

Methods Of Attracting Tenants

In the remodelling of old buildings, or the conversion of house into shop property in the business area, the question of the gas installation is one for early consideration. If a gas supply, capable of easy adaptation not only for lighting, but for fires, cookers, gas water heaters, etc., is available, the property becomes additionally attractive to tenants. The gas question should be thought out when the estimates and specifications are prepared. Full advice on the subject of gas installation in its several forms, will be freely given, and, where possible, co-operation extended on application to
