The Love of God.

Like a crane, rocking, rocking,
Pleasant, peaceful, in and fro,
Like a mother's sweet, lullaby dropping
On the little face below,
Hangs the green earth, swinging, turning,
In truth, in wisdom, safe and slow,
Falls the light of God's face beaming
Down and watching us below.
And, as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry and will not rest,
Are the cases the tender mother -
Holds the closest, loves the best -
So when we are weak and wretched,
By our sins weighed down, distressed,
Then it is that God's great patience
Holds us closest, loves us best - Harry Holm.

Conditions in Belgium.

A. S. Barnsted, Secretary of the Belgium Relief Committee has received from E. B. Eldredge, representing the Government of Nova Scotia in Holland, the following account of conditions there that will be read with interest by the people of Nova Scotia who have contributed so much by the timeliness of their aid to alleviate some of the distress the heroic Belgians are enduring:-
Westerstraat 2a, Rotterdam, Holland, January 15, 1915 - The Belgian Relief work now being done by Nova Scotians in company with other Christian peoples gives the observer a higher conception of the human character. The whole soulful manner in which the Hollanders are succoring the refugees in this country strikes one's admiration.
I have visited a civilian camp of refugees which is under military control at Houda. This was in wonderful contrast to the conditions existing in the various camps on the occasion of my first visit, when one takes into consideration the fact that the Dutch Government have over 450,000 soldiers mobilized and in training. Their commercial life is practically destroyed and their consequent distress because of unemployment. All this has to be provided for by the Government and private donations, and it makes one amazed at what they are doing for the Belgians.
At this camp there are 1,500 Belgians housed in what were formerly conservatories. These are now supplied with steam heat, electric light, baths, a shower bath, social halls, dining rooms and sleeping apartments, divided for men, women and families.
They are very comfortable and everything is spotlessly clean. I have no doubt in my mind that for quite a large percentage of these people, the conditions are as good if not better than they had in their own country.
On Friday last I visited a camp near Utrecht, where 17,000 Belgians soldiers are interned. The expression on the faces of these people is widely different from that of those in other refugee camps. As one could readily see they feel the restraint and lack of possibility of doing that which is so much of their hearts' desire, viz., defending their country and homes. Their enforced idleness is having an effect on their natures and temperaments.
The American Commission is doing a wonderful work. They have it so systematized, that every need is recorded and what is being done or has already been done to relieve the same.
One thing that pleased me very much was the work of the Rockefeller Foundation Committee of New York, under the direction of Mr. Jenkinson. It has always seemed to me that the enforced idleness would be the most serious of the future lives of the refugees, but the above named committee are endeavoring to overcome this. As far as is possible they have provided a sewing machine for every woman. They furnish material for the making of various kinds of garments for men and women. They have cutters of various kinds and every department. The garments when made are the property of the committee, and they distribute them where they are most needed.
The remuneration paid to the operators is one guilder per week. They are allowed to give 50 per cent of this and the balance is placed to their credit, so that when the time comes for them to return to their own country they will have a little money in their pockets. In addition to this there is a prize to the value of five guilders, which is distributed monthly to the most efficient worker in each department. A' so, when a woman has made six suits of underwear, she is privileged to keep one suit for herself or any member of her family. They have the intention also to start a tailor shop, so as to give employment to some of the men. What is being done at this camp is being attempted at the others, so as to have them all eventually working time.

8 Boxes Cured Psoriasis.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. The disease spread all over me, open to my face and head and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and an entirely cured - not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."
An English clergyman who has been sending consents for the benefit of British soldiers in camp at Grandwood, has written a Scotch version of "Tippitery". The chorus is as follows:
It's a lang way tae Auchtermuchty,
It's a lang way tae Perth,
It's a lang way tae Glasgow,
Praise anywhere else an' aither,
Guid be the Balaichuan,
Farweil but an' ben,
It's a lang way tae Auchtermuchty,
But we'll gang back again.

Whoooping Cough.

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B. C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter and we attribute their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linnseed and Turpentine. We always keep it in the house, and recommend it as the king of all medicines. It was formerly completely cured of protruding piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Mamma, when people are in mourning, do they wear black nightgowns?

The Aviator's Triumph.
I flew across an English town,
So peaceful and so fair;
I said, 'Here is a chance for me
To show you Germans dare.'
I saw a vic-haired clergyman,
Vow walking with his frau,
I dropped a bomb upon his hat;
Vere is dot couple now?
I saw three little vuns, suit dolls,
Dot watched me as I flew.
It made me laugh to see de bits
Dot dey vas blowed into.
I saw a wedding party, vick
Vas having lots of fun.
I picked de biggest bomb I got
Vot killed dem all but vun.
I saw a weeping funeral,
'Close by de church's door;
I said, 'Vas corpse is night genug,'
So I supply some more.
I saw a lovely liddle dog,
Some people's liddle pet.
I blow him up as quick as vink,
Dot makd dem sad, you bet.
And ven my bombs vas all used up,
I flew off fast and far,
I refused to dank dot I had shown
How brave ve Germans are.

