

TRUSTWORTHY TESTIMONY.

PROMINENT ENGLISH OPINIONS UPON AN IMPORTANT SUBJECT OF GREAT VALUE TO EVERY READER.

The day for pretenders has passed. Men are judged by what they can do, not what they say they can do. The reading public of to-day is too discriminating to be long deceived by the spurious. If an article has merit it will become popular; if it is unworthy it will sink into oblivion. For years the people of England and America have put to the severest tests a compound regarding which most ambitious claims have been made. Under such ordeal as it has been subjected to, nearly every known preparation would have failed, but this one did not. In England and the United States to-day, it is the most widely known and popular of all medical preparations. In verification of which note the following:

In September last, one of the English forerunners of India returned to London, Eng., utterly broken down and delirious from further service by reason of what the examining physicians pronounced incurable kidney disorders and dropsy. He was comparatively a young man, and felt depressed over the situation. Incidentally learning, however, of the existence of Warner's Safe Cure, which has attracted the attention of the medical community, he was thoroughly restored to health, passed medical examination as a sound man, and is to-day discharging his duties as well as ever from the trying climate of India.

J. D. Henry, Esq., a near neighbor of the late Thomas Carlyle, Chelsea, S.W., London, Eng., became very much enervated from continued kidney and liver disorders, the treatment he had sought from the various medical authorities working the only temporary results. He then began the use of Warner's Safe Cure, and on May 15th last, declared, "I am now feeling physically a new creature. A friend of mine to whom I recommended the Safe Cure for kidney, liver and various diseases, also speaks of it in the highest terms."

R. C. Sowerby, Helsenburg, N. B., was obliged to relinquish his professional duties because of a severe kidney and liver complaint. After using a dozen bottles of Warner's Safe Cure he says: "I am to-day better than I have been for twenty years, and I cheerfully recommend the Safe Cure to all who are suffering from kidney ailments."

Mr. Cambridge, Eng., 16 Wellington street, Cambridge, Eng., says that he was thoroughly treated in St. Bartholomew's hospital, London, Eng., for urinary disorders and weakness. He used Warner's Safe Cure and he says: "I am like a new man." It cured him of indigestion, troubles of the bowels, excessive urination and nervous prostration. He adds: "I was taking various medicines for over two years from the best doctors, and all in vain, but after taking Warner's Safe Cure for only four weeks, I was brought from death to life."

Mr. E. Game, 125 Broad street London, W. Eng., suffering for years from female weakness, skin eruptions and impure blood, but after using Warner's Safe Cure, she says: "My health is better now than it has been for years." H. F. West, Esq., 16 Burton Crescent, W. C. London, from his own experience, "strongly recommends Warner's Safe Cure to all persons suffering from kidney and liver complaints, and the best remedy known."

The following persons of quality in London and other parts of England, are a few of the thousands who have used and have commended Warner's Safe Cure, the great specific for kidney, liver, urinary, and female ailments.

Hon. Freeman H. Morse, 8 Park Villas, East, Richmond, Kent. Captain F. L. Norton, Gillingham Villa, Lee Road, Blackheath, Kent. Hon. S. B. Packard, 14 Alexandra Drive, Liverpool.

There is a simple phrase which Americans have not learned to utter as easily and frankly as they do in Europe—the concise words, "I can afford it." I have heard persons of an assured and generous income in England, when asked to spend a sum in pleasure, not provided for in the year's expense, say, "No, I should like to, but I can't afford it," with an ease and frankness impossible to the ordinary American. The American may confess to his family that this or that expense is beyond his means, but he does not like to own to his neighbors that he "cannot afford it."

I saw in Normandy a peasant farmer, a fine looking specimen of a man, driving his great Norman horse to market. He was dressed in a sort of blouse made of blue linen, which he wore all the day. I thought he was a laborer but he was pointed out to me as a rich farmer with a fine looking specimen of a man, driving his great Norman horse to market. It is a beautiful thing to see a man, like everything else that pleases the eye and the taste, if only he does not sacrifice anything to extravagance, and if only we discover that cost is not one of the laws of artistic taste in dress. And anything is in bad taste if it is beyond our means. Many an American might have learned a lesson of a little party I saw last summer on the Thames.

It was a rarely beautiful day in England, quite a gala day on the Thames river, which was full of row-boats and little steamboats which were going up and down. We were a party of three or four in a row-boat which had been from Maidenhead to Marlow, and were from some one that they were going to the river, which we had seen in the pictures of Wales which were hanging on the water just ahead of us. A few minutes after this we came to Harley Lock, which was one of the many locks just shut in some eight or ten boats that were lowered in the lock, we found that our boat had just followed in behind that of the royal party, and that during the fifteen minutes which it would take to open the boat, we could get a good look at them.

There was a dozen ladies and gentlemen in the royal party, and the first and most noticeable thing to our American eyes, was the extreme simplicity of their dress. The ladies, most of them, had on the same dress, both in material and making. The ladies, most of them, had on the same dress, both in material and making.
