THE NEED FOR SKILLED MEN.

(Toronto News.)
We do not know if the government should authorize its immigration agents to send skilled mechanics to Canada. It seems to be certain, however, that there is now a scarcity of skilled workmen in many Canadian industries, and that the manufacturers and it necessary to adopt exceptional measures in order to increase the supply. The rapid settlement of the west with a consequent increasing demand for the products of Canadian factories, means a proportionate demand for skilled workmen in the industries of older Canada. Organized effort seems to be necessary in order to meet this exceptional condition. Skilled labor is slow to emigrate, and owing to the passing of the apprenticeship system and the regulations of the unions the home increase in the number of skilled workmen is rigidly regulated. Hence it becomes necessary for manufacturers to seek for labor elsewhere. Their industrial expansion is to keep pace with the general growth and development of the country.

Your Liver
You cannot possibly enjoy good health when the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. You must keep the liver active. You must have daily action of the bowels. Ask your doctor if this is not true. Ask him at the same time if he knows a better laxative than Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.
Does only one pill, at bedtime. We have no secret! We publish the formulae of all our medicines. So call agent.

A CANADIAN ATTACHE.

President Roosevelt is credited with the suggestion that a representative of Canada should be stationed at Washington to facilitate business between the two countries. This idea is not by any means a new one, but it is as stated, the proposal now comes from Roosevelt. It will be treated with more serious consideration. The advantages of such an arrangement are obvious, and when one considers the many questions of mutual interest which arise from time to time, the wonder is that the plan was not adopted years ago. The presence of a Canadian representative at the Court of Theodore I. need not infringe on the rights or duties of the British Ambassador. He and his government may still be left to conduct all business of national importance. But there are numerous matters which arise from time to time, and for the settling of which it is absurd to set in motion the cumbersome machinery of the British Foreign and Colonial offices. If Roosevelt wants Earl Grey to go bear hunting, he must under the present system, extend the invitation through the British Ambasador. By that official it is forwarded to the foreign office. That institution passes along to the Colonial Office, and thence it reaches Canada. The answer goes back over the same route, and by the time it reaches Washington the President may be relegated to the shelf of insurance referees, and the bears be dead of old age.

In commerce too, and in fact in every department of international life, there are scores of minor points requiring immediate settlement which do not call for the red tape routine of the ordinary questions of diplomacy, Canada can mind her own business, and where that business does not affect the interests of the empire there is no reason why the mother country should have to step in. When neighborhood children are playing house they do not send for their mothers to decide which one shall be the hostess and which the visitor, or what subjects shall be taken up in conversation.

An Ottawa despatch says that the federal government is not at present prepared to establish such an office at Washington as is mentioned, one of the reasons being that the person who could occupy the post would have to be possessed of the unusual qualifications, and at the same time be in no slight. If the government decided to create the office, it might not be hard to find the man.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND TIMBER TROUBLES.
Newfoundland is again excited over the disposal of timber limits. A year or two ago the "Harnsworth deal" has been a lot of talk, and within the last few weeks another sale has created something like panic among small millowners. It appears that a long stretch of wooded land on the south coast has been practically given away to a few friends of the government, who promptly sold it to outside operators at a profit of some eighty thousand dollars on an investment of six hundred. The right to cut within the three mile shore limit was, as usual, reserved by the government for the benefit of fishermen, but it happens that there is no timber in this three mile strip suited to the needs of the people. Again about fifty small mills have been in operation along the coast, all of which depend for their supply of logs on the property recently sold.
The owners of these had repeatedly applied for leases of limits but never received them. The situation now is that these millmen will either close up, at a heavy loss, or else submit to whatever terms the new owners of the timber may see fit to impose.

OIL NOT A SUCCESS.

Oil has long been advocated as a remedy for the dust nuisance, but the experience of Newport, the fashionable watering place, will not tend to make this method more popular. Oil was sprinkled on one of the principal avenues there a short time ago, and it certainly kept down the dust. But with the heat of the sun several peculiar and distinct stenches arose from the roadway, oil-coated dirt was soon flying in all directions, covering the clothing of persons who happened to be out. In addition, the dirt stuck to the feet and ruined carpets and floors in the houses.

President Roosevelt has sent a contribution to Rear Admiral Thomas to assist in conducting suits against all persons who show disrespect to the naval uniform. A number of men from the fleet were recently elected from a dance hall at Newport because they did not appear in evening dress.

OBSERVING THE SABBATH.

He was a solemn man, with an equally solemn and downtrodden wife. The fact that they were receiving an excellent price for their "second pair front" from a lodger did not blind them to their failings.
"Dear me, Mr. Macleod," said the lodgee one Sunday afternoon, when an errand took her to the parlor, where the family sat. "If I should think of Mrs. Macleod good; she looks pale." Mr. Macleod looked at her with his usual stern and unbending gaze.
"We can have fresh air any day," he said, calmly. "We've no need to have it rushing about the house on the Sabbath."

A HARD SUBJECT.

A school teacher one day, during the hour for drawing, suggested to her pupils that each should draw what he or she would like to be when grown up.
At the end of the lesson one little girl showed an empty slate.
"What's that?" asked the teacher. "Isn't there anything you would like to be when you grow up?"
"Yes," said the little girl. "I would like to be married, but I don't know how to draw it."

WORRIED.

"Mother," says the doubting wife, "I do not believe Henry is all that he should be."
"What is wrong with him now, Agnes? A short time ago you were complaining that he stayed out too late of nights. Is he staying out later than ever?"
"No. He spends every evening at home now, and really, that looks to me as though he had something on his conscience."

GOOD EXCUSE.

