HURON SIGNAL

FRIDAY, AUGUST 29, 1890.

THEIR HEADS ARE LEVEL.

On Thursday last week the Ontario Prison Commission began its work in London, and a large number of sheriffs and jailors of Western Ontario were examined. In looking through the report of the evidence published we see no better posted men on the subject in hand than Sheriff Gibbons and Jailor Dickson, of Huron county. Both of these gentlemen have evidently given thought to the problem under consideration, and we give the published report for the benefit of some of our county councillors who usually vote down the Industrial Home proposition every session when it comes up, without having given thought to the question:

William Dickson, gaoler at Goderich, said in the Goderich gaol there were four corridors and four wards, three for male and one for female prisoners. It was a structural impossibility to classify the prisoners. He had seven prisoners last year and five this year who should have been in a poorhouse. Drink was the principal cause of crime that came under his notice. The promiscuous association of prisoners he considered one of the worst possible evils. Witness favored the establishment of an industrial school under direction of the Government. Two prominent evils of county gaols were want of rooms and too many masters. Poorhouses should be established in every county, for there were always old people in the gaols charged with no offence but helplessness. It would be better if the Government controlled the gaols. To properly classify prisoners in Goderich gaol would require ten corridors and as many wards. The establishment of a western Ontario prison like the Toronto Central was most desirable for the efficiency of county gaols. Tramps should be given hard work and short allowance. Drunks, who were often skilled workmen, should be sent to the Central for six months and have different treatment from other criminals. They should have a separate ward in the Central, be given skilled labor to do and part of their earnings sent to their families.

Sheriff Gibbons, of Goderich, thought the gaols would be better if under Government control. He had seen the evil effects of non-classification of prisoners in Goderich gaol. Civil offenders had to associate with criminals. Witness thought the erection of an industrial school or prison similar to the Central in London or some eligible part of western Ontario was desirable, as prisoners could there be better employed and controlled. Idleness in the gaol was the cause of much trouble; with a house of refuge and an industrial school in the west the present gaol accommodation would be sufficient. There was no reason why Canadian boys should not find places in the industrial homes in preference to lads from the slums of old London.

Gaoler Dickson was asked if he knew of any case in which a girl was corrupted by compulsory association with prostitutes, and he replied that he knew of no such case.

EASY TO ANSWER.

"Our contemporary should have included in the list of appointments with which the Star has not found fault that of Mr. Thomas McGillicuddy—or was his appointment solely because of his peculiar fitness for the position?"—Goderich Star.
 Our contemporary thought it was giving a poser here and that it would also work in a personal dig at THE SIGNAL at the same time, but it is easily answered in the affirmative. Mr. Thomas McGillicuddy occupies his present position solely and only because of his peculiar fitness. If his position were vacant tomorrow, neither the talented writer of the above paragraph nor any other Tory in the county has the ability or other necessary qualifications to fill it. As for the Star not taking exception to Mr. McGillicuddy's appointment at the time, it deserves no credit. The newspapers on either side of politics that drew attention to it all paid a tribute to the ability of the appointee to fill the position and upheld the choice of the Government. The Star simply said nothing, but grumpily looked on. It could not say the appointment was not a good one, and when it couldn't do an ill turn it said nothing. If any outside paper had seen fit to attack Mr. McGillicuddy's qualifications for the office, the Star would gladly have scissored the objectionable article out and reprinted it, just as it did in the case of Mr. A. M. Ross, but nobody expects original thought from the Star.

COCCI IN OUR CURRENCY.

