Brother Englishmen:

We extend to you a cordial invitation to join our National and Patriotic Society.

Let us be proud of being English wherever we are. Let England and England's flag be the watchwords of the English people, and let these watchwords be learnt by the English child at its English mother's knee, in every English home.

Let us do that, and as long as England lasts the English people will remain a master race, living for the honour and glory of England and maintaining England's honour and glory before all the world.

We solicit your financial aid and sympathy to extend the work among our less fortunate brothers.

EDWIN SMITH, Esq., President.

R. CADWALLADER, Esq., Secretary.

ED. WELD, Esq., Treasurer.
