man ought to rise in the morning re-freshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is deficient vitality and behind this lies a defici-ent supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body.

There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy, as will Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quan-tity and quality of the blood supply.

THE NURSING MOTHER.

to Defeat the Old Saying, "A Tooth For Every Child." Nursing mothers should take especial care of their direction not simply on account of the child, which, of course, is a good deal, but because of their own comfort and well being. There are many ways in which the system easily suffers at this time, not the least among these being the decay of the teeth. The old saying, "A tooth for every child," is not without a foundation, inasmuch as the teeth are undoubtedly more predisposed to decay at this period of the woman's ex-istence. I believe, however, that this decay is due in large part to an acid dyspepsis developed about this time or earlier in a good many cases and causing an undue amount of acid secretion in the mouth, though in exceptional cases the extra draft on the woman's system may need to be considered.

To prevent this premature decay of the teeth much may be done by correcting the accompanying digestive disturbance and the administration of a good sirup of lactophosphate of lime after meals. In many cases history will show the begin-ning of this indigestion to run back some time before the birth of the child, and of course it were better if our treatment could be instituted then. All healthy mothers should nurse their babies if they possibly can, for both mother and child will be the better for it in the long run. One of the surest ways for the mother to have plenty of milk is to take plenty of milk herself, and it were better if this milk be taken fresh from the cow. All rich, stimulating articles of diet had best be left out of the dietary of the nursing mother. Plenty of bread and butter may be allowed, and breakfast foods, with lean meats once or twice a day; also eggs in moderation. Fried dishes are to be avoided. Meat broths and soups, not too greasy, are usually permissible. A wine-glass of extract of malt drank while eating is often a good tonic.

As directed especially to the indigestion occurring at this time, I would prescribe, to be administered before taking nourishment, a powder each one of which should be composed as follows: Caroid, five grains; bicarbonate of soda, five grains; pepsinated charcoal, three grains. This will be found to greatly assist the diges-tion, the caroid serving also to make good blood through the enhanced assimilative powers. The lime preparation or a pre-paration of hypophosphites can be used in conjunction with this after meals, and both will be medication enough for most cases. The caroid digestive powder may often be used to good advantage to correct any stomach or bowel disturbance in the child by simply giving it to the mother as indicated.—Dr. A. P. Reed in Housekeeper.

An Unbroken Envelope. Those not in touch with the lives of working men and women can scarcely realize what it means for either sex to bring home his or her wage in "an un broken envelope." Saturday night means freedom to spend, a taste of pleasure, a bit of fun. It would lift the estimate of human character if, to those who do not have to measure their income by their labor, it could be told how many thousand lads and tired, bright eyed girls carry to their homes those tight sealed little treasuries to be dispensed for the family good. The sweetheart must wait, the door of the theater remain closed, the coveted new clothes be abandoned, until the rent is paid, the fuel is stored, the younger children clothed and mother kept from worry. The young lives erect them selves like pillars to uphold the roof and stand guard until they can without self reproach pass on to their own homes.

Womanly Items.

As a woman loveth, so is she. Sometimes it is when a woman doesn't talk that she is most interesting.

A serene nature and content are the secrets of beauty.

A girl never wants her engagement announced until she has her solitaire. A woman can use a greater variety of gestures to stop a street car than Delsarte ever dreamed of.

The secret of good dressing 'sa't so much what a woman wears as what she doesn't wear. women's ideas of "equal rights" are all the prerogatives of a man plus the privileges of a woman. A woman may have the most elegant and elaborate paper cutter imaginable, but she generally prefers to cut the pages of her magazine with a hairpin.

Made Over Dishes.

One of the best made over dishes in which cold roast beef figures is this: Slice the meat very thin and make a sauce by browning two tablespoonfuls of butter, adding the same amount of flour and stirring until both are brown. Then add one-quarter of a teaspoonful each of curry powder, mustard and salt and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of paprika. When all have been mixed, add one cupful of stock and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Keep this sauce hot un-til needed and pour it over the cold meat just before serving. Cold lamb or year may be treated in the same manner.-Betty Bradeen in Boston Traveler.

For the Earache.

Earnche, so often common with little children, is a severe pain and is usually accompanied with a sharp scream. The pain is likely to be prolonged and continuous. Twenty drops of warm water should be put into the ear and a poultice of flaxseed applied warm, but not too hot, or the hot water bag may be held against the ear. A good device is to fill the little finger of a kid glove with hot salt and in-sert this in the ear before the heat is ap-plied from the outside.

New England Tidiness. A characteristic story is told of a New Englander and his wife, who live very methodically. One evening at exactly 9 o'clock they went to the kitchen to make the final preparations for the night. "Marthy," said the husband, after a few minutes, "hey ye wiped the sink dry yit?" "Yes, Josiah," she replied. "Why do you ask?" "Well," he answered. "I did want a drink, but I guess I'll git along till the morning."—San Francisco

The manager of a certain matrimonial agency states that he can always tell exactly what will be the first question asked by a girl, a young widow or a widow of uncertain age when a particular individual is suggested as a possible husband. The girl asks, "What is he like?" The young widow asks "What is his position young widow asks, "What is his position in society?" But the widow of uncertain age merely asks, "Where is he?"-New York Commercial Advertiser. Ameer of Afghanistan

The Ameer of Afghanistan, Aburah man Khan, was born about 1830. He has been a very strong man, and held his throne by the power of his sword. During the civil war of 1804 he taok a leading part in support of his father's claim to the throne. He was successful for a time, and won the battles of Shaikhabad and Khelat-i-Ghilzai. But in 1868, his father having died, he was defeated by Takoub Khan, son of Shere All, and took refuge in Russia. He was provided with a residence at Samarcand and a pension, and remained in Turkestan until 1879, when he made his way to the Kabul frontier, and having gained the allegiance of the leading men of that city, he was acknowledged by the British Government as Ameer of Afghanistan It was afterwards seen that his sympathies were more British than Russian. In September, 1893, a British mission, sent with the object of settling British-Afghan boundaries, and so getting rid of frontier disputes, was received with marked cordiality, and an agreement was come to which has since been carried out. His subsidy from the British Government was also increased from twelve to eighteen lakhs of rupees, about $576,000, and he was appointed a G.C.S.I. in January, 1894. in Khan, was born about 1830.

