Contemptible Villainy.—On Sunday morning passers by could not fail to be struck with the dreadfully wilted appearance of the great majority of a large plot of fine large cabbage plants in the garden of Mr. Doyle, resident near the railway track, and immediately opposite the stome dastardly miscreaft had some time through the night pulled them up, and were found early in the morning, by Mr. Doyle, in the condition described. Mr. Doyle, in the con which impelled so contemptible a villandy, being on the very best of terms with all his surrounding neighbours, who have evinced their warmest practical sympathy with him, as Mr. Doyle is a most industrious, hardworking, inoffensive mechanic, who contributes much of his leisure hours, after a hard days work, to the adornment, improvement and cultivation of his little property.

The Council then adjourned.

Dawson, of Kent, did at their elections. Roman Catholics are gradually finding out which is the more liberal party.

We clip the above from the Kingston Whig and copy it to point out the reason. Roman Catholics will have comprehended it before this view is expressed. The gentlemen so faithful to the Tory party under their Orange leaders cannot now be induced to make the compromise they once made; they are become arrogant, the result of continued success. The time was when Sir John could command the Orange party to meet their fellow-citizens the Roman Catholics half way, and then the two colors combined in his interests; but that day is past. Orangemen have become defiant, and Roman Catholics have become defiant.

The mail now goes through from Toronto to Fort Garry in six days.

The population of Winnipeg is 773.

Mr. Hetherington has issued a new edition of his Statistics of the Nova Scotia Gold Mines, bringing up the figures to the close of 1871. The whole amount raised is estimated at 223,000 ounces, of the value of £892,000 sterling.

Nearly-a million of Americans are at this moment in Europe, or on their way there, and if we estimate the expenditure of each outgoing passenger on the average at $500—a very low estimate indeed.

East Toronto is evidently lost to James Beaty. He is now engaged in denouncing the Irish Roman Catholics as Fennans. That tells the tale. Private advices from Quebec represent that there will be considerable gain in that Province to the Opposition; while in Nova Scotia the number will be somewhat increased.

The Stratford Beacon says:—Mr. Padford has activally commenced his canvass in North Perth with the canvass in North Perth with the most cheering prospects. North Easthope is united almost to a man in his favor, and the farmers will turn out en masse to vote for him, even though, as appears likely from the early return of the writs, they are required to leave their harvest fields to do so. There never was so warm a feeling manifested in the township for any candidate—it is not even exceeded by that prevailing in 1867, and that was most enthusiastic.

The Leader thinks that South Brant is very lucky in getting Hincks for a candidate. Lucky, indeed, in thus being given an opportunity of teaching Hincks that his day of grace in Western Ontario is over.

J Carling, for the House of Commons
The nomination takes place on the August.

We can fully endorse every word that the Globe says respecting Mr. Jas. Ross in the following paragraph: "We are glad to have the most encouraging reports of the prospects of Mr. Ross in Centre Wellington. Few ouraging reports of the prospects of Mr. Ross in Centre Wellington. Few members are more thoroughly deserving of the confidence of their supporters than Mr. Ross. That he is a thoroughly consistent Reformer and a man of the highest personal character, no one needs to be told. But it is those who have been associated with him in Parliamentary businesss that can best appreciate his services to his party in the House of Commons. His extensive information and correct judgement are always available and highly prized by his colleagues. There is an increasing need in the House of Commons for men of this class, who, if not prominent in debate, apply themselves diligently and unweariedly to a mass of business of which but a small portion comes before the public. Too much work of this discription is thrown upon the leaders, and to them the aid of members so well-informed and reliable as Mr. Ross is invaluable.

We are glad to say that the Redifferences that have till now pre-vented the formal announcement of their candidate for the coming election. A new convention is to be immediately summoned, and by its decision the friends of both Mr. Gilles and Dr. Sinclair will abide—the choice of the convention to be restricted to a local candidate.

A change of Ministry in the British colony of Victoria, Australasia, has suddenly upset the promising scheme to connect Victoria with the American mais service. The out-going Premier. Mr. Duffy, had concluded negotiations with Mr. W. H. Webb, who controls the line of steamers plying between San Francisco and Australian ports; but his successor puts an end to the business, and proposes a mail service with England by the way of Cape of Good Hope. This action seems most suicidal to the growing interests of the colony; it sets mail and fast freight carriage back to the old slow days.
