funds will be plentiful enough to carry the Lady Byng camp to the end of the season, so Miss H. Dykeman reported yesterday. While a number of further contributions had been received, $300 was still to be raised if the camp was to be carried on until the end of the month. If friends were sufficiently generous it was hoped to have pre-school age chil-dren cared for at the camp after children of school age had returned to the studies.

Everything was reported in splend-did running order at the camp and the children were getting strong and sturdy. Camp benefits have reached 43 up to the present time and the camp has always been kept at capacity accommodation with 29 children under its care. The total weight gain to date is 123 pounds. The shortest period any one child has remained in camp was one week.
