

ITALY'S CLAIMS TO DALMATIA AND CONTROL OF THE ADRIATIC MAINTAINED BY SIGNOR CRISPI

Food Administrator in Rome Tells the Herald That Italy Has the Right to Eastern Coast in Order to Protect Her Shore, Exposed to the Sea.

Rome, Jan. 23.—Today two of the highest officials of the Italian government gave me the official theories supporting Italy's claims for permanent possession of Itria and Dalmatia and described clearly the Italian programme for the national future.

At the Food Ministry I met Signor Silvio Crispi, Food and Transportation Administrator. His position here is similar to those of both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Hines in the United States. In private life he is an important manufacturer. He is aiding the government in the war emergency. Indeed, he is of the type of the new, progressive Italy, and he is mixing modern business methods with politics with high success.

Later I talked with Signor Luigi Borrelli, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who may be said to be in charge of the Foreign Office when the Foreign Minister is away.

Signor Crispi declared to me that Italy's shipping losses were, proportionately, higher than those of any other nation during the war and amounted to sixty-two per cent. of the total and worth hundreds of millions of dollars.

"That great sacrifice—no that Italy can ill afford—teaches us a powerful lesson," he said. "Bear in mind, we had throughout the war support from the British, the French and the American navies. Their assistance was considerable, and yet with it all we never even controlled the Adriatic. The Austrians were free to sink our ships and to raid our coasts, while we, with more naval aid than we can expect in the future, were unable to stop them."

Must Control Adriatic.

"Disregarding every other favorable argument, this fact alone shows we have the absolute right, from the standpoint of our national existence, to control of the Adriatic. It has been suggested that we take Avlona across the Adriatic, with Brindisi on the heel of Italy's boot, should form an effective pair of bases to choke the upper Adriatic.

"I will answer that with the plain statement that during the war we did control these points and even tried to seal the sea and other protective devices against the submarine, and yet enemy sinkings and depredations on our coasts continued, even though we had allied naval backing and the lower Adriatic blocked as effectively as any man could blockade it. Still, we could not destroy the Austrian fleet.

"Our war will not be won until we hold what constitutes in other hands an insurmountable barrier against us."

Signor Crispi emphasized the moral effect such possession would have on the Balkan situation. He declared the Balkans caused this war and easily could cause another. Italy, he added, intended fortifying herself against it.

Every Italian, Signor Crispi said, held American ideals as his own, and Americans must know and believe that Italy is not imperialistic, and some persons profess to believe she is. He asserted that Italians only want their brothers back under their national flag, and then they would reduce their army to as small numbers as possible.

Signor Crispi announced the organization of an Italian-American Club, which will have offices in the Palazzo Salviati here, and which will be the Italian counterpart of the Hughes organization in New York city. Every economic, agricultural, scientific and commercial body which is promoting relations or business between the two nations will be represented in it. Also there will be a centralizing agency for mutual inter-relationships.

He said that Italy's greatest need of outside help at this time concerns shipping. The government, he continued, has arranged for $1,000,000,000 backing for ports, ships, roads and general transportation improvements. Just now the nation will aid shipbuilders. However, whatever is ultimately decided upon in working out this program, the help of America and England is essential, he said.

According to Signor Crispi, American ships can be built more cheaply than Italian.

Italy Needs Wheat and Meat.

Referring to the food situation, he said Italy needs frozen meats and wheat. The war depleted the stock of 4,800,000 head of cattle by 2,000,000 of the largest and best. He added that he was trying to overcome the shortage by economizing and expected success within two years. He is restricting the killing of calves and is limiting the consumption of meat to four meals a week.

Signor Crispi discussed at length Italy's water power and fuel questions. One of the most important points he made was that with each forward step in harnessing the mountain power Italy's coal problem was eased. He asserted that the power generated was available not only as a driving but also as a heating force, and that coal, while badly needed, was not so vital as was sometimes represented. He cited the fact that coal production figures have been stationary for ten years, while in that time industries have doubled. He said the northern potential power amounted to 5,000,000 horse power, with only 1,250,000 horse power developed. The government grants concessions for the development of power at the extremely low tax of $1 for each horse power. It is marketable at $200 a horse power. However, after fifty years the property reverts to the government.

Signor Crispi said that a highly interesting arrangement practically has been perfected for absorbing army labor and handling women workers. Italy now is enlarging her long famous intensified agricultural program and with her reduced territory she will have even more field for that work. The program will place most of the women who have been in the factories during the war on the farms while the men leaving the army will

COL. LAWRENCE REMARKABLE MAN

Gave Wonderful Service to the Arab Cause and Was Singled Out for Honors.

London, Jan. 22.—Colonel T. E. Lawrence of the British army, who recently arrived in London with a son of the Sheriff of Mecca to give information concerning the Arab aspirations for independence, is characterized by some London newspapers as "one of the most remarkable men produced by the war."

A fair-haired young Englishman of 23, smallish of stature, Colonel Lawrence gave such services to the Arab cause that he was treated as a sheriff and given the additional rank of major, which is equivalent to that of prince. No other European or Christian, according to the London Daily Mail, has ever received such a distinction at the hands of the royal family which is the senior descendant of Mohammed.

