German War Office to Carry on Series of interesting and important

Experiments.

BERLIN, April 6—Imperial Councilor Martin's recently published book on battles in midair gives peculiar inter-est to some experiments which the Ger-man War Office has decided to carry man War Office has decided to carry out.

Balloons and airships are to be made the targets of gun and rifie fire, to throw light on the important question of the damage that may be done to them, and also on the effectiveness of balloons and airships to inflict destruction on fortifications and camps and troops on the march in time of war.

The experiments will be made in the vicinity of Danzig. Small balloons of the capacity of 2500 cubic feet will be let loose and, after travelling a certain distance, rifie fire and guns will be trained on them as long as practicable. Other balloons will be held captive by cables 3000 feet in length, attached to warships, which will tow them within range of the coast batteries at ranges varying from three to nine miles.

The experiments will be witnessed by officers of the general staff, artillery officers, naval officers and officers of the balloon department.

—His ideas of Preference.

LONDON, April 6.—Mr. Austin Chamberlain is evidently being groomed as an ultimate successor to his distinguished father. In a recent adress he said, discussing colonial preference at the second annual dinner of the United Club held at the Galety Restaurant:

"Our opponents say that the men who support tariff reform are men who have an ax to grind. I think we must be sufficed on the future trade relations of the different portions of the only in the content of the future trade relations of the different portions of the empire.
