

MANY MIRACLES AT TEMPLEMORE

Bleeding Statures Make Town Rival Lourdes.

Pilgrims Flock There in Thousands.

Templemore, County Tipperary, Ireland, Aug. 17.—Tens of thousands of the faithful are still flocking to this small Tipperary town to gain religious and physical balm from the wonder-working statues belonging to James Walsh, the former Cistercian novice, who has conferred upon Templemore a fame that is exceeded only by Lourdes.

The statues have been placed in a flower-bedded yard on the premises of Timothy Dwan, Walsh's uncle. The yard overlooks the market place and Battery Park. Here thousands of the afflicted gather, bearing crucifixes and rosaries.

While waiting for admission to the yard by twos and threes, the whole congregation, as though moved by a single devout impulse, periodically stalks silently to its knees, with twitching lips, offers prayer to the Virgin Mary, imploring her vouchsafe a continuance of the miraculous healing.

Moving through the throng are men and women who claim to have been mysteriously cured by the saint's intervention. Dan Egan, the local harnessmaker, is striding about like a fit, sound man, after being crippled for five years with sciatic rheumatism.

A milliner, almost crazed by nervous disorders, was cured after a magic crucifix was laid on her brow. The most wonderful case is that of Martin Monahan. His story has gone throughout Ireland, and is bringing people here in every conceivable kind of conveyances from Fords to the backs of asses. Monahan was discharged from the army two years ago, suffering from a broken left knee.

"When I heard of the miracles," he tells the story, "I limped across the square to the house. Walsh took me up the stairs and lifted me up to the crucifix. It was bleeding. He rubbed my bare knee against it. I was in great pain. He prayed over me and ordered me to pray. We left the room together. Then before I left the house I felt a sudden shock. All pain left me. I ran quickly back to my home. I was not lame. I have not been lame since."

Edward Gleeson, a young soldier who was blinded, was admitted Thursday. He was seated at a table. A woman held a crucifix over his eyes. The others in the room sank to their knees and prayed. After a few moments of prayer Gleeson began to see dimly. He did not recover the normal use of his eyes.

A peasant woman walked fifty miles with an imbecile son 13 years old. She touched his head to the statue of the Virgin. Mrs. Dwan offered a prayer. The couple went away. On their way home they met other pilgrims coming in. To these the mother related that her son's mind was clearing.

Walsh, whose visits started the pilgrimages, is a frail youth. He has convincing sincerity and seems one manifestly destined to a religious vocation.

"As I lay in bed one night," he tells his story, "I saw a desizing object in the darkness. It wass hamed like a communion particle. The letters I.H.S. stood out distinctly in the centre."

Thereafter, he related, the Virgin frequently appeared to him, sometimes at his house and sometimes beside the road.

100,000 FROM U. S.

Coming to Canada Next Year, Say U. S. Experts.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 17.—One hundred thousand immigrants to Canada will come from the United States next year.

That was the view expressed generally by members of a party of 40 American bankers, business men and farmers who, Friday night, completed a 3,000-mile trip through the Prairie Provinces of Western Canada. The party, which left Winnipeg on Aug. 18, took the first of a series of immigration prospecting trips to be conducted by the Industrial and Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways. Heavy purchases of prairie lands were made by several of the visitors.

14.3 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE

Official Estimate of Saskatchewan Crops.

Threshing Starts in Several Districts.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 17.—Cutting is practically completed in Saskatchewan, according to reports received by the Bureau of Statistics of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Threshing has commenced in several districts. Frost does not appear to have damaged reports indicate that the grain is of the crops to any material extent. All reports indicate that the grain is of good grade. Rain has been general over the province during the week, and has somewhat retarded harvesting operations, but with warm weather and wind will do no damage except in fields which have not been stocked. From reports received from three hundred correspondents, the bureau makes a preliminary estimate of 14.3 bushels to the acre.

LITTLE OR NO FROST
Edmonton, Aug. 17.—Little or no frost has occurred in the Edmonton district. The lowest temperature recorded at the local meteorological office was 37.

