Act.

Pictures ..... Mrs. Cawthra Herald ..... Mr. Agar Adamson
Miss McMurrich and Capt. Sydney Pearce.

"In Love," by Marcus Stone, R.A.

The picture was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1888.

The costumes are those of the beginning of the century, the lady wearing an Empire dress while the gentleman wears a morning dress of the period.

Miss Violet Smith and Mr. Pelham Edgar.

"A Huguenot on St. Bartholomew's Day,"

Sir J. E. Millais' picture.

The picture was exhibited in the Academy in 1852, and attracted much attention. The painter at that time was not 23 years of age.

Miss Hordon and Mr. Langton.

"The Meeting of Beatrice and Dante," by Henry Holiday.

"I saw coming towards me a gentle lady, who was famous for her beauty; and behind her, as I looked, I beheld coming the marvellous Beatrice. These ladies passed near me thus, one after the other."—Dante's "Vita Nova."

The costumes are Florentine, of the 13th century.

Mrs. Boite and Mr. Johnston.

"The Symbol," by Frank Dicksee.

"The Symbol" was exhibited in the Royal Academy in 1881. It represents a lady and gentleman in Florence. The lady turns to the boughs of an orange tree, clustering about an arch; but the gentle- man's attention is arrested by a humble relic seller, who offers him a cross and a skull.

The costumes are Florentine of the 15th century.

Miss Cawthra and Mr. Adamson.

From Mr. W. L. Orchardson's pictures of Napoleon on the Bellerophon and The Salon of Madame Recamier.

The first picture was exhibited in 1881 and was bought by the Academy for the Chantrey bequest collection.

The Salon of Madame Recamier (in 1885) represents the most famous of Parisian salons during the directory. Diplomats, sol- diers and men of letters, including such people as Lucien Bonaparte, Bernadotte, Mme. de Staél, through the rooms of the celebrated woman.

Mme. Recamier lived to be a great age and died in 1849.

Mrs. Bristol and Mr. Bogart.

Lucrezia Borgia and Caesar Borgia, from A Glass of Wine With Caesar Borgia, by Hon. John Collier.

This picture was exhibited in the Royal Academy in 1893. Lucrezia Borgia and her brother Caesar are seated at a table, while the supposed victim, fearing poison, turns away.

The costumes are Roman of the 15th century.

Miss Beardmore and Captain C. Pearce.

One and Twenty, by S. R. Walker.

The picture exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1891, represents a coming of age in the 18th century.

A lady in a riding habit and three-cornered riding hat of the period, and one of the gentlemen, are represented.

Miss Daisy Pattee.

Two Strings to Her Bow, by Sir John Pettie, Royal Academy.

The picture represents a young lady tripping along a country lane with two rival suitors, one on each side.

The costumes are of the 18th century.

Mr. Beardmore.

From the Hunt Ball, by J. L. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart's Hunt Ball was exhibited at the Columbian Exhibition in Chicago, 1893.

Ladies and gentlemen forming the entour- age of the set.
