LET US STOP THE EXODUS BY VOTING POL UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY. To my mind the most deplorable thing

at present is the exodus of Canadians. Last week three boys went from our shop, and they are going continually as fast as we make men of them. We are keeping our raw material in the ground, but we are driving our young men out of the country. -[C. H. Waterous, jun., manufacturer, Brantford.

It is at this very moment a matter of discussion in Canada whether a treaty of reciprocity should not be concluded with the United States, and the result of the deliberation may very possibly be an admission of the manufactures of New England into the Dominion under lighter duties than the manufactures of Great Britain. If the Canadian Ministry come to the conclusion that such an arrangement is for the benefit of the country will the Colonial Office advise the Crown to disallow the negotiations? Dr. Smith, in charge of the lazaretto in New Brunswick, reports that on Jan. 1, there were 22 lepers, 11 males and 11 females. During the year six new cases were admitted and two died. Dr. Smith reports that no new lepers have been admitted to the hospital for several years past from Tracadie, so long its hiding place. The new comers were gathered in from outlaying districts, to which relatives of leprous persons in Tracadia had removed years ago. Dr. Smith says: "I am constantly on the watch, and have difficulty in finding some of the cases because they are hidden by their families and their friends. By stamping out each new focus of leprosy I feel quite confident that New Brunswick will soon be clear of the disease. To segregation I shall attribute the happy change. TEMANCE OF THAT BRAINS COAN MECTION OF WHICH THEY CLAIM TO BE THE SPECIAL GUARDIANS.

"It has left us with a small population a scanty immigration and a Northwest empty still; with enormous additions to our public debt and yearly charge; an extravagant system of expenditure and an unjust and oppressive tariff; with restricted markets for our needs, whether to buy or to sell, and all the hosts of evils (greatly intensified by our special conditions) thence arising; with trade diverted from its natural into forced and therefore less profitable channels, and with unfriendly relations and growing tariff walls, ever more and more estranging us from the mighty English-speaking nation to the south, our neighbors and relations, with whom it ought to be, and it was promised that we should be, living in generous amity and liberal intercourse.

"WORSE! FAR WORSE! It has left us with lower standards of public virtue, and a death-like apathy in public, opinion, with a subservient parliament, an autocratic executive, debauched constituencies and corrupting classes; with lessened self-reliance and increased dependence on the public chest and on legislative aids; and possessed withal by a boastful jingo spirit far enough removed from true manliness, to demonstrate the summary of the true manliness, and exaggerated sentiments, while actual facts and genuine opinions are suppressed.

"It has left us with OUR HANDS TIED; our FUTURE compromised, and in such a plight that, whether we stand or move, we must run some rieks which else we might have either declined, or encountered with greater promise of success."

drivers, general. In breeding, all things else being equal, finger had the patronize the horse whose owner makes the greatest efforts to get the merits of his produce before the public, thereby making a market for your colts as well.

The horse world is never still. This is the day of early speed. The day when men were satisfied to wait five or seven years to show how to bring out the merits of a trotter has gone by forever—or until it has been proved that early training is a great mistake. We are no longer content to breed animals that may by training be made trotters. We aim to breed horses that are trotters by nature. There is now the animals made trotters. We aim to breed horses that are trotters by nature. There is now neither glory nor money in breeding horses in which high trotting capacity is only developed through the maturing course of Experiments made by Professor J. W. Sanborn, of the Utah Experimental Station, to decide the best time to water horses show the following results: Horses watered before feeding grain retained their weight better than when watered after feeding Horses watered before feeding had the better appetite or ate the most. Horses the better appetite or ate the most. Horses watered after feeding grain in ratio to the food caten seemed to digest it as well as those watered before feeding. In a prior trial there was a small apparent advantage in favor of feeding after watering, on digestion. It seems advisable to water both before and after feeding.

If any class of men are clearly entitled to If any class of men are clearly entitled to have the pleasure and comforts derived from using the best horses to be found it certainly is the farmers. They breed them, they raise them and they should have the pick and choice when it comes to selecting what they need for their own use. But a little money will often tempt the farmer to allow the buyer to have the choice of the stock. For a few extra dollars a horse worth two or three times as much money as others which are kept is allowed to be taken away from the very place where he can be of most value. The average life of well-cared-for farm horses is perhaps 18 or 20 years. This would make the average time years. This would make the average time of actual service from cach animal from of actual service from each animal from fifteen to eighteen years. The difference between the value of a good horse combetween the value of a good horse com-pared with that of a poor one in dollars and cents amounts to a considerable sum. Multiply this by the number of years that you can reasonably hope to use a horse and you will find wherein it pays to keep the best. Besides all this the satisfaction in being able to own and use good horses is no small consideration. There is some-thing stimulating about drawing the reins over horses of value and pride and vigor.
