

ment of the room shall admit of a proper exhibition of the Society's stores. It will suffice at present to say that of Coins and Medals, there are 2 of Gold, 105 of Silver, 185 of Copper, and 5 of Bronze, forming a total of 297.

II. THE LIBRARY.

The Council are happy to bear testimony to the zeal shewn by many of the Members, in augmenting this department. The number of Books has been more than tripled. Of these the larger number amounting to 172 volumes has been procured by purchase, the funds being afforded by the appropriation of part of the Legislative grant of 1829, but no less than 47 volumes have been presented as donations, chiefly by a few of the Members, but not unfrequently by other persons unconnected with the Society, yet still desirous of contributing to its success.

The total number of Books procured during the year is 219, which, added to those received during the preceding years, form a total of 365 volumes.

III. MISCELLANEA.

Under the third head, the Council will first consider the number of Members who have, in various ways, withdrawn from the Society, and of those who have been added during the year. This enumeration is of much importance, because, as the funds of the Society are derived chiefly from the subscriptions of the Ordinary Members, any increase or decrease in their number will materially affect the prosperity of the Society. The number of Ordinary Members belonging to the Society and contributing to its funds was, at the last Anniversary, eighty-seven, in which, of course, were not included those who, from absence, were no longer to be called upon for contribution. For several reasons it was considered expedient to divide the class of Ordinary Members into Resident and Non-Resident, the latter being exempted from contribution. The number of Mem-
