THE GLOBE AND THE MANUFACTURERS. The Globe is terribly wrathy with the manufacturers of Cobourg because of their alleged i nterference in the West Northumberland election. It first assures them, with the air of one better acquainted with their par-ticular buisnesses than they can possiblybe, that really the tariff is an enquiry to them rather than a benefit, and then threatens them with the vengeance of the farming community should they persist in daring to have opinions on the trade question which do not coincide with those held by the Globe.

In the first place the manufcturers may fairly be supposed to know quite as much of the needs of their own buiness and of the effect which the tariff is having on it as the members of the Globe staff who innecent of all knowledge of manufacturing except the manufacturers of alleged free trade facts. In the second place the figures of elections held since the general election, do not bear out the Globe's assumption that the agricultural portion of the community are they were in 1878. It is all very well to gasconade about "deceived" and "be-" farmers, and "tariff-tortured Canada, " but all the evidence obtainable goes to show that the principle of protection is at least as popular among the farmers now as it was in 1878. If the it could not advance the cause of the Cobden club better than by giving that information to the public. Bald [nnsupported assertion will not do. If it knows the in 1878 and who are now free traders, let the public have the names. For our part nd we have just as good opportunities not believe that the Globe could name a score of such converts among farmers. There is much more and better evidence that the Globe is treacherously desirous of stranding Mr. Blake and his party on the rock on which Mr. MacKenzie made ship

SANTA CLAUS At the Original 7 and 10 Cent Store, No. 213 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Iris Kringle he clauckled with surprise and delight it the many rare things that greeted his sight, its eyes, how they twinkled, much larger they grew, in wonder they feasted on everything new. Then he broke into a laugh, so hearty and true, through the city it echoed, as the night winds blew—50. 213 Yonge, just the place now for me, fy knapsack to fill with those toys that I see!

longer need I, in vain wanderings, go, there I can find the richest of show; thimey is open and down its broad flue enter, good children, and gather for you. Minnie I'll find a dolly so fine, the face made of wax, no beauty it lacks; t Carrie, a tray with saucers and cups, d then she can play housekeeping at once.

And Ella must have a real new china doll, With hair that is red, inclining to curl; And Annie, forgotten never shall be—For her a glass bird to hang in a tree; For Jennie an album or an autograph book For Mary a lamb with its little tail crooked; For Ettie and Lizzie, a brooch or a pin, never can stop when once I begin.

For Julia and Sarah, if early they be, In the morning will find a fine Christmas Tree, Well loaded and filled with nice toys and nice gas So many I never can tell you their names, Noah's Ark for Melissa, For Lucy a cat, For Tommy a horse, for Willie a bat, For Robert a donkey, for Sammie a ball, Fer Jimmie a toy that squeezing will squall.

For Georgie some cattle, for Jeddy a kite, for Baby a rattle, for Godey a pipe, For Oscar a Jew's-harp, for Johnnie a top, For Godfrey a fidle and a new razor strop, For Mark a wheelbarrow, for Edgar a drum, For Otis a wagon and a musket pop-gun, For Harry a magnet, that needles will draw, For Amos a hammer with a little tack claw.

For Ruben a village of houses and trees,
For Clinton a ship that sails with the breeze,
For Roscoe some checkers and dominoes too,
For Martin a flag of red, white and blue,
For Mother a vase of workmanship rare,
Those candlesticks, relieving the mantles so bare
And ladies nice jewelry ever shall wear—
Fine slides and fine brooches for flying the hair.

Come, Torontonians, I'll whisper to you,
That you will save money by buying there too,
No. 213 Younge, 'Tis there that you'll find
Toys for the children. Will you keep it in mind?
To tell you of all that there you will see
Is too heavy a task to place upon me;
But go for yourself and there you will view and the seem of wonders all the way through. Branch Store: No. 8 King Street Wests Hamilton, C. W. Dennis, Proprietor. 6-4-46
