coming out of a public house in Shoreham at closing time, one of them a child in a pinafore, being too drunk to walk. A telephone has been tried on a new telegraph line erected between Melbourne and Adelaide, which are 500 miles apart. Conversation was carried on easily, and the chimes of the Adelaide Post Office clock were distinctly heard in Melbourne. Since 1886 Lord Salisbury has appointed two Archbishops of York and sixteen bishops, and the Bishopric of Carlisle is now vacant. Perhaps no other Prime Minister of the century has had so much ecclesiastical patronage at his disposal in so short a time. The collier is likely to become a familiar figure in Kent before long. Six years of coal, amounting in all to 144,000, have been discovered in the boring operations at Dover. Sir E. Watkin said at Ashford, that the success of the experiment is now well assured. Germany, like England, has a high reputation for wool, but in spite of that she adds more than twice as much to her population in one year as France adds in five years. The population of the German Empire is now greater by ten millions than the population of France. Captain Ostrom, whose name has been so much before the public lately in connection with the recent Pearl Slander case, is the son of the eminent musician composer at Dover. Sir E. Watkin said at Ashford, that the success of the experiment is now well assured. There is an existence a substance other than a jewel of the purest water, which is worth no less than sixty times its weight in pure gold. In the cabinet of chemical elements which the late Prince Lucien Bonaparte has bequeathed to the English nation there is a substance called germanium, which is reported to be of this fabulous value. A cultivated lady, presiding over a pleasant home in one of Boston's suburbs lately took her three daughters to call upon Mr. Whittier at his home in Amesbury. The poet received them cordially, kissing the youngest, a bright little girl of ten. "There," said the delighted mother to the child, "now you, as well as your sisters, will have something to be proud of." "What is that?" asked Whittier, with interest. The lady explained that when her older daughters were children she had taken them to call upon Longfellow, who had bestowed upon them a similar mark of attention. "What Longfellow has done I surely may be permitted to do," said the grand old poet gallantly, and stooping his tall form, he kissed both young ladies, who blushed and looked conscious, but smiled delightfully.

JINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Nonense Gathered for Leisure Reading.

The fish that has left the hook knows the danger of snapjudgment. Teacher. What is the feminine of man? Little girl. Duke. He. I can assure you that I am a bachelor from choice. She. So I suppose; but whose choice? Brown. How's your baby's health, Newport Sound and! Newport. Yes, I sometimes think it's all sound. Is your play realistic? Well, I should say it is. I have a young wife make a sponge cake on the stove, and give it to her husband, who eats it and dies upon the spot. Pure-pood father. So you hope to marry my daughter; do you? Well, young man, what are your prospects in life? Ambitions young man. I hope to marry your daughter. Carrie. George has asked me to be his wife. I hope he loves me. You don't suppose he wants me only for my money? Kate. I don't know, but some men will do anything for money. What is the matter, dearie? Somediv aw's happened, mamma. Well, what is it sweetheart? My d-d-d-baby got away from me and broke a plate out in the pantry. Beaver. That was a sad thing about Bill-dewick. He ordered a $75 overcoat, and the day after it was delivered he was taken down with typhoid, and won't be able to wear it for a year. Melton. Will he be able to wear it next year? Beaver. Oh, yes! But that of having to wear a new overcoat the same year you pay for it.

After Danger of the "Grip."

Boston papers facetiously remark that "La Grippe is seldom fatal unless you use all the remedies recommended for it." They are correct. The writer fully believes that the end of the poor "grip," victim if he tried all the patent medicines that have adorned the pages of our leading newspapers as "sure cures for La Grippe," would be like Mark Twain, who for his famous old tried every remedy advised by friends, until his stomach became so weak he began to vomit and continued until, as he avers, he was like to throw up his immortal soul. We notice one of the leading advertisers of the day has been conspicuous at this opportune time by the absence of any claim to cure the "grip." This certainly deserves a "chance" and we feel like giving them a "ad" for their compassion upon our readers. The more so for the reason that probably more people have used their remedy, that good old family medicine, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for this foreign influenza, than all other combined. And why not? Certainly no other will relieve catarrhal colds, coughs, bronchial troubles, or neuralgic pains, as promptly as all genuine or real La Grippe. Herein lies the real danger from this epidemic of influenza; it leaves the mucous membrane lining of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes tender and very susceptible to the catarrhal troubles and pneumonia, which come with February and March in our northern climate. We shall still pin our faith to the remedy for this after danger which acts promptly to allay inflammation; for therein lies the chief danger from the throat and lung troubles, and surely a remedy that the friends that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment has, after eighty years' trial by a critical public, and has been used for the "grip" more extensively than all the advertised remedies, deserves, as we said, a medal, and has before it we hope a prosperous year as an ointment. L. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., the manufacturers will send a valuable pamphlet free.

The people of Paris have consumed last year 21,221 horses, 229 donkeys, and forty mules, the most weighing, according to the returns, 4,915 tons. At the 150 shops and stalls where this kind of food is sold the price has varied from two pence a pound to ten pence, the latter being the price of superior horse steaks. A lady living at Birmingham, in every case of conviction in the local police court for cruelty to animals, cuts out the newspaper reports, and encloses with it with a postal order for half-a-crown and posts it to the constable who prosecuted. Several officers have been the happy recipients of this reward, but no one has the least idea from whom the money comes. Age does not at present seem to effect Bonheur's power or her capacity to earn large sums. She is now well into the seventies, but she has just completed one of the largest pictures she has ever painted. It has occupied her three years and she has already been offered and refused £12,000 for it. The scene depicted is that of ten horses, life-size in full trot, treading out corn. The Queen is by no means fond of jewelry. She simply wears two enamel bracelets, each containing a portrait. The one worn on the right arm contains the portrait of the Prince Consort, and on the left that of Her Majesty's youngest great-grandchild. The Queen says: "On the right wrist, I carry my first and greatest love, and on the left, the last bond that had pleased God to allow me to look upon."

Let there be no mistake about this that the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is manufactured from the very finest Virginia leaf. No higher quality of leaf can be purchased for any tobacco made. It is selected with the very greatest care, and treated with the most approved process for preserving the flavor of the tobacco.
