Then she said with a little catch in her voice:

"I am unhappy, very unhappy!"
 "I am so sorry," and Faire clasped her hands before her in a way she had when she felt most deeply. "I noticed how sad you looked the first day we were here. What is the trouble? Can I help you?"

Then the story all came out. Teresita was the eldest of seven children and her widowed mother was very poor. The girl had been in school in all about six weeks, and had she stayed on until the end of the term would have received what she called a "certificate," and then might easily have obtained a good position in a shop. But the mother had been ill for several weeks in the winter and unable to do her regular laundry work for the hotel, and the household funds were consequently so low that when Teresita's gown and shoes became too badly worn to appear at school, new ones were out of the question.

"And so," the little maid finished, "I did geeve it all up, and came here. The hotel people furneeesh the clothes but I shall never get here enough wage to help the mother, while if I might have had a posection in a shop I should have earned as much as twenty francs a week. I was so dees-appointed."

Faire looked at pretty, sorrowful Teresita, and then she looked at her silver purse for a moment.

"Don't cry!" she said softly at last. "How much would a new gown and new shoes and the other things you need cost?"

"Fifty francs," Teresita said sadly. "And I shall never earn here so much until I am too old for school."

Faire rose and walked around the chair when the little Italian had dropped down, and suddenly something glittered on Teresita's white apron.

"Oh, but you must not!" the girl cried. "Fifty francs! Madame, the mother, will not like it."

"It is mine," Faire said. "Mother gave it to me for a coral necklace, but I would far rather have you use it, Teresita."

For a moment Faire's straight little American figure in its Peter Thompson suit stood opposite Teresita's little rounded, already stooping form in its uniform of service, and then the two girls suddenly put their arms about each other and Faire felt a soft kiss on her cheek.—Grace E. HECLA FURNACE

And Its FOUR Big Features

The "Hecla" has four exclusive features that have brought it steadily to the front as the perfect warm air furnace.

These improvements are so vital—they mean so much in comfort and health and economy—that every man who is going to put in a furnace this year, should study them in detail.

Fused Joints

are the only permanent joints between castiron and steel. By means of these joints, we prevent gas and smoke from getting in the Air-chamber and from there into the house.

Fused Joints are absolutely and permanently tight, and insure the warm air being fresh, pure and untainted by gas, smoke and dust.

Steel Ribbed Firepot

has three times the radiating surface of any other.

It never becomes red-hot—will not burn out—and will save 1/8 of your coal bill by actual test.

Individual Grate Bars

Each bar can be shaken separately. Fire can be cleaned thoroughly without using a poker or shaking down good coal or live fire.

No clinkers to clog the grate as is the case when bars are fastened together.

Of course, one bar is much easier to shake than four.

Castiron Combustion Chamber

We found out, by careful tests, that steel would not stand the intense heat of the furnace fire. So we perfected the Castiron Combustion Chamber, which has proved its wonderful strength, service and durability.

Our little book "Hecla Heated Homes" tells you a lot of things you ought to know about a furnace, besides the exclusive features mentioned above. Let us send you a copy. It's free. Write.

Send us rough plan of your house—and we will submit estimate of the cost of installing the proper size "Hecla" in your home.