HARVESTING DELAYED
Moose Jaw, Sask., Aug. 17.—Rain has fallen almost continuously over the week-end and greatly delayed harvesting operations. There has been no frost in the district.

STEADY DRIZZLING RAIN
Saskatoon, Aug. 17.—The lowest temperature during the past twenty-four hours has been 55. A steady drizzling rain has completely stopped harvesting operations.

BATHER UNUSUALLY WARM
Prince Albert, Aug. 17.—The weather here is unusually warm for this season with no sign of frost. Almost an inch of rain fell here since Saturday at noon.

GARDEN TRUCK NIPPED
Calgary, Aug. 17.—Frost nipped some of the tender garden truck in Calgary on Saturday night, but so far as is known grain was not damaged.

PASTOR HAZED

By Bathers Angry Over Criticisms.

Trenton, N.J., Aug. 17.—Rev. Frederick Koptman, pastor of the Methodist Church at Titusville, N.H., who has been endeavoring to "drive the devil from the hearts of the immodest bathers at Washington Crossing," was greeted yesterday with a shower of over-ripe tomatoes when he appeared at the resort to lecture them on the immodesty of their attire.

The pastor's automobile was wrecked and he was punched and mauled, and an attempt was made to duck him in the Delaware River. He finally escaped when a constable held the mob back with a drawn revolver. Later the pastor was found nursing a bruise on his face. His clothing was covered with tomato seeds and juice, and his face streamed with perspiration. He was still full of fight, however, and determined, he said, to appear at the hearing before the township board next Tuesday to present his evidence of immorality among the summer colonists.

Like a Grip of the Throat. For a disease that is not classed as fatal there is probably none which causes more terrible suffering than asthma. Sleep is impossible, the sufferer becomes exhausted and finally, though the attack passes, is left in unceasing dread of its return. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful curative agent. It immediately relieves the restricted air passages as thousands can testify. It is sold by dealers everywhere.

HOUSE FOR FOCH.

Paris, Aug. 17.—The French Government has decided to allot Marshal Foch an official home worthy of his position. The magnificent building of grey stone at 133 Rue de Grenelle, formerly part of the French War Office, is being made ready for France's greatest soldier, and he will take up his residence, rent free, some time in September.

The decision has saved the Marshal from an uncomfortable predicament, caused by his lease on his present flat running out and his difficulty in finding one elsewhere.

Kootenay and Its Mines

C. P. R. Train at Kootenay Landing Connecting With the Steamer Macoskin, From Nelson.

The trade travel and exploration of the Kootenay are a romance of progress. The day of the fur trader gave way to that of the placer-miner. In passing, the placer-miner left behind his trail of rocks, and sluice, shaft and drill, a still deeper mark on the country and its future. He stayed long enough to make history. The Todd Mines, near Nelson, discovered in 1882, saw a great stampede. The discovery of the Silver King Mine, about 1887 by Hall Brothers, and its development, was the beginning of Nelson, and following the arrival of the miners, a townsite was laid out. The Granite Peer Mine, developed as a gold mine, was first worked by Lincoln Development in 1889. He built the first stamp mill and the whole was in operation about 25 years and produced an immense amount of gold. The "Molly Gibson," twelve miles north of Nelson, a silver lead mine was developed on a large scale and is owned and operated by a Trust enterprise. The "Ainsworth," on the main Kootenay Lake, 23 miles north of Nelson, is one of the first developed mining camps, dating back to 1855 and opened by Mr. Ainsworth. This is a free silver mining district and has natural hot springs. A visit to the Board of Trade rooms in Nelson is of interest. Typical of the District, attractive ore exhibit cases line the walls and tell of the local mineral riches. These are specimens from Slocan City, Yukon, Leadson, Boundary, Shoop Creek, Fort Steele, East Kootenay, and there are smaller products from Trill, Fort Steele in historical interest, as one of the oldest towns in the province. Old-timers even claim that it got British

GOOD TYPES

THE LOVABLE HUSBAND.