"Tommy," said the teacher, reproachfully, "why didn't you take your hat off to me when you passed me yesterday?"
"I didn't have my hat on, ma'am," replied the boy.
"Don't tell me that; I saw you."
"I know you seen me, but you didn't see my hat. Dat was me brudder's hat I had on."

TEMPORARY INSANITY.

Hicks—What do you think of that university making Dunley a doctor of laws.
Vicks—O, well, the universities do crazy things sometimes.
Hicks—Yes, and yet they're always supposed to be in possession of their faculties.

HARD LUCK.

Fell—Don't think poor Toby is getting along well in the other world —just look at him when he was alive.
—and now he has had him stuffed and the moths are feeding on him.

AND KEEN.

Joakley—It's funny that so many farmers are swindled by bunco men.
Coakley—Oh, I don't know. Farming isn't calculated to make a man sharp.
Joakley—But to be a successful farmer one has to be sharp as a razor.

NEEDS PROTECTION.

Bacon—I see British shipping passing through the Suez Canal fell off 476,583 tons in 1905.
Egbert—Seems very careless. Why don't they put a railing around the canal.

CAUSE OF LUNACY

Number of Insane in Ireland is Increasing Rapidly, According to Official Report.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A special report of the Inspector of Lunatics in Ireland has been issued in the form of a blue book. It shows that a proportion of the insane to the total population in 1901 was 56.2 per thousand, compared with 15.5 in 1851. The number of patients in public asylums rose from 8,867 in 1850 to 13,222 in 1895, and 18,094 in 1901. There were a proportionate increase in the inmates of private asylums. The figures do not include the insane outside of asylums, which is believed to be considerable.
The inspectors attribute the increase in the ratio of insanity to population partly to the reduction of the latter by emigration of the mentally fit and partly to the return to Ireland of emigrants suffering from mental breakdown. Available statistics do not permit of a definite conclusion as to whether there has been an actual increase in insanity, but the inspectors believe that, but for the emigration of the strong and healthy, the ratio would have been very small. They declare, however, that the Irish are "peculiarly prone to mental breakdown," directing attention to America, where they say the proportion of insane among the Irish is greatly in excess of other nationalities, and pointing out that in Connecticut it is more than double.

In conclusion, the report says that the question of the influence of immigration on the development of insanity has not hitherto received the attention it deserves. There is every reason to fear that a large number of our people crossing the Atlantic in search of fortune in a climate and environment so different from that in which they are accustomed, leave behind them the good humor and peace of mind so happily characteristic of our peasantry, and in the strain and stress of American life, and especially in the struggle for existence, break down physically and mentally. Of the large number who become insane, the vast majority are sent to the asylums in Ireland, while those unable to return and refuge in the lunatic asylums of America.

MYERS GETS SEVENTY-FIVE DAYS.

DORCHESTER, N. B., Sept. 25.—The court, which adjourned some days, was tried, that of King vs. Percy Gregory presiding. The case on the docket, which was held over until today, was tried, that of King vs. Percy Myers, indicted for assault with injury to the person, was tried. The prisoner pleaded guilty to having committed an assault, which was accepted, and he was sentenced to seventy-five days in jail.

TWO A REAL ROMEO

Venerable Bridegroom Visits His Bride of Sixteen Years by a Window.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—When May weds December the result of the little blind game, which generally proves disastrous and the case of F. Gardiner, who at the patriarchal age of seventy-two took unto himself a blushing bride of sixteen, proves no exception to the rule. The venerable bridegroom, in whose ancient heart the dying fire of love and passion has so suddenly sprung to life, was married three weeks ago to the youthful Mary Michael. In the blindness of his infatuation he had forgotten an important factor in the situation, an adult son by a former marriage.

When the happy couple arrived at their home at Chicago Heights after the ceremony they found Herbert, the son, awaiting them, and the first cruel blow was struck at love's sweet dream.
He seized the old man by his flowing whiskers and dragged him around the house, swearing that his aged parent had taken leave of his senses, which, he interpolated, had never amounted to anything anyway. When the unhappy man at last escaped from his infantile offspring he fled with his bride to his room, but his troubles had only begun.

Morning arrived and the couple found that they had been locked into their room. In vain they implored their father through the keyhole to release them. They were told they could crawl out through the window. Fortunately, the window was not far from the ground and the elderly bridegroom succeeded in falling on a flower bed without breaking any bones. He then got a ladder and Romeo-like made his Juliet descend to his loving arms. Juliet, however, at this crisis displayed remarkable powers of generalship. She remarked that if her father would not let them out of the room they had only to stuff the keyhole and he could not get in as long as there was someone to hold the fort. But if both left the room the stronghold could be carried through the windows and they would be homeless. Accordingly, Romeo departed in search of provisions, while Juliet sat by the window with a pail of water to repel stormers.

The gallant garrison maintained the siege after this fashion for two weeks, cautiously watching the movements of the enemy and taking in foraging expeditions. From time to time they would appeal for terms, but to all their overtures the enemy replied with taunts and jeers, standing in front of the window at a safe distance from the pail of water, the only place of ornance the fort possessed, and firing sudden volleys of vituperation on the unlucky defender.

happy defender.

Things were in this stage when relief appeared from the outside, the fort was relieved, the enemy vanquished and an entirely new situation created. The relief force was led by a most vigorous and capable commander, Mrs.
Michael, mother-in-law to the betrothed half of the garrison. The besieger was met and utterly routed with his own weapons. Before the lingual batteries which were brought to bear on him he beat a rapid retreat and was forced to abandon his offensive position and take up the defensive behind the bolted doors of the house. Calling in the aid of the police, the doughy Mrs. Michael next stormed the enemy's retreat and had him cast into a dungeon on a charge of disorderly conduct and using insulting language. The tables were