Before the war Colonel Lawrence was a student of history at Oxford. As he was able to speak two Arabian dialects, he was sent by the war office in 1917 to do intelligence work in Egypt. Later he was assigned to aid in the negotiations with the King of the Hedjaz who revolted against the Turks at Medina in June, 1916, afterward joining the Sheriff's military service. He adopted the full Arab kit of flowing robes, headpiece and golden dagger.

With Sheriff Faisal, he planned the blowing up of troops and munition trains on the Hedjaz Hills, and a successful war of their operations that the Turks put a price on their heads of $5,000 each of taken alive, and $15,000 dead.

They blew up seventeen trains, one

TRIBUTE TO MR. ROOSEVELT BY SECRETARY LANE INCLUDED IN REPORT ON PENSION BILL.

"The Idylls, Sagas and Illiads Have Been Woven About Men of His Mould, and We May Expect to See Developed a Roosevelt Legend," He Wrote.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—A tribute to Theodore Roosevelt by Secretary Lane was adopted by the House Pensions Committee today as a part of its favorable report on a bill, which already had been passed by the Senate, granting an annual pension of $5,000 to Mrs. Roosevelt. Secretary Lane wrote the committee that congress had set precedents by granting pensions to the widows of Presidents Polk, Tyler, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield and McKinley.

The committee, unanimously voting a favorable report, declared the Secretary's letter constituted "one of the most beautiful, fair and just tributes to Mr. Roosevelt's life and character it follows:

"The impress that Theodore Roosevelt's personality has made upon the world does not need emphasis. What ever his fame as a statesman, it can never outrun his fame as a man. However widely men may differ from him a great troop train which contained Djamal Pasha, commander in chief of the Turkish army, and his staff. For this Colonel Lawrence lay in wait for nearly three days and nights.

Several trains were permitted to pass in safety. Then came the big one and Colonel Lawrence pressed a button that set off a mine. The two in matters of national policy, this thing men in their hearts would all wish—that their sons might have within them the spirit, the will, the strength, the manliness, the Americanism of Roosevelt. He was made of that rugged and heroic stuff with which legend delights to play. The Idylls and Sagas and the Illiads have been woven about men of his mould. We may surely expect to see developed a Roosevelt legend, a body of tales that will exalt the physical power and endurance of the man and the boldness of his spirit, his robust capacity for blunt speech and his hearty comradeship, his live interest in all things living—these will make our boys for the long future proud that they are of his race and his country. And no surer fame than this can come to any man—to live in the hearts of the boys of his land as one whose doings and sayings they would wish to make their own.

huge engines were toppled into a ravine and the train was wrecked. Djamal Pasha's car near the end was derailed, and the commander in chief was launched into space. Uninjured, he picked himself up from the sand and fled for life, tearing off as he ran his medals, decorations and epaulettes. They were found later and given to Colonel Lawrence.

Merrily goes the great Clearaway Sale, and literally hundreds crowd the store in the afternoon. Pleased as we are at this magnificent show of appreciation of the sale, we would respectfully ask that more shopping be done in the morning—for your own sake as well as our own.

With the concentration of buying in the afternoon, it is impossible for our staff—as large and efficient as it is—to cope with the abnormal situation; and this means that scores must wait their turn for attention.

Hundreds of mighty attractive values are here, so come in the morning if you can possibly make it, and select yours in quiet and we'll serve you promptly.

SEND ANSWERS TO Amherst Pianos, Ltd. 7 Market Square St. John, N. B.

WHY WE DO THIS
The scarcity of Piano salesmen and the enormous salaries demanded by those obtainable, have compelled us to find another method of marketing our Pianos, Player Pianos, Talking Machines and Sewing Machines. This is purely and simply an advertising proposition. Our object is to get in touch with families who do not own Pianos, Talking Machines and Sewing Machines. We want the names of every family in the Maritime Provinces who may be in the market now or in the future for Pianos, Player Pianos, Sewing Machines, and Phonographs. We intend to send every person who enters this contest advertising matter and illustrations of the goods offered for sale.

IT PAYS TO PAY CASH FOR PIANOS, TALKING MACHINES, AND SEWING MACHINES
The one surest, safest and most economical way to buy a Piano is to pay the spot cash at the time of the purchase. If you intend to own a Piano at any future time try your luck at this puzzle. Use your head and take your time. It makes no difference to us who wins this Piano. One man's answer is as welcome and as apt to win as the next. But whether you win or not—remember—the best way to buy anything is to lay down the cash. When you buy from us you buy direct from the factory; no middle man no agents—from the factory to consumer direct—with additional discounts for all cash.

EMPLOYEES OF THIS STORE ARE NOT ALLOWED TO GIVE INFORMATION REGARDING THIS CONTEST
Please do not ask our salespeople for information. Do not call on the phone and inquire about the contest. We have instructed our employees not to answer questions of any character regarding this contest. The directions are plain. Use your own judgment and may the best man win.