5,000 Facts About Canada.

"Know Canada! make Canada known!" is a striking sentence in the War Year edition for 1915 of that popular booklet "5,000 Facts About Canada," compiled by Frank Veigh, of Toronto, who knows Canada as probably few Canadians do. It is true that he who would know Canada and its wonderful growth in any one year, will find this annual publication worth its weight in Yukon gold or Cobalt silver, while as a means of making the Dominion known in other countries, it is no less valuable. Fifty chapters are devoted to such subjects as Agriculture, Arts, Banking, Census, Immigration, Mining, Manufacturing, Trade, etc., and a page of Canadian War Facts show how up-to-date it is. British Maps are included of the Dominion in 1867 and 1915. Copies may be had from progressive news dealers, or by sending 50c to the Canadian Facts Publishing Co., 511 Huron Street, Toronto, Canada.

Held the Horse's Head.

In South Africa General French earned the title of "the shirt-sleeved General." General French was often to be seen walking about in camp in shirt sleeves. One afternoon a correspondent rode up to the lines, and seeing a soldier sitting on a bundle of hay smoking a dilapidated looking old briar pipe, asked where the General was.
"The old man is somewhere about," coolly replied the soldier.
"Well, just hold my horse while I go and search for him."
"Certainly, sir," and the smoker rose obediently and took the pipe.
"Can you tell me where the General is?" enquired the correspondent, leaning on his staff officer further down the line.
"General French? Oh, he's somewhere about. Way, there he is holding that horse's head."
And the officer pointed directly to the smoker, still tranquilly patting his pipe and holding the horse.

Wood Ashes as a Potassic Fertilizer.

The ashes of wood have long been recognized as a fertilizer of very considerable value, indeed their use in agriculture is historic. In all countries, including Canada, practicing agriculture they have been highly prized, especially for clover, grapes and fruit trees and leafy crops generally, on sandy and light loam, and it was only with the advent of the German potash salts that their use fell off though of course their production in decreasing quantities of late years, owing to the disappearance of our forests, has been an important factor in making it more and more difficult for the farmer in the older settled districts to obtain them.
They are essentially a potassic fertilizer, ashes of good quality, that is, dry, unmixd with sand, etc., and unleached, containing between 4 per cent. and 6 1/2 per cent. potash - the average potash content being about 5 1/2 per cent. This potash is in a soluble form, and hence immediately available for crop use; moreover the writer considers that it exists in these ashes in a condition (the carbonates) much more favorable for the nutrition of plants than that in the German compounds, and should be worth at least one per cent. per pound more potash acid and from 20 to 30 per cent. carbonate of lime, enhancing their fertilizing value and making them in a sense, an all round fertilizer for supplying the mineral element.
Our advice in these times must, therefore, be to conserve more carefully this home source of potash, not merely collecting the ashes from the house stoves, but burning such brush piles, old roots, etc. and saving the resulting ashes. Storage in a shed or receptacle protected from the weather is essential to prevent deterioration.
From 25 to 50 bushels of wood ashes per acre will furnish from 60 to 120 pounds of potash, the latter an example dressing for even very light soils. They are not needed on heavy clay lands, indeed their use on such soil may do more harm than good. Their application is best deferred till spring broadcasting, preferably on a quiet, damp day, on the ploughed land and incorporating with a thorough harrowing.
The type of youth who indulges in loud clothes and a hat forced back over his ears dropped into the dental chair.
"I'm afraid to give him gas," said the dentist to his assistant.
"Why?"
"How can I tell when he's unconscious?"
"I hear it said that your speech has set people thinking," remarked the friend of the stationer.
"I'm sorry," replied the stationer. "It wasn't intended for that."
"Money is easier than at any time since the beginning of the European war. Keep plugging away. Things will be looking normal soon."
"Hell was in a turmoil. All the sinners of mankind followed banners bearing the legend: 'We won't work in the same shop with Krupp!'"

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

"Dis an de best time, Rastus, you been to prayer meetin' for a long time," said a colored pastor to a member of his flock.
"I had to come," replied Rastus. "I needs strength 'n' in'. I've got a job white washin' a chile on coop and buildin' a fence around a watch melon patch."
The Aviator's Triumph.
I flew across an English town,
So peaceful and so fair;
I said, 'Here is a chance for me
To show you Germans dare.'
I saw a vic-haired clergyman,
Vow walking with his frau,
I dropped a bomb upon his hat;
Vere is dot couple now?
I saw three little vuns, suit dolls,
Dot watched me as I flew.
It made me laugh to see de bits
Dot dey vas blowed into.
I saw a wedding party, vick
Vas having lots of fun.
I picked de biggest bomb I got
Vot killed dem all but vun.
I saw a weeping funeral,
'Close by de church's door;
I said, 'Vas corpse is night genug,'
So I supply some more.
I saw a lovely liddle dog,
Some people's liddle pet.
I blow him up as quick as vink,
Dot makd dem sad, you bet.
And ven my bombs vas all used up,
I flew off fast and far,
I refused to dank dot I had shown
How brave ve Germans are.
