The Government, in reply, said that having regard, among other considerations, for the food situation and opinion in America, the Government, while maintaining a supply of beer for heavy manual workers, intended to reduce immediately the tonnage to be used for brewing material. One hundred and fifty thousand tons of barley were taken from the brewers and malsters on March 1, and a further 200,000 tons would be saved yearly by restricting the standard of barrelage and using substitutes which are vastly more economical.

The brewing materials for 1918-19, Mr. Clines added, would be equivalent to 512,000 tons of shipping, compared to 1,500,000 tons early in the war. The brewing material would amount to something less than 3 per cent of the one-fourth of these materials could be recovered in the form of animal food.
