CHAMOMILE CORDIAL.

THIS Cordial, as its name announces, is prepared scientifically by a Member of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, from the Flowers of Chamomile, and other selected Medicinal ingredients, imported especially from England. Not only is it a Tonic, but it stands unrivaled in all its medicinal virtues, having acquired a justly celebrated reputation, surpassing the famous Herbes de Provence, to which it bears a close resemblance of taste and flavor, as well as in medicinal efficacy. It is incomparably superior.

These medicinal virtues, while fully preserved, are more delicately concentrated and developed in the Cordial, which from its transparent and golden colour, resembles Wine, and is as you describe, fragrant and agreeable to the palate, and consider it an excellent Preparation for the use of the valuable Tonic Properties of the Flowers of Chamomile.

TESTIMONIALS:

Toronto, June 24th, 1852.

Mrs. REXFORD & CO.

GENTLEMEN.—We have tasted the Sample Bottle, with which you favoured us, of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial," and find it as you describe, fragrant and agreeable to the palate, and consider it an excellent Preparation for the use of the valuable Tonic Properties of the Flowers of Chamomile.

We are, &c.,
GEORGE HERRICK, M.D.
JOHN KING, M.D.

GENTLEMEN.—I duly received and have tried the sample of "Compound Chamomile Cordial" which you sent me.

Aware of the manner in which you prepare it, and of the nature and quality of the ingredients which you employ in its manufacture, I cannot object to express to you in my writing my opinion of it, which I should hesitate to do under different circumstances.

I consider it a very elegant Pharmaceutical Preparation, no less capable of being made exceedingly useful in a domestic as well as in the apothecary room of you. It will serve as an article of sustenance for much of the time, which is purchased by Wine for the use of invalids, and will also prove an excellent medium for the aromatic confection of tea-sugar, which, without some auxiliaries, are often rejected against and rejected by the stomach.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours, &c.,
EDWARD RADCLIFFE, M.D.

Mrs. REXFORD & CO.

GENTLEMEN.—I duly received and have tried the Sample of "Compound Chamomile Cordial" which you sent me. I consider it a very elegant Preparation, and useful in all cases where a mild Tonic is required, more especially in case of Dyspepsia, and the weakness of the Stomach, it being very agreeable to taste, can be taken by any one.

Mrs. REXFORD & CO.

GENTLEMEN.—I have received the Sample Bottle of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial," and consider it a beautiful as well as highly medicinal preparation. The aromatic and peculiar flavor, in which lies the essential Medicinal qualities appear to be largely infused and well preserved, and as this vegetable Tonic is highly beneficial in those forms of Dyspepsia, depending on debility, or want of tone of the digestive organs (the form most frequently seen with this condition) I your Cordial will, I doubt not, form an invaluable addition to our Pharmaceutical armament.

From the knowledge possessed by me of Mr. Rexford, and his very high reputation as a Pharmaceutical Chemist I feel much pleasure in confidently recommending his preparation of this valuable Tonic to my professional brethren, and to the public, as a delightful and invigorating Cordial.

I am, Yours, &c.,

GEORGE JOLLIFFE,
Surgeon.

Mrs. REXFORD & CO. Toronto,

GENTLEMEN.—I have no hesitation in expressing to you my professional approbation of your "Compound Chamomile Cordial." The fine properties of the Flowers of Chamomile, with which it is finely blended, are so universally acknowledged, and the Medicinal qualities of that vegetable ingredient so fully admitted in Dyspeptic complaints, that I consider the idea of administering it in the pleasing form of a Cordial, most happy; and in the case of your proposition, as forwarded, that it cannot fail to be a favorite with the public.

The Castilian Hair Invigorator,

THIS elegant Toilet Preparation is warranted to excel all others ever offered to the public, for Preserving and Restoring the hair; it prevents or cures baldness or grey hair; deadening and ringlets out; and what is of the highest importance, is that it is unlike most other Toilet preparations, being perfectly harmless, yet successful for the purposes recommended. It gives the hair a beautifully soft, smooth and glossy appearance; in that it also differs from other preparations, all of which more or less injure and destroy the hair. The Castilian Invigorator is formed for beautiful and glossy hair, hair need