Medical men have been giving an additional interest to matters monetary. At the meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario held in Owen Sound last week some very able and practical papers were read relating to sanitation. Drainage, the disposal of sewage, the danger from pit wells, the isolation of persons having infectious disease, and a dozen other subjects germane to the gathering were discussed in a wise and profitable manner. The prevention of disease, the assembled medical men most unselfishly strove to make plain, was of even greater importance than its cure. It may be, however, that this disinterestedness manifested by the doctors convened in Owen Sound may account for the paucity of the attendance. Moral heroism is required in the physician who will pay his way to a convention which discusses modes of heading off disease.
 After listening to several scholarly dissertations on bacteria, microbes, actinomycosis, organic matter, sewage farms, the danger lurking in the pit well and in the town creek, a venerable physician of Owen Sound, Dr. John Barnhart, lifted up a warning voice regarding the spread of contagion by a very common carrier. "The chief cause of the dissemination of disease in Ontario," exclaimed the doctor, "is the circulation of those dirty, ragged dollar bills. Bank notes are valuable, but they contain a good deal of dirt and much of these cocci." The speaker naively added: "Of course we may admit that the cocci are there, but we pocket them all the same!" After the laughter caused by the aged doctor's very frank admission had subsided, he continued: "We know that these one and two dollar bills are in the pockets of all kinds of low and filthy people, and that coppers, quarters and other coins also act as media of disease." Having excited the fears of his hearers, Dr. Barnhart advised the disinfecting of all suspected bills, after which they should be handed over to the bank authorities, who must not re-issue them.
 While the venerable physician was doubtless correct in ascribing the spread of disease in some measure to the circulation of the dirty dollar bill, his candor regarding the pocketing of the suspected currency by the members of the medical profession must be reassuring to the public. While we would prefer a clean, un-reduced bank note, redolent with the late perfume dear to the dainty nostrils of the dressey bank clerk, those who owe us can rest assured that the dirty, dog-eared dollar bills—we will not refuse the other denominations—will be gladly received at this office, we cheerfully assuming all risk regarding cocci.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Slacey and family, who removed last spring to Denver, Col., are doing well, and greatly pleased with their western home.—Brussels Post.

C. F. Dale, Kirkburn, has disposed of his entire herd of fat cattle, to Watson, of Blyth.

Owing to the space which is deservedly given to the JOHN MORAN anniversary celebration—who better deserves it than Colborne's venerable patriarch?—a quantity of editorial and local matter is unavoidably crowded out this week.

We are pleased to learn that our former townsman, Mr. M. G. CAMERON, has still the interests of his native town at heart, and has for some time been engaged in working up a scheme for developing the Huron & Ontario R.R., the charter of which is held by gentlemen of this section. We understand a meeting of the provisional directors of the company will be held next week, to consider Mr. CAMERON'S offer. Let us have the road, by all means.

THE EDITOR'S TABLE.

A Word or two about New Publications That Have Come to Hand.
 THE METHODIST MAGAZINE FOR SEPTEMBER, 1890.

The Canadian Tourist Notes conduct the reader through the comparatively little known region of the Austrian Tyrol, leaving him at the romantic town of Botzen, or Balzano. The engravings of the strange dolomite scenery are very fine. So also are those illustrating Lady Brassey's adventures in Australia. An interesting article is that describing, with numerous engravings, a pilgrimage "Through Buyan's Country," in Bedfordshire. Two articles of timely interest, in view of the approaching General Conference, are an account of the remarkable progress of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, and a sketch among the "Lapsed Classes" in Toronto. Both of these articles are written by earnest-souled workers in these important departments. But their modesty prevents the appearance of their names. An able article on "Prison Reform," by the Hon. Z. R. Brockway, is of special interest at this juncture. Mrs. Barr's fine story of Yorkshire Methodism is brought to a fitting close by a bright paper on the famous Methodist worthy, "Billy Bray," by Mark Guy Pearce, is given. Also a noble sermon by Hugh Price Hughes, on "Christ's Sympathy with the Suffering." The Rev. John McLean, Ph. D., gives us his own way a brief sketch of "Indian Hygiene" and Mr. Annie Crawford presents, with pathetic feeling, "The Last Extremity," "Methodism and Temperance," are timely papers, especially at this season of the year when the matter ever presented in the public for discussion. A brief memorial tribute to the late Rev. Dr. Rose, and the extensive notes by Dr. Barras, of the Eastern Conference, gives our readers the largest amount of reading matter ever presented in our magazine. Price $2 a year; $1 for single copies; 20c. per number. Toronto: W. Briggs.