Shaves regularly every day. Does not have a grouch regularly at the breakfast table and another when he comes home at the dinner table.

Keeps his newspaper to read in the train or trolley, not at breakfast.

Never contracts the "peck" habit, but gives his wife a real kiss, now and then!

Pulls her chair out for her before sitting down to a meal, picks up her handkerchief when she drops it, and preserves at least a few others of the courtesies of sweetheart days.

Remembers the wedding day anniversary. Plans a trip or a frolic for her, now and then.

Notifies a new hat or a becoming dress, and occasionally hands out a superlative compliment!

THE LOVABLE WIFE.

Is never seen in hair curlers. Never wears a kimono downstairs.

Is not only neatly, but becomingly dressed, within the home as well as abroad, at work as well as play. And becomingly neat does not mean expensive, either!

Does not tell tales on the children. Does not make the dinner hour a servant troubles of the day, but rather a time for chatting of outside interests.

The woman who talks home, which is really her "shop," is tiresome.

Never appears in the same dress for the evening meal that she wore in the morning.

Always rests awhile, just before hubby's home-coming, so as not to be too tired and nervous to be pleasant.

Always sees that the children are fresh and clean to greet their father, bouquet of flowers in the home.

Shows such pleasure when hubby brings her candy or any other little greeting, that he is very likely to repeat the action, and so form a good hubby habit!

Does not ask suspicious questions about the stenographer, or other who hen that hubby must necessarily come in contact with, but simply takes it for granted that she, wife, reigns supreme.

THE WELL BRED CHILD.

To rise if an older person comes into the room.

Not to interrupt when others are talking.

When addressing anyone, or answering a question, always use the name of the person being spoken to—for instance, "Yes, Mrs. Brown," or "No, thank you, Mary."

Not to whisper to anyone while others are present in the room.

If a boy, to bow—if a girl, to courtesy—when meeting or being introduced to anyone.

APPLE AND PEAR BLIGHT

Blight of apple and pear is a specific and contagious disease. Some varieties of pears are more susceptible to this disease than are others. There are three places on the trees where blight commonly occurs, the blossoms, twigs and larger limbs or trunk. The names blossom-blight, twig-blight and body-blight and canker are commonly used, but it should be remembered that these are different manifestations of the same disease. The bacteria which cause blight grow as parasites in the inner bark tissue and kill it. The individual bacteria are too small to be seen by the unaided eye. Nevertheless they are present by millions. They live over the winter at the edge of the cankers on the limbs and trunk. When warm weather comes in the spring they multiply to the extent that they ooze out in small drops near the edge of the canker. It is at this point that the new season's destruction begins.

Bees and other insects are attracted by the ooze, and after their bodies have become smeared with it they carry the bacteria from place to place. In this way bees deposit bacteria in the blossoms that they visit, and a few days later the blossoms wilt and turn black. In a similar manner other insects in their roaming, inoculate a few bacteria into the bark here and there and twig blight results. All this could be avoided by the grower of apples and pears if the cankers from which the ooze comes were eradicated during the winter. The cankers are irregular and slightly sunken areas of bark usually separated from healthy bark by a definite crack. By cutting into the canker it will be found that the bark is dry and brown. To remove the canker make a spindle-shaped cut with a sharp pointed knife, always keeping the outline of the cut at least a half-inch outside the edge of the canker. After this outline cut has been made just deep enough to cut through to the wood, the bark is peeled off. Adhering to the wood scraped. It is advisable to wash the wound with corrosive sublimate solution (one tablet to a pint of water), which should be carried in a glass bottle and applied with a sponge. Although canker eradication is very important there are other sources of infection in the spring which need attention. Badly infected trees should be cut down and burned. Wild crab apple trees and hawthorns are often blighted and they should be removed from the vicinity of the orchard. Care should be taken also that any twigs which were blighted the past season should be removed. They are evident during the winter by the fact that the dead leaves cling to them. All suckers or water sprouts should be removed several times during the season. The operations outlined above must be carried out thoroughly if benefit is to be gained from them. They all serve to reduce the chances of infection the next spring if they are finished before any warm weather occurs. During the spring and early summer the grower should make careful inspections two or three times a week, walking down each row. All blighted blossoms should be removed by breaking off the spur. Blighted twigs should be broken or cut off several inches below the evident blackening. If cut with a tool the end of the twig should be swabbed with corrosive sublimate. All these control measures minimum.—W. H. Rankin, Plant Pathologist.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and, if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

"YOU"

(By William Telford Duncan, New York.)

