TRINITY.

Since I wrote last the seasons of Christmas and the Circumcision of Christ (New Year's Day) have come and gone once more. The fact that each of those days came this year on a Sunday, secured for it the ever-recurring observance that it is ever entitled to, and which the Church always provides. The Church Services at St. Paul's were well attended; the Church decorations were Christmas-like, and thus, through ear and eye, the Christmas story of the Virgin Birth, and of God's love in thus sending His Son in the flesh—as given in the Gospel story, was once again told to assembled worshippers.

I met a young man on the train during the Christmas week, who had (whilst in the city) gone to hear a preacher, and the young man was sad, because of a clumsy attempt on the preacher's part to explain away the literalness of the New Testament story of the miraculous conception of the Saviour, and the Virgin Birth. To quote the young man's words: "If that preacher's ideas are right, then there is very little in the 'Christmas story' that is worth our 'human observance.' Fortunately in the meantime he had heard a sermon on the same subject by Canon Bayly, and his faith was restored. The denial in any shape or form of the wonderful truth of the conception and the Virgin Birth, as recorded by St. Matthew 1, 18 to end, and the attempt of modern scepticism to cut out the record are no wonder. The human heart is too proud to acknowledge willingly its helplessness.

During the Christmas week a few young people tried to revive the old spirit and letter of mummery, with the usual failure to do so. It cannot be done along the Trinity lines; for times have changed and we have changed with them.

Several family gatherings, home parties were held, and a few dances were given and thoroughly enjoyed. The one "swell" dance, to date, was that given by Mrs. Jenkins at the Garland Hotel. On the whole it was a quiet Christmas, and yet, when we realize what has often been the cause of noisy ones, we are quite satisfied with the quiet one.

The Orange and Fishermen Societies at Port Rexton, Trinity East and Trinity, held their annual Church parades, and when we think of the modern tendencies on some men's part to cut out such religious observances, it is gratifying to see those bodies of men thus acknowledging God in their ways, and making attendance at His House a part of their annual parade.

To date, marriages have been more than ordinarily few in the Bright; and of the seven or eight that have been solemnized, two of the bridegrooms have come from places outside of Trinity. The latest was that of Mr. Mark Wells and Miss Miriam Penney, of English Harbor. Mr. Wells is a business man in English Harbor, and Miss Penney is a daughter of Mr. Alexander Penney of the same place. She has been in Canada and the United States for several years, and came home to be married. They will make their future home in their native place. Miss Penney's mother in her maiden days was a Miss Maybee, of Trinity, and was one of our "fine girls" of years ago. This wedding was all that such an event should be, in the make-up, careful action, and reverence of the party—and the bride, without exception was the prettiest that we have seen for some time past. True, the groom paid five dollars for a "penny," but we believe he got a bargain. May they be very happy.

Whilst on the subject of English Harbor, I take the opportunity to make the statement, that it must have been a fine place in many ways in the days of its early settlement; and those who live there to-day have cause to be proud of the good old English stock, from Devonshire, Dorset, and Hampshire, from which they have sprung. Apart from Trinity there are more entries in the old Church Books of doings in English Harbor, than there are of any other two places in Trinity Bay. Amongst other contributions toward the good of the settlement, it gave a bride to Parson Clinch, and to Dr. Phair, a hundred years ago, who in their turn became the mothers of men and women of distinction and credit in their day and generation.

In our Christmas Number we recorded our sentiments in respect to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grant's intended leaving Newfoundland. Since then they have decided not to leave, and we, in common with every interested citizen of Trinity, say—We are glad.

