NOVEMBER 10th, 1916.

Wanted--A Correspondent.

Gallipoli — Beaumont Hamel — Eaucourt l'Abbaye? It is a pity we are compelled thus to surmise the exact scene of the third great episode in the now brilliant career of the Newfoundland Regiment. From all accounts that we have received it must have been somewhere in the neighbourhood of the village of Eaucourt l'Abbaye, or Fiers, and no doubt we shall know definitely very soon. But the matter, small as it is, suggests strongly a need that has time and again been felt in the past and will continue to be felt more insistently as time goes on. It is that of a correspondent or of one who, if he does not deserve that title in its full sense, may be enabled to follow, on the field and at the time, the doings of our men, connect and arrange them and give to us and to the world a worthy record of their great deeds.

For there can be no doubt that their deeds have been great, far greater than most of us imagine. Out of justice to themselves and our posterity they should be known in all the fulness of detail possible. It is not enough to collect, long afterwards, disconnected fragments from survivors, who have had more to think about at the time than the compilation of history. It may perhaps be possible to tell the whole story some day of the quiet heroism and endurance at Gallipoli and the efficient service that won for the little remnant of the Regiment the high honor of holding last of all the lines at Anzac Cove, but we doubt it. From the actors themselves it is hard to learn much, for they are a modest lot, and time blunts and effaces memories once vivid. And what shall be said of the more glorious and more tragic Beaumont Hamel? Even if we can piece together the fragmentary narratives that have reached us or been brought back, not one title of the heroic tale is told. And what is true of all the parts is also true of the whole, and a complete, consistent and consecutive account of the part played by the Regiment has yet to be written, only.

News is now reaching us of the last engagement our men have figured in, which suggests that it was equally creditable with Beaumont Hamel and far more successful and interesting. We give below an extract from a Newfoundland (who wishes to remain anonymous) serving with the Royal Engineers, who was able to witness some of the work of the Newfoundland Regiment. His brief reference is the first intimation we have had of one feat (and there were probably several) which should send a thrill of pride through the country. Successful in attaining their own objective, but finding the battalion on their left driven back, they extended their line, a sufficiently creditable performance, and what is more, "They held on!"

It will be a great pity indeed if all these things do not receive the treatment they merit. We cannot know too much about the Regiment. Would it be impossible to assign one or two of their number, capable of the task, to the duty of making a record of all that is done, of giving at least the bare chronicle of the Regiment's achievements and sending home now and then something, on a small scale, like the despatches of Philip Gibbs and Basil Thomas which have carried to Britons everywhere matter for pride and solace their grief and affliction? Not merely would this greatly stimulate recruiting and fill an immediate need, but the material so collected would be of inestimable value to the historian after the war. For it will be disgraceful indeed if no historian there be, through lack of such material, duty and in all their fullness, to hand down to generations to come the story of our soldiers and their gallant deeds.

The extract to which we have referred is as follows:—
"Since coming out here as an R. E. we have been in the very thick of things. We have been in the whole of the second part of this huge strafe, and take it from me this has been the toughest fight of our lives. I watched the Guards take Guinchy and then Les Boulets; believe me it was a great sight. They were on our left and it went like clock work. You could see the skirmishing line advancing and clearing as they went. Then the supports moving up in small columns of fours and passing through the Barrage. It was with them as if on parade. They are magnificent, our Guards. Some time ago I was offered a full Lieutenantcy in the Coldstream but the cash to keep up with them was not forthcoming. The honor, however, was something I never expected to have paid me when I became a soldier."

"A few days ago I met by accident Our Boys. They had just finished a show on our left. They did marvelously well. They reached the objective, but the battalion on their left was driven in. They then extended to the left and held as much as they could of the others' place. What is more they held on. They have made a great reputation and must now live up to it."

"Poor old Jack Mitchell has finished his work, and did so in a great piece of work. He was a splendid soldier, a great Company C.O., but such is this bloody business. I wrote his mother and hope she has received it ere this."