You, who wrote the Hymn of Hate, Laughed at Lullabies, and Left a world disconsolate, Now come whining at our gate.

You, who stripped those bodies nude, Maiden, mother with her brood; Spent your piglike passion lewd, Say your children cry for food.

You, who on our grief intrude, Praising Christlike attitude; He who died on Calvary road, Never conceived of beasts so crude.

You, whose hearts are black as soot, You, who sent your women loot, Girded orchard, vine and root, Think you we forget you, brute?

You, who wrecked each vane and shrine, Flushed with frenzy, drunk with wine, Ask us now to cherish thine— Never by the gods, you swine.

You, who poisoned spring and well, Robbed each beltry chime and bell; Damn you, we remember well, How you made fair France a hell.

You, whose crimes on every sea, Blackened seaman chivalry; May the sailor pale be, Who will heed your drowning plea.

You, who Edith Cavell shot, Think you we remember not; Each and every fiendish plot, Conjured by some German sot.

You, who boasted of "the day" When in battles fierce away, You would British sailors slay, Then at Jutland slunk away.

You, we know you, one and all, Prince and peasant, cot and hall; You, who would the world intrail, Hold us oxen in your stall?

You with Emperor omniscient, You that were supreme efficient, Then in bungling proved proficient, Claim your store of foods deficient.

You, when e'er you sob and sigh, Plead your children's hungry cry; Think of those whose bodies lie, Neath the ocean and the sky.

You, whose propaganda lied, You, who peasants crucified; Though you never broke their ties, Think you that in vain they died?

Now you come with specious lies, Urging, say your babies cry; While your crooked mind asks why, We with loathing thus reply:

You never shall forget While the sun shall rise and set; How you Huns are even yet Hoping to make good your threat.

No, by all the hopes and fears That were crowded in those years; By our blasted youths' careers, Shall we heed your reptile tears.

The Foe of Indigestion.—Indigestion is a common ailment and few are free from it. It is a most distressing complaint and often the suffering attendant it is most severe. The very best remedy is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken according to directions. They rectify the irregular action of the stomach and restore health action. For many years they have been a standard remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion and are highly esteemed for their qualities.

HIT A WHALE.

Liner Captain Puzzled Over the Accident.

New York, Aug. 17.—You could generally tell when you sunk a submarine by the quantities of oil that rose to the surface immediately after, but skipper Herbert of the St. Paul, didn't see any whale oil on the Atlantic last Tuesday, so he doesn't know, and maybe never will, whether or not he sank the whale.

Last Tuesday the St. Paul, of the American Line, was 800 miles out from Ireland, headed for New York. Suddenly there was a bump. Captain Candy, the crew and 800 passengers slid forward three feet simultaneously. The skipper sent word below to find out about the bump. Word came from below that there was nothing down there that could cause any bumps. The propeller was going around as per schedule.

Then Captain Candy saw a large black object about the vessel. "It can't be the Azores," said the skipper. "We're on the northern route." Then the whale—for such it was—jumped clean out of the water, much to the consternation of all the passengers. It flopped into the water again, heaved a huge sigh, spouted two large streams of water and dived. Captain Candy doesn't know whether the critter was in its death throes or just wanted to play.

The Oil for the Athlete.—In rubbing down, the athlete can find nothing finer than Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It renders the muscles and sinews pliable, takes the soreness out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for this purpose, and athletes who for years have been using it can testify to its value as a lubricant.
