September 30th., 1919.

My dear Mr. King:-

I desire to congratulate you, and more especially so the Government itself, upon your enlarged sphere of activity and usefulness.

Those who have had the pleasure and privilege of being associated with you in the excellent work you accomplished in the United States will appreciate your value in the position you now hold.

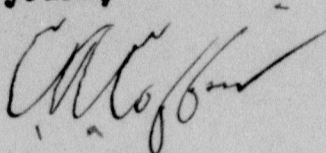

The suggestions and advice which were received from you were of great value to our organization and especially a stimulus to our entire official staff.

Due largely to your efforts here, there was established in this country a new basis for co-operative work between employer and employee, which offers great hope in our future industrial relations, and if widely extended as it should be, and as we hope it will be throughout the manufacturing districts in the United States, will be a good augury for all the future.

I am persuaded that those corporations in this country with whom and for whom you worked will ever have reason to be grateful for the opportunity of profiting by your wise counsel.

With renewed congratulations, I am,

Very cordially yours,

W. L. Mackenzie King, Esq.,
The Roxborough,
Ottawa, Canada.