Weak, Nervous Children
Quickly Gain Strength
Under Following Plan

Nervousness, just like weakness, is a family predisposition. We inherit tendencies to disease just as we inherit physical resemblances. Would it be these all tend to make nervous troubles among children. No wonder that St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy, and constant headaches have become alarmingly common. Pale, nervous, listless young people are met everywhere.

It is nothing short of criminal for parents to neglect signs of weakness in their children. By ignoring the slightest symptom of nervous or mental strain, you may condemn your child to life-long invalidism. If any member of your family complains of headaches, fear of going into dark places, give them that wonderful tonic, "Ferrozone." Strength of body and mind, hardy nerves, ability to study with comfort, all the attributes of health quickly follow the use of Ferrozone. It establishes strength, color, endurance, vim—does this by filling the whole system with nourishment and tissue-forming materials. It's because we know the enormous good that Ferrozone will do, because we are sure every child and even grown folks, will be permanently benefited, that we urge you to give it a trial. All dealers sell Ferrozone in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from The Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Citizens' Committee

Drop Income Tax as it is Understood the Government Will Apply Same to the Whole Country.

Mr. A. Soper, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, presided at the meeting held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night.

The sub-committee appointed to consider the system of the income tax reported back to the committee as a whole and in view of the fact that it was the intention of the Government to institute a like measure for the country at large, it was decided to drop the matter lest the local tax should clash with the other.

Section 411 wherein it is stated that property owners and not tenants shall be liable to the Council for taxes to be fixed and established and imposed by the Council of so much per cent of the annual rental value of the said building, including therewith the rental value of the land on which the buildings are erected. The question then arose on how to overcome the difficulty of preventing landlords from raising their rents. In relation thereto, a motion was put to the Chair that at the next night of meeting a section relative to the formation of a Board of Adjustment, between the landlord and tenant would be proposed.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 o'clock.

If Subject to Colds

Here is Good Advice.

Don't load your stomach with cough syrups. Send healing medication through the nostrils—send it into the passages that are subject to colds and Catarrh. Easy to do this with Catarthozone, which cures a cold in ten minutes. Even to the lungs goes the healing vapor of Catarthozone—all through the bronchial tubes, nostrils and ear passages—everywhere a trace of disease remains will Catarthozone follow. You'll not have colds, nor will you suffer from sniffles, bronchitis or throat trouble if Catarthozone is used. Get it to-day but beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarthozone. All dealers sell Catarthozone, large size, two months treatment, costs $1.00; small size, 50c.; sample size 25c.

Boy Killed at Bishop's Falls.

Magistrate Fitzgerald of Grand Falls, now visiting the city, received a wire from Bishop's Falls last evening stating that a lad named Pelly, 15 years of age, fell off a flat car yesterday afternoon and was instantly killed. One of the wheels passing over his neck, almost cutting his head from the shoulders. The father of the deceased is an employee of the Reid Mfg. Co. and worked in the Round House at Bishop's Falls. No further particulars were received.

Two Men's Narrow Escape.

Two men, Messrs. Norman Burt and Edwin Parsons, of Hayward Avenue, had a narrow escape from being drowned yesterday afternoon. They took a walk to the farthest section of the North Battery to witness the tremendously heavy seas, which had been prevailing probably the last few days, break over the rocks. The two men were standing about twenty yards away from the waters edge when suddenly a huge comb swept in on the shore. When receding the wave carried the two men with it. Parsons caught hold of a jagged rock and hung on for grim death until he saw his chance and reached terra firma. Burt was carried out into the sea and washed back again, being dashed against the cliff violently, but was sufficiently conscious to grasp a rock and prevent himself from being taken into the ocean again. Mr. Burt was severely cut about the head and hands and badly shaken up.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, Nov. 10, 1916.

Gaults Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is more than a cough mixture, it is a real tonic and builder as well, and this fact is probably the reason why this preparation gives such uniformly good results in the treatment of chronic as well as recent coughs, and its prompt action where the system is run down, where the appetite is feeble or defective, and where there is weakness or languor. For recent coughs it is quickly effective. Price 50c. a bottle.

For that troublesome corn, get a package of Acme Corn Silk and use it. The corn will soon disappear. Price 10c. a pkg.
