

NEARING A BREAKDOWN

A Condition That Calls for a Reliable Tonic.

Many women give so much of their time to the cares of their household that they neglect their own health and sometimes reach the verge of a breakdown before they realize that their health is shattered. Often the heart palpates violently at slight exertion, the stomach fails to digest food and discomfort follows. The nerves become weak and headaches grow more frequent. The body grows weak and they are always depressed. This condition requires immediate treatment with such a reliable tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich and build up the blood, carrying renewed energy to every part of the body. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a rundown condition is proved by the following statement from Mrs. Alex. McInnes, Bowlsman River, Man., who says:—"About a year ago I had a serious illness which left me very anaemic. I was not able to get around to do my work; in fact I could scarcely walk. I was troubled with palpitation of the heart with the least exertion. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as they had done her much good. I followed this advice and took the pills for some weeks when I felt as well as ever. I have since been able to attend to all my household duties. The dizziness and palpitation have left me and I bless the day I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are just the medicine for those who are weak and rundown."

You can get these pills from any dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Surnames and Their Origin

THURSTON

Racial Origin—English. Source—A locality. The family name of Thurston is one which traces back to very ancient times and constitutes one of those relics of pagan England which the rush of our modern civilization has not succeeded in obliterating. The antiquity of the name, however, is as a place name rather than a family name. It was turned to the latter use about the same period when the bulk of family names came into being in England—namely, between the twelfth and fifteenth centuries. Before that it existed only as the name of a place.

In the speech of the ancient pagan Saxon inhabitants of England, Thurston meant "Thor's town" or "Thor's fortress." Thor was that god of might whose name runs through the sagas of the Vikings, of the Swedes, Norwegians, Icelanders, Danes, Sarons and all the northern branches of the Teutonic race. Of course, in its first use to designate the individual, the name was used to indicate the place from which the bearer had come and was prefixed, either in the Norman or Saxon tongue, by the word "of."

BARRY

Variations—O'Barry, Barle, Barrie, DeBarrie, DuBarri. Racial Origin—Irish. Source—A given name. This is one of the oldest among the Irish family names, being traceable first as a clan name as early as about 580 A.D., nearly six centuries before family names were thought of in England, and about nine centuries before they became at all common in Germany.

The family name system of Ireland was crystallized, so to speak, by the great monarch, Brian Boru, several centuries later, by his edict ordering each clan definitely to settle on a name derived from some former chieftain, and ordering that each man should use as a family name the name of his clan, which definite provisions were made. But in doing this King Brian merely established by legal edict what had already, in a slightly looser sense, been the custom for many centuries.

The Gaelic form of the name Barry is "O'Barre." It is taken from "Barre," the name of the chieftain who founded it some time prior to 600 A.D. The forms of "DeBarrie" and "DuBarri" are Normanized forms or, in some cases, French affectations of a later period.

Kensington Gardens.

Here at my feet what wonders pass, What endless, active life is here! What blowing daisies, fragrant grass! An air-stir'd forest, fresh and clear. Scarcely fresher is the mountain-sod Where the tired angler lies, stretched out, And, eased of basket and of rod, Counts his day's spoil, the spotted trout.

In the huge world, which roars hard by, Be others happy if they can! But in my helpless cradle I Was breathed on by the rural Poet.

Calm soul of all things! make it mine To feel, amid the city's jar, That there abides a peace of thine, Man did not make, and cannot mar. The will to neither strive nor cry, The power to feel what others give! Calm, calm me more! nor let me die Before I have begun to live. —Matthew Arnold.

New Motor Road Over the Central Rockies.

One more of the supremely beautiful regions in the Central Rockies will soon be made accessible to the motorist. Engineers of the Canadian National Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior are now engaged on the construction of the last section of what will be known as the Lake Louise Field highway, a road which will open Yoho National park for the first time to motorists from the outside world. The work is being prosecuted with as much expedition as possible and operations are sufficiently far advanced to ensure the opening of the road next spring. From Hector station to Field the highway makes use of the old right of way of the Canadian Pacific railway abandoned when the spiral tunnel through Cathedral mountain was built. In former days the descent of the west slope was regarded as one of the most thrilling and impressive in the whole mountains. Mountain lovers, realizing this, often left the train at Hector of late years and walked down the seven or eight miles to Field, so as to absorb the full grandeur of the splendid panorama, with its distant valleys and the Kickinghorse and Yoho valleys and the great ice world along the Divide. The new road is a continuation of the Lake Louise road which branches off from the famous Banff-Windermere highway at Castle. Leaving Lake Louise it follows the Bow valley to near the Divide and then crossing the Kickinghorse pass (5,329 ft.) it drops down by good roads to Field. From this point roads already lead to many of the chief beauty spots of Yoho park and the Yoho valley, Takakkaw falls, Emerald lake by way of Snowpeak avenue, and the Natural bridge will all be within motorists' reach.

Not Worth It.

The weary shopman had exhausted his whole stock except a few cuckoo clocks, so he brought these forward as a last resource. "I'll show you what they do," said the salesman, and he set the hands of one at twelve o'clock, when the door flew open and the cuckoo thrust its head out and cuckooed. "Pat was impressed. "Well, how do you like that?" asked the salesman. "That's a staggerer for you, isn't it?" "Faith and begorra, I should think it is! It's trouble enough to remember to wind it, without having to think of feedin' the bird."

The Common Man.

Though fame has called a few to grace, And wealth has smiled on many more, And some there are in every place On whom the gifts of luxury pour, I sing the neighbor and the friend, The man on whom we all depend.

His hopes and dreams are yours and mine, His doubts and fears are all our own, His eyes at simple beauties shine, His hurts are those we all have known. The coat the rich would fling away Serves him through many a wintry day.

He lives on every humble street, He goes to church and shares in all That makes the lives of mortals sweet, Though fame on him may never call; And, having burdens he must bear, He understands all men's despair.

Oh, fame and wealth both give and take, And even skill its price demands; The great must old-time paths forsake And leave small tasks to gentler hands.

The glorious souls which love supply Are those which glory passes by.

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under the operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. ADAMS, Box 64, Provost, Alberta.

I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. ROSE, 680 Notre Dame, St., Lachine, Quebec.
