

ILLUSTRATIONS

"These were the first wild lions I had ever seen" . . .	Frontispiece
	FACING PAGE
"They sported a great variety of garments" . . . . .	38
"M'ganga, the headman, tall, fierce, big framed and bony" . . . . .	38
On the march . . . . .	39
"The blankets they were twisting most ingeniously into turbans" . . . . .	39
"The great tangled forests themselves" . . . . .	42
"Behind us marched the four gunbearers; then the four syces" . . . . .	43
Memba Sasa . . . . .	50
Chanler's reedbuck . . . . .	51
Jackson's hartebeeste . . . . .	62
The oryx . . . . .	63
"The motionless and picturesque figure of Saa-sita (six o'clock)" . . . . .	63
Notata gazelle . . . . .	64
"Ta", beautiful falls, plunging several hundred feet into the forest" . . . . .	65
"They broke through a pass" . . . . .	80
"In an open grove of acacias, we pitched our tents" . . . . .	81
"A great deal of time they spent before their tiny fires roasting meat and talking" . . . . .	84
"Distributing 'potio' or rations to the men" . . . . .	84
On the Northern Guaso Nyero River . . . . .	85
"At this point far up in its youth, it was a friendly river" . . . . .	85