Dear Sir.—It is alleged that I have said you had and have a man working for you and delivering bread, who had the itch and scabs, and that I made other slanderous remarks. I now say that I have no recollection of having ever uttered or or circulated any such words, but I do not dispute that I did so. The said words are wholly untrue. There is and was no foundation for any such statements. I exceedingly regret that any such words should have been uttered, and I hereby contradict the same and trust that you will accept this apology as the best amends it is in my power to make for the injury and annoyance I may have inadvertantly caused you.

Yours truly,