One of the several articles of general interest in the Christmas Number of the Commercial Annual entitled "Holiday and Business Cruising" by Mr. J. A. Carmichael, the past president of the Newfoundland Travellers' Association. It is deeply interesting from beginning to end. We thank Mr. Carmichael for it, and particularly for his kind appreciation of his visit to Trinity. In our individual case, it is evident that "we entertained angels unwares," for in our efforts to entertain and acquaint Mr. Carmichael with the interesting history of Trinity, we were but doing what we had done to others so many times before and since—always fully satisfied with the knowledge, that we had said a good word for Trinity. It was more than good of him to refer to us and our actions, in the kind and appreciative way that he has done in the article referred to, and again, we thank him for it. We shall be very, very good to him when he comes again.

Mr. Raymond White has gone back to his engineering work at St. John's. Miss Mollie White, Miss Nina Granger, Miss Phyllis Eriksen and Miss Marie Eriksen have gone back to College. They had an enjoyable holiday, and we wish them well.

A meeting of the Trinity Mutual Marine Insurance Company, Ltd., was held last week to receive official reports of losses and wrecks during the late storm, and to deal with them. The total losses are: Schr. Mary A., of Southport, Random Sound, insured for $500; Schr. Freepeter, of Britannia, Smith's Sound, insured for $1,000; Schr. Willie Martin, of Hear's Ease, insured for $1,400; Schr. Diantha, of Trinity, insured for $2,250. Partial wrecks: Schr. Alice C., Hear's Delight, damaged to the extent of $900; Schr. Petunia, of Port Rexton, damaged to the extent of $400. The necessary collections this year will be about 6%.

In his sermon to the S.U.F. at Trinity East on New Year's Day, Canon Lockyer reminded its members that Mr. Tolson Smith, of Trinity, who had much to do with the formation of the Society (in connection with Rev. Mr. Garfield)—is buried in the Church-yard of Trinity East, and that his grave is unmarked. He suggested that the S.U.F. mark the grave by a stone, the inscription on which will tell the story of his work to succeeding generations. This probably will be done.

We understand that the Branch Railways will continue to operate till they are prevented by a snow blockade, and we are hoping for a mild winter. We shall see.

I have often been asked about the early history of the Garlands who carried on the business in Trinity. Whilst it is evident that the names of Garland and Lester are bound up with the earliest history of Trinity, unfortunately the records of the his-toy of those early years in Trinity—previous to the Church registers of 1753—has not been kept. The Lester and Garland families were related by marriage in the old Country, and they invested their money in a common cause when Newfoundland offered fair promises of good returns from the country products of fish, oil and fur. The Lesters built the premises (now owned by Ryan Bros.) in the 16th century; and all the stores except the pork store, were burnt by the French marauders of that time. Those premises were rebuilt and extended as the years went on, and the premises of the owners changed with changing years, and as the older man died or retired from business, their places were filled by the younger generations of Lesters and Garlands.

The father of John Bingley Garland married Amy Tavorner of Trinity, and all that land "around the Point" from where the old cooper shop stood to Tavorner's Point, was given by this Mr. Garland to the Tavorner family. They, in the course of time sold the greater part of it to others, and to-day owing to death and removals the only evidence of the existence of the Tavorners there two hundred years ago is the piece of land, which is still known as Tavorner's Point. John Bingley Garland of a hundred years ago was married twice, and his second wife was the mother of Mrs. Cookesley, who received from her father a deed of gift of that piece of land which was known to us sixty years ago as God's Cove Plain. That is why Capt. and Mrs. Cookesley came here from England to live. They built a house there, and some years afterwards the house was burnt and they went back to England. The land was then sold to a Mr. Coleridge of Catalina. The Cookesleys called the place Glencove and it is still known as such.

Between the years of the residence of John Bingley Garland's father, and John Bingley Garland himself, the business was looked after by James Pointer Garland. He lived here for several years, and married Arrabella, "a daughter of John Bland, Esq., and his spouse Sarah, of Bonavista," and their first child was baptized on February 20th, 1815, and was given the name Thomas Bland Rowley. Another younger member of the Garland family was J. W. Garland. He represented the family as agent for a branch of their business in Lisbon, and visited Trinity in 1830. The Hon. W. F. Coaker told me a few weeks ago that the name of Garland is still associated with the business in Lisbon. The last of the Garlands in Trinity was George Garland. He was taken ill in Trinity, went to England and died, aged 40 years. The name of Garland is associated with fishing establishments at Battle Harbor, Labrador, and with Gaultois and other places on the South West Coast. They were good men and true, and we may never see their like again; and, as far as Trinity is concerned, we shall owe them a debt of gratitude for ever. May God be good to them and theirs.