THE COSMOPOLITAN FOR SEPTEMBER.
 "A Successful Man" is the title of what is probably the brightest American story—typically American—which has appeared for many years. It is a story of life prominent in fashion and in politics, written by a member of New York's highest society who displays a genius as a writer destined to make her name famous—although she substitutes a non descript name for her own. "A Successful Man" will fill two parts in the Cosmopolitan Magazine—the first in the September issue—and is illustrated by Harry McVicker, the drawings being made from life from actual models who were guests and servants at a Long Island country house. A high type of American politician—a man having something of the character of a Blaine, with a little of the Daniel Dougherty perhaps—is brought by chance into the close society of a married man, but one of those women mated to wealth and many beauty, with keen sympathies unsoftened by the intellectual calibre of her husband. Then comes a careful study of the self-made successful American—of the society girl of Newport drawn by one who knows her perfectly at her best and at her worst—of society not as it is imagined but as it exists—of the human heart by one who has evidently taken it in her hand and watched it grow to maturity. At every page the story is bright and clever, and we are much mistaken if it does not attract the widest attention. The other contents of this number of The Cosmopolitan is of the usual high quality.

SCIENCE'S MAGAZINE FOR SEPTEMBER.
 "With Uncle Sam's Blue Jacket" is the title of the first of three articles by Rufus F. Zogbaum describing his cruise with the United States "White Squadron." The Citizen's Rights article is continued by James S. Norton, who discusses the citizen's rights to his own property. Other papers are—"The Country House," by Donald G. Mitchell; "The African River and Lake Systems," by Thomas Stevens; "Nature and Man in America" (first paper) by N. S. Shaler; "A Crown Jewel—Heligoland," by C. Emma Cheney; "Millet and Recent Criticism," by Walter Cranston Larn; There is a short story, "The Clerk of the Weather," by T. R. Sullivan, and poetry by Frank Dempster Sherman, Charles B. Going, Clinton Scollard and Grace Eilery Channing. The serial, "Jerry," guesses as to the authorship of which are being made by many newspaper editors, continues to be very interesting; and "The Point of View" contains excellent reading.

BENMILLER.
 The Methodists of Benmillier circuit intend holding a camp meeting in Mr. McMullen's grove, opposite Mr. Muggard's, Nile Road, to commence on Saturday, August 30th (tomorrow) at 2 p.m., when a sermon on entire consecration will be preached by Rev. H. Irvine. Services will be held on Sunday at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Rev. Messrs. Irvine, Fear and Potter will assist at the meeting, which will continue until Tuesday, September 2nd.

C. F. Dale, Kirkburn, has disposed of his entire herd of fat cattle, to Watson, of Blyth.

THE MYRTLE.—This is the rather pretty name of a yacht recently purchased in Kincardine by Mr. Alf Smith. The Myrtle is a motor, having at a recent regatta in Kincardine taken the silver cup. Alf carries fifty dollars in his pistol pocket which says that the Myrtle can beat any one of those fast iron scows—dignified by the name of "yachts" by the Goderich boys—2 miles in ten. Chance for a "brush," boys.

PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL.—A triangular scratch extending from the base of the organ of generation to the left eye-brow, a flabby, tumor-like substance in size and shape, having a strong resemblance to a young lady's chignon in 1869, swinging gracefully from the under side of his right jaw, an expression of great pain fitting across his countenance upon suddenly taking a seat, and sufficient to strip off various portions of his body to tend children. Apply to Mrs. G. D. DONALD.

EARLY FALL GOODS.
 We have received a large portion of our stock of fall goods, which, in every respect, is right in style, quality and price. We buy no goods but what we are sure will give perfect satisfaction to our customers. We sell at a very close margin of profit. In marking goods we don't mark them the highest price they will bring, but the lowest price we can sell. We are showing a fine line of dress meltons in plain colors, checks, stripes, spots, &c., at 10 and 11c. per yd.; silk velvet ribbons, in all widths, just opened, and marked at very low prices—no fancy prices! Space will not permit our mentioning other special lines of goods. Kindly call and we shall be glad to show them to you. The balance of our summer stock at cost.
