Comic Opera Tonight.

Dressed superbly in costumes as picturesque as the period they mark. "Naughty Marletta," a new comic operatic tale of the eighteenth century by Rida Johnson Young, with music by Victor Herbert, will be the attraction at the Grand tonight. The opening of the play is said to be very striking—with the Place d'Armes, New Orleans, laying on the river, as it was nearly 180 years ago—the old gateway, with its lamps, will be seen, the great caks and the hanging moss, the palms, the big fountain, the balomy and the throng of flower girls. The story begins with "Talsex Vous," which is sung by eight girls and eight boys, and is said to be a saucy captivating air, carried on principally by the flute. Then follow in succession the songs in the second act are "Live for Today," "Tm Falling in Love With Someone," "It's Pretty Soft for Simon" and "It Never, Never Can Be Love."

A Talented Dancer.

"The Countess de Swirsky possesses the most musical body in the world, is the verdict of Arturo Toscinnil, leader of the New York Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra. This has been confirmed by a number of other celebrated artists who have expressed their admiration of her beauty and talents in marble and bronze and on canvas. Prince Troubetsky, of Paris, has made two wonderful situettes, in bronze, of the countess. One of them is on exhibition at the Chicago Museum of Arts, and the other is in the Modern Art Gallery of Rome, Italy, Tozzi, the famous Italian portrait of the purchase of the succession of the missing the succession to the Mitcheli road, thence to find the world, is the verdict of Arturo Toscinnil, leader of the New York Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra. The Countess de Swirsky will appear in a repertory of classic dances at the Grand on Saturday next, night only. The countess carries with her a special orchestra. During her wonderfully successful season last year, as the Premiere Danseuse of the New York Metropolitan and Boston Grand Opera Companies, Countess Thamara de Swirsky, a racted to her the eyes of New York, "400," and was eingaged as a private attraction of that exclusive set in Newport. Mrs. James B. Haggins built a theatre especially for the appearance of Mile. de Swirsky, in which her dancing was the delight of Newport's Millionaire Cottage Colony;

Viola Allen's New Play.

For the first time in three years Viola Allen is touring in a new play, written specially for her by Louis N. Parker, entitled "The Lady of Coventry." It is described as a love romance of the days shortly after William the Conqueror raided Britain, and during the progress of his war of subjugation of the Saxons. Leofric, a Saxon earl, besieges the Castle of Coventry, which is held by Dorothea, a Norman princess. He accomplishes

"Girl From Rector's"

"The Girl From Rector's," a comedy of rather broad humor at times, was the attraction at the Grand last night, drawing a small audience. This play has been here at least three times, and it is not of such a calibre that it can come often and attract people to it. As a result not many theatregoers were in the House. The cast was quite ordinary, none of the principals show:

Big Blaze at Monson. Big Blaze at Monson.

[Canadlan Press.]

Monson, Maine, Nov. 9.—A new gasoline fire engine, put in use for the first time, saved the town of Monson from being entirely wiped out by fire last night. As it was, the greater part of the business section of the village was reduced to ashes, half a dozen families made homeless, and it is feared that one man may have lost his life. He is F. T. Flint, 45 years, a cripple, who lived over a store which was burned. The postoffice and the Masonic block, containing five stores, were among the buildings burned. The loss is estimated at $50,000.
