White Fang

By JACK LONDON

"Jack London is the apostle of strength and courage. In 'White Fang' he has full play . . . in his chosen field. He has done this work so well that he makes the interest as intense as if he were telling the story of a man."— Globe Democrat.

Illustrated in colors, cloth, $1.50

When Love Speaks

By WILL PAYNE

"One of the most interesting novels ever written on the conflict between law and honesty on one side and the alliance of low politics and high finance on the other. Stirring love story woven in with the fight against an unscrupulous whiskey trust. A fine, clean American story, of interest alike to men and women."— Chicago Record-Herald.

If Youth But Knew

By AGNES and EGERTON CASTLE

"They should be the most delightful of comrades, for their writing is so apt, so responsive, so joyous, so saturated with the promptings and the glamour of spring. It is because 'If Youth But Knew' has all these adorable qualities that it is so fascinating."— Cleveland Leader.

Cloth, $1.50

Disenchanted

By PIERRE LOTI

"Our romantic son of Hercules wields in defence of Liberty a slender, aromatic sorcerer's wand. And his magic has lost nothing of its might. We dare not begin quoting a book of which every page is a picture."— The London Times.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

The Sin of George Warrener

By Miss VAN VORST

"For acute comprehension of human nature both masculine and feminine, and a keen apprehension of a phase of our social conditions, the book is a piece of rare artistry."— Phila. Evening Tel.

$1.50

Her Majesty's Rebels

By SIDNEY R. LYSAGHT

"A story of Irish people that is neither prejudiced nor patronizing. . . . A rare and charming novel . . . racy and convincing."— World.
