Met to Discuss College Removal Question, But Didn't Want Publicity.

The meeting of the Upper Canada College Old Boys at 49 East Wellington street yesterday afternoon to consider the question of selecting a new site for the college proved to be of a very confidential rature. So confidential in fact that The World reporter was ordered out when he called and members seen afterwards definitely refused to say what transpired at the meeting.

"It's just a confidential meeting among ourselves," said William Gooderham, the chairman, to The World.

"There'll be nothing for the press."

"Very sorry, can't say anything; strictly confidential, you know," said Melfort Boulton after the meeting.

Among those present were William Goodernam. Frank Arnold! Alfred Smith, Prof. Young of U.C.C., James Scott, W. T. Boyd and J. P. Jackson. College Old Boys at 49 East Wellington

Two new arrivals are on the market. They are sugar melons and apricots. So few in number are the melons that no price is quoted, they selling for whatever they bring. The apricots are so far of such a poor quality that considerable trouble has been met in their disposal. Those which were sold brought around 45c a basket.

Sweet sugar corn is coming in slowly from Canadian shippers, and the price realized Saturday was 15c a dozen. The growers' haste to place produce on the market at the earliest possible moment is evidenced particularly in corn. Altho the cobs are almost ripe, they scarcely measure 6 inches in length.

4 LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—The question of the whereabouts of Prince Stanislaus Sulkowski, and his bride of five days, formerly Miss Marie Louise Freese, daughter of a Los Angeles millionaire, has assumed considerable importance as a consequence of the arrival in this city of Mrs. Clara Melcher, a Vienna laundress, who says she was engaged to the titled Austrian.

Mrs. Melcher has appealed to the United States immigration inspectors. It is hinted that the case may come under the federal law prohibiting the importation of women.

GREY REPUDIATES U. S. GENEROSITY

Foreign Minister States That National Line From Winnipeg BRIGHTLY PAINTED England Treated China Equally as Well.

A MIS UNDERSTANDING

England Reduced Small Claims While States Waived a Few Large Ones.

LONDON, Aug. 9,-An extraordinarily outspoken statement on the subject of the Indian opium trade with China is given in an official report published by the British foreign office today as a sequel to a deputation which interviewed Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, and the Marquis of Crewe, lord privy zeal, privately on Thursday, to urge an immediate stoppage of the trades.
Sir Edward Grey indignantly repudiates the suggestion that Great Britain treated China less generously than did the United States in regard than did the United States in regard to the Boxer indemnity.

The Rev. Frederick B. Meyer, who was one of the deputation, had called attention to "The fine position won for the United States by the government in regard to the Boxer indemnity," and said he thought Great Britain ought to have taken similar action.

Sir Edward Grey, whose reply indicated some warmth, told the deputation that there had been a "great misunderstanding" on the subject of the Boxer indemnity. He said:

"The British Government had not been wise in its generation. It had been wise in its generation. It had drawn up large claims against China, but had reduced them pefore presenting them to her. The United States, on the other hand, had presented very large claims, waited till a good deal of them had been paid by China and then waived the rest. This, of course, had given the United States a good had given the United States a good dramatic position, but it reminded one of the landlord who did not reduce his rent when the surrounding landlords reduced theirs and then acquired a reputation for generality by giving reduced theirs and then acquired a reputation for generosity by giving rebates on his rents while the other landlords gave none. I think the real position as to the Boxer indemnity should be better known."

Both Sir Edward Grey and the Marquis of Crewe declined to problint the experts of Indian onton to China. while China itself continued to pro-quee large quantities.

CLIMAX OF DULL CONDITIONS HAS LIKELY ARRIVED

Comment on American Situation by the Financial Post of London-Quietness Expected.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(Special.)—The London correspondent of The Evening Post cables the following comment on financial conditions: Events in this world's financial situation thus far in August have entirely ruiffiled expectations, which were for quiet investment business, a luil in issue of new securities, do. closing of "bear positions," and scarcity of stock on the market, occisioning advance in prices in all departments of the stock exchange. The movement is likely to go further, and will probably last a! least for a month, monetary conductions helping, but possibly the climax of easy has now been nearly reached.

in the next tew days, but the movement is slackening, and Egyptian demands will shortly commence. Turkey is already taking gold, and an enquiry from Berlin for keptember is impending. Present in d'cations, however, suggest that a five per cent. Bank of England rate will be sufficient for the rest of this year.

Meantime, however, the feeling grows that your treasury's extensive proposals to deposit public funds with the interior banks indicates some lock-up of credit on the part of your western institutions, and altogether there is growing a somewhat watchful feeling here regarding your situation. It is always to be remembered that your maturities, this next twelvemonth, of short-term notes, are really extremely large.

This week's sudden and rapid rise in French Government bonds is likely to be slightly misleading. Dealings in that security are dead here, and the rise at Paris represented belated reflection of three weeks' quiet appreciation in the Paris market. The movement, like that it consols, was due partly to removal of acute apprehensions regarding money stringency.

Experienced observers, while consider-acute apprehensions regarding money stringency.

Experienced observers, while considering causes in the general situation of international finance, which justify temporary improvement in stocks, nevertheless fall yet to discover fundamental change in the great permanent factors. The idea is no relapse in trade activity and no relaxation in demands on capital.

Our banking people are impressed with the more favorable comment on the pending banking bill cabled from the best quarters in your market; in particular by the statement that the new bill is in some respects superior to the Aldrich plan. We do not chaltenge the statement, but are simply still ignorant of the precise terms of the bill, which, from not very clear reports, has seemed to have been over-hastily prepared.