Tea-rooms in London.

Tea-rooms in London.

The opening of "tea-rooms" in London has proved a great success, owing to the fact that domestic help being much more difficult to obtain than in former years, many people take their friends to these tea-rooms in preference to returning to their own houses and giving additional work to their malds. There is a capital opening for such a ousmess enterprise in Toronto, and it is curious that the opportunity afforded has not yet been seized upon. Canadian women, as a rule, are inclined to fight shy of anything like business enterprises in their own country, which is generally supposed to have not yet reached that stage of prosperity which would allow of ideas of this kind proving a success. I hear that in London, England, Miss McCaul, the daughter of the late Dr. McCaul of Toronto, has a most charming photographic studio, where, in partnership wich another Canadian lady, she carries on a most successful business. We have as yet no lady photographe in Toronto, though the opening for such a business is excellent, I believe. tions of the body. You take it, the blood grows richer, redder. French-Canadian Congress According to an article by Monsleur L. K. Laflamme, in The Revue Can-J. L. K. Lafiamme, in The Revue Canadian for August, a congress of all the French-Canadians settled in the State of New York and in the New England States is to be held on the first and second of October next. The objects of this congress are the consideration of the following subjects, in relation to the position occupied by the French race in the United States of America: (1) Beneficent societies, (2) naturalization: (3) education: while the second (1) Beneficent societies, (2) naturalization; (3) education; while the second day is devoted to the matters relating to (1) the situation in regard to religious matters; what it is, reports and statistics; (2) what it would eventually become; (3) measures necessary to improve the present condition of religious affairs. It appears, according to the article by Monsleur Laflamme, that the beneficent societies are federated under the jurisdiction of one organization, the Union of St. John Baptiste of America, and that the establishment of charitable societies under this union has been astonishingly rapid. The work of naturalization is one which, of course, effects their political influence in the States, and the writer remarks that as the numbers writer remarks that as the numbers writer remarks that as the lambers of naturalized French-Americans increase, their position in many regards is rendered more pleasant by the citizens of the republic they have chosen to cast their lot with. And Monsieur Laflamme observes: "The right to vote Dear Sirs,—This is to certify that I has contributed greatly, we believe, to ameliorate our difficulties in regard to religion, even more so than social enigrengion, even more so than social enig-mas." To cite an example, the privi-lege of being able to elect Monsieur Du-buque of Fall River to the Legislature of Massachusetts, was the means of saving our principal of parochial schools, gravely threatened in the schools, gravely threatened in the neighboring State. Consequently the question of "naturalization" has an important place on the programme of the Postal Reform Needed.

A postal reform advocated by The Baltimore News may interest us in Canada. The News refers to the an-Canada. The News refers to the annoyance and confusion caused by the varying rates on different kinds of postal matter. Books, parcels, etc., are carried through the mails at a lower rate than letters; but if any kind of communication is found in them the whole weight is charged at letter rates, and competimes a penalty is incurred. whole weight is charged at letter rates, and sometimes a penalty is incurred. Then there are regulations about leaving book-packages open at the ends, in order to facilitate inspection. All this complicated machinery is devised for what purpose? Simply to avoid the possibility of two cents being occasionally lost to the public revenues. "The amount the Government gets for the purpose weight letters is insignificant. The "The amount the Government gets for over-weight letters is insignificant. The amount it squeezes out of literary workers, who are charged letter postage rates upon manuscripts (when unaccompanied by printers' proofs), is too trifling to be considered. The sole object, therefore, worth thinking of in the maintenance of the distinction between written and other matter is that of setting two cents; instead of one tween written and other matter is that of getting two cents instead of one cent for an ordinary letter." The News says that this object can be attained by the simple regulation that any percel containing a letter shall pay a minimum rate of two cents; but that over that there shall be no discrimination against letters. "Thus, a letter or manuscript would be charged at the same rate as a book; a book, with or without written matter in it, would pay one cent for every two ounces; merchandise in general, whether a written message went along with it or not, would pay one cent for every ounce."

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis ounce."
These are American rates, but we see and Consumption. Numerous are the These are American rates, but we see no reason why the principle should not be applied to Canada. It might be briefly put in this way: "Under one ounce, letter rates; over one ounce, parcel or book rates, in addition to the two cents." As a matter of fact, communications and the support of remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhzone. It cures these diseases because zone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every two cents." As a matter of fact, communications rarely exceed the ounce limit; and if a parcel weighs two or three ounces, what does it matter whether it is a book, a letter or a pair of gloves? The reform would do away with the necessity for writing on envelopes discriptions of their contents, for leaving parcels open at the ends, for deciding to what class a mail backage belongs. It would save work for the shipper and for the postoffice clarks, part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapor. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it eures.
