MORE EVIDENCE IN THE COLLINS TRIAL

Case for the Crown is Not Finished Yet
Five Witnesses Were on the Stand Today but Nothing Very New Was Brought Out.
HOPEWELL CAPE, June 28.—Up to noon today five witnesses were examined in the Collins trial which was resumed at 10 o'clock.
Wm. Williamson, husband of Sarah Williamson, the preceding witness, who lives on the New Island road, told of having ground Father McAluay's axe for Collins when the latter was living with the priest, and also loaning Collins a razor which was not returned.
Bruce Harshel, of Elgin parish, related having seen Father McAluay's horse and buggy in the rectory yard on the morning of the tragedy. The witness drove towards Albert with his brother and went two miles beyond the priest's house, and on returning met the priest's horse and buggy as they drove past.
John Long gave evidence that he was driving to Albert on the morning in question and left home four miles before the McAluay house at 8 o'clock in the morning. He saw the priest's horse and buggy as they drove past the yard.
Gillman Bannister gave testimony similar to the last three witnesses. He saw the priest on the Kent Road looking for Father McAluay's horse which he said ran away while he was at his breakfast.
The morning session was adjourned, and it is said, the crown will probably put on some new witnesses.

MR. BRENNAN ACCUSED OF STRIKING A LADY

He Had Made Information Against Miss Jones but She Says He Hit Her First.
There were two prisoners on the police court bench this morning and both were women. Maud Lester, a white woman, was charged with being drunk and obscene on Strat Street. She was in the company of a man who was also intoxicated, but he got away while the woman was being arrested. She was remanded to jail, the magistrate remarking that as she liked the jail so well she would get it for the rest of the summer.
The other prisoner was Livedge Johnson, a 30 year old colored girl, who was charged by James Brennan, the proprietor of Union Street Hotel, with assaulting him. Miss Johnson said that Brennan struck her first and she only defended herself. Mr. Brennan took the stand and gave testimony that the girl went out at two o'clock yesterday afternoon and did not return until after midnight. She was reprimanded for keeping such late hours and informed that if she did not return until after midnight she would be charged with being drunk and obscene. A young colored man had secured a room close by and their conversation annoyed the other guests. He was told to leave the house and at the same time the colored girl struck Mr. Brennan on the eye, and if he had not caught hold of her clothing he would have fallen down the stairs.
The prisoner took the stand and said she had informed Mrs. Brennan that she would be out late as she had purchased a dress from Mr. Brennan's daughter and was going to wear it at a wedding. It rained and she could not wear the dress, but with attire less she went to the Globe hall and enjoyed a wedding dance. When she was returning home Charlie Jones, who boarded at Brennan's Hotel accompanied her. On arrival home she says that Mrs. Brennan abused her for being out late and ordered Mr. Jones to leave the house. Mr. Brennan then struck her on the chest and while giving her a shake told her to wait. She says she says that Brennan abused her by striking her on the face because she would not wash the paint as she had been hired as a cook at $3 a month. The wedding she said was that in which Ella Fitzgerald married Pat Francis. She said she was injured from the blow received, and while in the cell fainting and when she came to two men were standing over her. She said her home was at Ottobag and her mother wanted her to go home.
Charlie Jones, a sporty looking colored youth, who recently arrived from Houston, testified that he had been staying at Brennan's Hotel every night this week for 25 cents a night. He was at the wedding dance last night and accompanied Miss Johnson to her hotel. They were talking about her being

CHILD CARRIED TO SEA BY BUNDLE OF TOY BALLOONS

CHICAGO, June 28.—A despatch to the Record-Herald from Rockport, Texas, says: "Mamma, the two year old baby of Waco, was carried into the air yesterday by a bundle of toy balloons which an Italian peddler on the verandah of the hotel tied around her waist, thinking to please her. Before the spectacle could recover from this surprise she was wafted out to sea, fifty feet in the air. A launch occupied by George Munafie, of Denver, was in the bay and he came to the little girl's rescue. Firing at the bundle of balloons, he punctured several of them, and she began to settle downward, finally landing safely twelve feet from the water on the shore of St. Joseph's Island."

MRS. DOOLEY TELLS HOW MUCH HER HUSBAND EARNED

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FALSE PRETENCES
Joseph Horwitz Got Goods From Two Firms
But Did Not Carry Out the Agreement—The Case Was Settled Today—Horwitz Well Known Here.

In the circuit court this morning the case of Dooley vs. the City of St. John was resumed. Mr. Mullin called his last witness, Herbert E. Wardrop, common clerk, who, when sworn, stated that prior to 1882, the water and sewerage commission of the West End had charge of all work in that locality, and therefore he had not on his books the minutes of the commission when the old sewer on Rodney Street was ordered to be built. Since 1882 the water board had had charge of all work connected with sewers in the city, and Supt. Murdoch has been in charge. Mr. Wardrop stated that after having made a thorough search of his books he could find no reference to the old sewer on Rodney street. Previous to the formation of the water and sewerage board a board of management attended to sewerage matters. Mr. Murdoch was assistant superintendent of water and sewerage when the board of management was in existence. The witness did not know of all the matters taken up by the board while he filled the office of assistant superintendent. The books containing the minutes of the board of management were sent for and Mr. Wardrop stated that the minutes dated from 1881 to 1900. On examining the book he was unable to find a record of the laying of the old sewer pipe in Carleton. He found a record, however, where a tender was accepted for repairing the sewer.

Mr. Mullin stated that Mrs. Dooley, the plaintiff in the case, was in court, but owing to her frail state of health, he thought that it would be better to take her evidence in the office and judge Mr. Mullin.

The case was adjourned until tomorrow.

Deputy Chief Jenkins was at once notified. An endeavor was made to locate the Jew with the two names. It was learned that he had not checked the trunks of clothing to Pictou but to Springfield Mines, and had disposed of the goods for half their value to a Springfield merchant. On Wednesday morning he left Springfield Junction for the west. All outlets were watched and the man was captured by the United States immigration officers at Vergopolis yesterday and held for Sergeant Caples who is acting detective in Detective Killen's absence. On arrival here Horwitz wished to settle the case. Representatives of Shane & Co. and A. Poyas called at the police court at noon and conversed with the prisoner.

The affair was settled this afternoon and Horwitz released.
