

an acquaintance in her sick bed and had so dear & charming chat with her when she visited your house last year. I too really do not know how to console you except tendering my most profound condolence and expressing my realization of how deep the sorrow & grief of your mother and yourself will be. My wife expresses her despair to me as I writing now of lost chance of meeting your beloved sister ^{again} as she hoped to have it in some near future.

With profoundest respects & sympathy which Mrs. Gann shares most sincerely,

Believe me,

Sincerely yours,

W. G. Gann.