Miss Katie Fowles, of the teaching staff of Springdale St. School, St. John's, spent Christmas at her home in Trinity, and awaits the Prospero to return.

The children of the Church of England School at Lockton, under the training of Miss Kane, gave a very creditable concert in the new school room during the Christmas holidays. The programme was a lengthy and an interesting one, and the receipts were for the building fund. Canon Lockyer will give a Stereopticon Show in the schoolroom for the same object during the winter.

Little Bobby Miller, who has been spending a pleasant holiday with his mother at St. John's, has returned to Trinity to resume his permanent happy days with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grant. Glad to see you back again Bobby.

We understand that Rev. Mr. Law, who has been appointed to the parish of Trinity East, will leave England for Newfoundland on or about January 10th.

We thank our many kind friends who have written to assure us of their appreciation of "Our Christmas Number."

The Parish Almanack for 1922 as prepared for Rev. C. M. Stickings, are being issued to his people. They are, as usual, very pretty, and full of useful and interesting information—the results of which, eternity alone will reveal.

The Women's Association of the Church of England at Ireland's Eye, held their annual Sale of Work during Christmas week, and secured $110 for the building fund of their proposed new church.

At a Sale of Work held by the Women's Association of the Church of England at New Bonaventure on the 3rd January, $200 was raised for the building fund of their proposed new church.

Nazated Iron Strength and Nervous, Care Women in Ma

"There can be no doubt that the blood is the life of the body, and that a woman's health and vitality depend upon the condition of her blood. A woman's blood should be pure, rich, and full of life. If it is weak, thin, and deficient, she will be subject to all kinds of ailments, from nervousness and headache to general debility and loss of energy. It is therefore of the utmost importance that a woman should take care to keep her blood in the best possible condition. This can be done by using a good blood purifier, such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills will not only purify the blood, but will also strengthen it, and give it the power to resist disease. They will also improve the complexion, and make the skin clear and healthy. In short, they will do everything that a woman needs to do to keep her blood in the best possible condition, and to secure the best possible health and vitality for herself."

YORK (Canada) —Orville Wright, who made the world's first flight on December 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N.C., is the subject of a new book, "The Wright Brothers," by Dr. H. G. Wells. The book is a biography of the two brothers, and tells the story of their life and work. It is a very interesting and well-written book, and is well worth a read. The Wright Brothers were the first to invent and build a successful airplane, and their work has changed the world. Their invention has made it possible for us to travel so far and so fast, and it has opened up new worlds for us to explore. The Wright Brothers were true pioneers, and their story is a story of courage and determination. Their work has inspired many people, and it has shown us that with hard work and determination, we can achieve anything we set our minds to.

The Wright Brothers' problem was to build a machine that would fly. They had no money, no help, and no one to tell them how to do it. They had to figure it out all by themselves. They spent months of time and effort, and they finally succeeded. They built a biplane, and they flew it. It was a great achievement, and it was the beginning of a new era in aviation. The Wright Brothers' story is a story of perseverance and innovation. They showed us that with hard work and determination, we can overcome any obstacle and achieve our dreams.

The Wright Brothers' story is a story of the power of the human mind. They showed us that we are capable of great things, and that we can achieve anything we set our minds to. Their story is a source of inspiration for all of us, and it is a reminder that we should never give up on our dreams. We should always strive for excellence, and we should always be willing to take risks and try new things. The Wright Brothers' story is a story of the human spirit, and it is a story that will inspire us for generations to come.
