Perishing by the Sword.

It would appear that the lot of the ordinary Foreign Affairs is not a happy one. Advantage is being taken of the strained relations between Germany and Great Britain by Russia and Italy. The latter country has seized upon Tripoli and is now engaged in pacifying it by the use of arms. Russia is also taking advantage of the situation to establish herself in the north of Asia. The curious circumstance is that both countries are Mohammedan, that the Mohammedans of India are the strongest supporters of British rule there, and look upon Great Britain as the friend of their people here. The British India have the place of the Mohammedans in Turkey. Many of the provinces of European Turkey have been freed from the Mohammedan rule. The Mohammedan rulers are lost control in North Africa. France is in charge of Morocco, Britain of Egypt and Italy of Tripoli. Now Russia is taking Northern Persia, and many have long had her eyes on key in Asia. It would look as if many years have passed there not be left a single Mohammedan country under Mohammedan rule. It is also appearing as a working out the slow course of years of the old that conquests by the sword perishing by the sword.

Another Mystery.

Chicago Police Believe They Have Unearthed a Second Vermilya Case.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Discoveries made by detectives investigating the death of John M. Quinn in his home at 7106 South Michigan avenue last Saturday morning lead them to believe that they have encountered a murder mystery similar in its essential aspects to the Vermilya case, except that a pistol in stead of a poison is alleged to have been used in taking human life.

When the police arrived Quinn told them that Dr. Fred T. Bonfield, who also was summoned, that he had been shot as he lay asleep, but did not know by whom. Mrs. Quinn declared her husband had been shot by a burglar, according to the detectives. She was asked many questions, and it is said, made unsatisfactory answers to many of them. She was finally taken into custody and held as a suspect.

Examination of Mrs. Quinn the following day led her to being asked to reveal her past life. She did this, but according to the police, told of her first marriage to a man named McDonald, and neglected to tell them of her second marriage to Warren Thorpe in Jackson, Mich. This fact led the detectives to Jackson, where they learned that Thorpe, too, had been shot and killed while asleep in bed. They learned also that his mother, who lived with him, had died under circumstances that never have been explained.

In the Thorpe death the police declare they have learned that Mrs. Thorpe, now Mrs. Quinn, insisted that her husband had been shot to death by burglars. As in the case of Quinn, she says she was awakened in the night by a pistol shot and that she found her husband mortally wounded at her side. Mrs. Thorpe was arrested at the time by the Jackson police, the Chicago detectives say, but they were never able to clear up the mystery, and she was finally set free.

A son of Thorpe was found in Jackson by the detectives, and he is said to have told them that he believed his mother knew more of the death of his father than she had ever told. He agreed to accompany the detectives to Chicago, and to-day when the inquiry is begun over Quinn's body he will confront the suspected woman.

A revolver of an old pattern was found in the Quinn house, according to the police, behind a bath tub. It was identified by J. W. Miller, a boarder in the Quinn house, as one he had owned for several years, and which disappeared from a drawer in his room the day before Quinn was shot. Miller, the police say, told them that he had told Mrs. Quinn of the disappearance of the revolver, and that she had told him not to tell her husband.

To-Day's News.

Special to Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 10. Premier Borden was Carnegie's guest at a dinner at the Hotel Astor on Saturday night. Carnegie is chairman of the National Commission for celebrating the hundredth anniversary of peace between English speaking people.

Special Evening Telegram. DELHI, To-day. The King has had a busy time. Since his arrival in camp, there has been a succession of ceremonies. During the past few days more than a hundred native Princes have been received in audience by the King and their visits have been returned on the King's command, by the Viceroy, Lord Hardinge. The King and Queen yesterday watched a magnificent open air church parade.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Reports of the Board of Trade show that during the past 11 months the imports were valued at £615,674,640, an increase of £6,353,717 over the previous 11 months. The exports amounted to £415,710,513, an increase of £2,544,880.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Details as to the advance of Russian troops in Persia has been kept secret for several days. We are completely in the dark as to how large a force has been despatched by the Russian Government, and particulars of its movements are unknown in London. The public generally feel there is to be an establishment of a Russian protectorate over the best part of Persia, including the two northern capitals, Tebriz and Teheran. Newspapers and politicians generally give expression to their skepticism regarding it as unlikely that Russia once entrenched at Teheran will ever withdraw. The Times predicts that Russia's first act will be to substitute another form of Government for that of the National Council. The possible damage to British commercial interests is absorbing attention, but the blow to British prestige among Orientals causes most anxiety. The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Delhi emphasizes the danger. The Outlook says: "We are face to face with one of the gravest crisis in the history of British Policy in Asia." The Nation says: "It means the worst blow which our prestige could suffer in the East. We appear as the weak partner who does not dare to check his powerful and unscrupulous associate." Persia has found a strong friend in Viscount Curzon of Kedleston, the former Viceroy of India, whose knowledge of the country inspires respect and whose speeches have done much to shake confidence in the policy of the Government. The British Cabinet is trying to induce Russia to abate her demands, but the crux of the matter is the tension with Germany, which overshadows all other considerations. England needs Russia's support in case of a war with Germany and cannot afford to take a stand against her.
