JAPAN IN COMMERCE.

Destined to be a Manufacturing and Shipping Country.

The Japanese recognize that their argricultural resources are limited on account of the peculiar topogra-phical and climatic features of the country. The agricultural land has been subjected to intense culture for centuries and cannot be improved much more. The empir is thus precluded from becoming an important contributor to the world' food supplies. It will do well if i can manage to produce sufficien food products for its own use. When the population increases it will necessarily become dependent upon foreign countries for food. Consequently, the administrators hav for some years aimed at making Japan a manufacturing and shipping country. They have taken England as a model in doing this. Japan is not nearly so well endowed with natural resources as England is ut the progress lately made in de veloping Japan's shipping and ma-nufacturing industries is remark-

It is almost essential for a nation aspiring to rank well among the great manufacturing peoples to command extensive resources of coal, iron, salt, the alkalies, petroleum, limestones and clays. Japan, fortunately, possesses an abundance of such resources and is therefore naturally equipped for becoming what her political leaders are striving for—the leading manufacturing and trading country in the Orient.

Japanese mines are generally well worked and equipped with ma-chinery. Good and efficient metallurgical works exist for the treatment of metallic ores close to the mines. Japanese engineers have shown a good aptitude for mining and metallurgical work and they at$2.50 have been we'l backed up by local capitalists. BRANDING CRIMINALS.

The branding of criminals, which Judge Rentoul sugests might be advantageously revived for the benefit of deported aliens, was abolished in England in 1778, says the Pall Mall Gazette. Until then, this punishment was inflicted in open court, generally in the presence of the judge, the necessary implements—the iron brand, the chafing dish and the iron gripper for keeping the hand steady-being always in readiness. The usual brand was an "R" applied to the left shoulder. Child stealing, &c., however, were at one time punished by branding the offender with "R" on the shoulder (for rogue), "M" on the right hand (for manslayer), and "T" on the left

That when you put a salve onto your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach?

You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by various mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores?

Take no risk. Use always the pure herbal essences provided in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. From start to finish it is purely herbal.
